MARINE DEPARTMENT.The 1st July 1918.

No. 69 Marine.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 5 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), and with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the Governor in Council of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal is pleased to make the following rules to regulate the transport and importation of explosives, other than those referred to in section 14 of the said Act, in the Port of Calcutta, in supersession of all rules previously made under the said section on the subject by the Government of Bengal.

II. These rules are supplementary to the rules relating to the transport and importation of explosives made by the Governor General in Council and published under the Government of India, Commerce and Industry Department, Notification No. 4013—33, dated the 6th June 1914.

RULES TO REGULATE THE TRANSPORT AND IMPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES IN THE PORT OF CALCUTTA.

1. Definition.—Unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Explosive," as defined in section 4 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884, and as used in these rules,—

(a) means gunpowder, nitro-glycerine, dynamite, gun-cotton, blasting powders, fulminate of mercury or of other metals, coloured fires, and every other substance, whether similar to those above mentioned or not, used or manufactured with a view to produce a practical effect by explosion or a pyrotechnic effect : and

(b) includes fog-signals, fireworks, fuzes, rockets, percussion caps, detonators, cartridges, ammunition of all descriptions and every adaptation or preparation of an explosive as above defined.

(2) It also includes any dangerous substance which may have been ordered by the Governor-General in Council, under section 17 of the said Act, to be deemed an explosive.

2. Except as is hereinafter provided for, no vessel shall have on board, within the limits of the port, any explosives, except two storm or danger signals, six smaller lights of the same description, 24 blue lights, 24 rockets, or 24 socket signals with friction tubes, 24 detonating signals with friction tubes, or in lieu thereof 24 one-pound charges of gunpowder for use in a gun, together with a small box of friction tubes and a flask of priming powder, 24 private signals of any Company, and 12 red lights for each boat and life raft carried under the statutory rules for life-saving appliances (made by the Board of Trade under section 427 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894), and a reasonable quantity of safety cartridges for the equipment of the vessel or for the personal use of the officers on board the ship, provided that the quantities held by them are declared in the prescribed Customs Forms A and B, respectively, or in the case of a foreign vessel, in the Stores List of such vessel. Detonators and their friction tubes to be stored separately. All explosives which vessels are by this rule permitted to keep on board in port shall be stored in all cases in separate, detached and completely enclosed magazines for each description of signals. The magazines should be kept in a house on deck and stowed or ranged as far apart as possible, so that in the event of fire they can be removed or thrown overboard.

3. All inward-bound vessels carrying explosives, in excess of the quantity prescribed by rule 2, are prohibited from proceeding above Budget.

4. Explosives of classes 1, 6 and 7, as laid down in the rules issued under the Government of India, Commerce and Industry Department, Notification No. 4013—33, dated the 6th June 1914 (the Indian Explosives Rules, 1914), that is to say, gunpowder, ammunition and fireworks in excess of the quantity prescribed in rule 2, shall be landed and deposited in the magazine at Moyapore.

5. For the convenience of vessels having ship's gunpowder, ammunition and fireworks on board, a properly constructed powder-boat will be always in attendance off the magazine for landing and shipping these explosives. No charge will be made for the use of the boat for landing these ship's explosives, but the responsibility of the magazine keeper in respect of the ship's explosives shall not commence until they are landed on the bank, and shall cease as soon as they are shipped on board the boat. Every precaution will be taken to insure the safety of the explosives while in the boat, but the landing and shipping shall be at the risk of the vessel.

6. Vessels bringing consignments of trade explosives shall be allowed the use of the magazine powder-boat; but should passing vessels require the use of the boat to put out or take in ship's explosives, such vessels shall be accommodated before the boat can be used to discharge explosives brought as cargo. The landing of trade explosives, whether the station boats or private boats are employed, shall be at the risk and expense of the consignees of the explosives, and no liability shall be accepted for damage sustained while in course of landing or until the consignments are stored in the magazine.

7. Explosives specified in the first division, class 6, of the Indian Explosives Rules, 1911, viz., safety cartridges, safety fuzes for blasting, railway fog-signals, and percussion caps, brought as part of a general cargo and which have been placed on board the vessels while lying in dock at ports of shipment, may be brought into port and landed at the docks or jetties in accordance with the regulations prescribed in that behalf in the Port Commissioners' by-laws.

The term "safety fuze" means a fuze for blasting which burns and does not explode, and which does not contain its own means of ignition, and which is of such strength and construction, and contains an explosive in such quantity, that the burning of such fuze will not communicate laterally with other like fuzes.

The expression "safety cartridges" means cartridges for small-arms of which the case can be extracted from the small-arm after firing, and which are so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges. The term also includes rifle-calibre machine-gun cartridges if they are of the above description, whether they are for use with machine-guns having chambers identical with those of rifles, or with machine-guns which have special chambers.

The maximum diameter at which a small-arm or machine-gun cartridge can be accepted as "safety" is one inch.

8. In order to avoid unnecessary detention, Masters of vessels requiring the use of the magazine powder-boat shall hoist a flag at the fore-topmast head on coming in sight of the magazine, as a signal to the keeper to have the boat and coolies in attendance.

9. Masters of vessels shall mark the names of their respective vessels on the barrels and packages of ship's explosives previously to their being landed; if not marked, they shall not be received by the magazine powder-boat.

10. Explosives shall not be landed within the port or at Moyapore or Diamond Harbour at any time when artificial lights are required to be used, and no explosives shall be landed, received into, or delivered from the magazine when artificial lights are required to be used.

11. The magazine-keeper shall give to the Master of any vessel landing explosives at the magazine a receipt for the number of packages, and the magazine-keeper shall be accountable to such Master for the re-delivery of such packages.

12. Before entering the limits of the port, the Master of every vessel having explosives on board shall make and sign a declaration in writing that to his knowledge and belief there is not on board any explosive exceeding the quantity prescribed in rule 2.

13. A clerk shall be always in attendance in the magazine powder-boat, and shall receive from the Master the declaration specified in rule 12.

14. If any vessel shall be prevented, by stress of weather or by being in distress, from landing or depositing any explosives in excess of the quantity prescribed in rule 2, such vessel may be permitted to come up to the lower limits of the port, but shall not proceed above Matteabrooj Ghât, and the Master of such vessel shall forthwith give notice to the Harbour Master of his having such explosives on board, and shall obey the Harbour Master's directions relating to the same.

15. Masters of outward-bound vessels, who may require ship's explosives for their onward voyage, shall not take such explosives on board in any part of the river above Budge-Budge, with the exception of a quantity not exceeding that prescribed in rule 2.

16. Masters of vessels, who have deposited ship's explosives at the magazine, shall inform the Harbour Master of the date on which the vessel will pass the magazine onward-bound, and on receipt of this information, orders shall be forwarded to the magazine-keeper to place the said explosives in the magazine powder-boat, and send it off in such time as to avoid any detention of the outward-bound vessel. Before taking the explosives on board, the receipt granted by the magazine-keeper shall be given up.

17. Such boats as are approved for this purpose by the Boat Surveyor to the Port Commissioners shall be permitted to take on board at the Moyapore Magazine and bring as far as Prinsep's Ghât, under cover of passes to be granted by the Commissioner of Police in such form as may be prescribed by the Local Government, 500 lbs. of trade gunpowder which is the property of dealers and consignees. For each boat the dealers shall supply an armed guard (pensioned sepoy) whom the Commissioner of Police Calcutta, will select.

18. Delivery of trade gunpowder into boats at the Moyapore Magazine for conveyance to Calcutta shall only be granted upon orders issued by the Port Commissioners.

19. No boat containing gunpowder, in accordance with the provisions of rules 17 and 18, shall be allowed to proceed above Prinsep's Ghât. All such powder shall be landed at Prinsep's Ghât, and no powder shall be landed at any other ghât, except with the special permission of the Port Commissioners.

20. No smoking, and no fire or light of any description except the red lamp between sunset and sunrise, shall be permitted on board of any boat having explosives on board.

21. Masters of vessels having on board explosives belonging to the following classes, as laid down in the Indian Explosives Rules, 1914, shall make their own arrangements for the discharge of the explosives :—

- Class 1—Compressed gunpowder for blasting purposes.
- „ 2—Nitrate Mixture.
- „ 3—Nitro Compounds.
- „ 6—Detonators.

Explosives of the classes 2 and 3 shall not be landed at the Moyapore Magazine, except such small-arms nitro-compounds as by their nature and composition are suitable for use only in the loading of safety sporting cartridges and are not intended for or suitable for blasting purposes. They shall only be allowed to enter and pass through the port under the supervision of the police and subject to such restrictions as may, from time to time, be ordered by the Commissioner of Police and the Port Commissioners, in addition to the restrictions laid down in the Indian Explosives Rules, 1914. But they may be landed at Diamond Harbour and conveyed thence by rail to a magazine declared suitable by the Government of Bengal under rule 24 of the said rules; provided they are taken direct from the vessel to wagons; or if there be no wagons ready to receive them, arrangements are made for their safe custody after discharge from the vessel.

As regards explosives of the classes 1, 3 and 6, intended for despatch up-country, they may, as an alternative, be discharged at Moyapore and transported under police guard from Moyapore to the Bengal-Nagpur Railway siding at Bowreah and there loaded into Bengal-Nagpur Railway wagons for despatch to a magazine declared suitable by the Government of Bengal under rule 24 of the Indian Explosives Rules, 1914; provided the transport is covered by a pass to be granted by the District Magistrate of the 24-Parganas and the loading is done during day-light and no storage is allowed on shore or in boats; provided that, when unavoidable, storage in boats may be allowed for a period not exceeding 36 hours.

22. Boats containing explosives of the classes specified in rule 21 may anchor at Diamond Harbour if it is intended to land the explosives at that place, but shall, in no case, anchor within port limits, or be made fast at any part of the river-bank or alongside any vessel, stage, jetty, or pier within the limits of the port. Such boats, if allowed to enter port, shall proceed direct through the port to the place licensed by the Local Government for the landing and storage of the explosives.

23. Whoever contravenes any of the provisions of rule 2, 3, 4, 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19, 20, 21 or 22 shall be punished with fine which may extend to the amount mentioned in the proviso to section 5 (3) of the Indian Explosives Act, 1881.

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the making of regulations for altering the terms of paragraph (a), (b), (c) or (d) of sub-section (1) of section two of the Military Service Act, 1916.

(2) If any person, with a view to preventing, hindering, or postponing—

- (a) the calling up of himself or any other person for any form of military service or for any medical examination as to his fitness therefor; or
- (b) the operation of any notice duly given for the purpose of so calling up any person; or otherwise in connection with any proceedings before any tribunal or other body established for the purpose of dealing with applications for or relating to certificates of exemption, makes or connives at the making of any statement, whether oral or in writing, which is false or misleading in any material particular, he shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months with or without hard labour.

(3) If any question arises in any legal proceedings under the Reserve Forces Acts, 1882 to 1907, or any orders or regulations made thereunder, whether any certificate of exemption has been withdrawn or has otherwise ceased to be in force, the court may require the holder of the certificate to give evidence on the question, and if satisfactory evidence is not given to the contrary the certificate shall be deemed to have been withdrawn or to have otherwise ceased to be in force.

(4) It shall be the duty of any man holding a certificate of exemption, if the certificate has been withdrawn or has ceased to be in force, or if, in the case of a conditional certificate, the conditions on which the certificate was granted are no longer satisfied, forthwith to transmit the certificate to the local office of the Ministry of National Service for the area in which the man is registered under the National Registration Acts, 1915 and 1918, with a notification that the certificate has been withdrawn or ceased to be in force, or that the conditions are no longer satisfied, as the case may be; and if he fails without reasonable cause or excuse to do so he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

(5) A man who holds a certificate of exemption (other than a certificate of exemption from combatant service only), or in respect of whom an application has been duly made for the grant or renewal of a certificate of exemption, shall not be liable for service with the colours while the certificate is in force or until the application has been disposed of, as the case may be, but notices served for the purpose of the Reserve Forces Acts, 1882 to 1907, shall not be deemed to be invalid on the ground only that they were served before any such man became liable for service, and any such man may at any time be required to present himself for medical examination or re-examination.

(6) Every person to whom a certificate of exemption shall be granted by a tribunal after the thirtieth day of April, nineteen hundred and eighteen, shall, unless the tribunal by which the certificate is granted otherwise direct, be liable on being so required in such manner as may be prescribed by Order in Council to join the Volunteer Force and remain a member of that Force for the period during which the certificate remains in force, and shall, during that period, attend such drills, undergo such training and undertake such military duties as may be so prescribed.

5. The Military Service (Conventions with Allied States) Act, 1917, shall have effect as if for references to the Military Service Act, 1916, and to the Military Service Acts, 1916 and 1917, there were substituted references to the Military Service Acts, 1916 to 1918, and this Act, and, in the event of this Act being extended to Ireland, as if for the reference to Great Britain there were substituted a reference to the United Kingdom, and the Military Service (Conventions with Allied States) Act, 1917, shall apply accordingly, subject to the modifications aforesaid and to such other modifications as may be prescribed by Order in Council made under this Act.

6. Any Order in Council or proclamation made under this Act may be revoked or varied by any subsequent Order in Council or proclamation made in the like manner and subject to the like conditions.

7. Every Order in Council made under this Act, other than an Order in Council made in pursuance of section one thereof, and every proclamation so made, shall be laid before each House of Parliament forthwith, and if an Address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament, within fourteen days after the Order or proclamation is laid before it, praying that the Order or proclamation may be annulled, His Majesty in Council may annul the Order or proclamation, and it shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything done thereunder.

8. (1) This Act may be cited as the Military Service (No. 2) Act, 1918, and shall be construed as one with, and be included among the Acts which may be cited as the Military Service Acts, 1916 to 1918.

(2) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the expression "certificate of exemption" means any certificate of exemption from military service granted or renewed, whether before or after the passing of this Act, to any man belonging to the Army Reserve.

(3) The enactments specified in the Second Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of that schedule:

Provided that, without prejudice to the general application of section thirty-eight of the Interpretation Act, 1889, with regard to the effect of repeals, the repeal of the said enactments shall not affect any obligation whatsoever incurred by any man to whom section one of the Military Service Act, 1916, or section one of the Military Service Act, 1916 (Session 2), applied.

IMPORT AND EXPORT REGULATIONS.

The 22nd June 1918.

No 5140.—The following list of restricted imports, issued by the War Trade Board of the United States of America, is published for general information:—

LIST OF RESTRICTED IMPORTS NO. 1.

The 23rd March 1918.

Under the power conferred upon him by the Trading with the Enemy Act, the president, on February 14th 1918, issued a proclamation which required an import license for all articles from all countries. The chief purpose of this was to enable this Government to eliminate less essential imports to the end that tonnage might be conserved, and additional shipping be made available for the transportation of troops and supplies to Europe. Similar steps have been found necessary by the other allies, and England particularly has found it necessary to impose most drastic import restrictions in order to most effectively devote her shipping to the successful prosecution of the war.

For many weeks past, a corps of specialists have been giving the closest study as to the manner in which this import restriction would be exercised so that the greatest saving could be accomplished with the least injury to our ordinary commercial activities. The question was still further complicated by the earnest desire of this Government to affect as little as possible the Industry and Commerce of the countries associated with us in the war, and to work as little hardship as possible to neutrals. The question involves close co-operation with the Shipping Board and consultation with the State Department, the Treasury Department, the Food Administration, and other Branches of the Government, as well as the War Trade Board, within whose Province falls the actual administration of the control. As a result of these deliberations, the War Trade Board through its Bureau of Imports publishes the first list of Restricted Imports.

Applications for license to import the articles appearing on the list will not be granted except under the following circumstances:—

- (1) When the articles mentioned are actually shipped from abroad prior to 15th April 1918.
- (2) When coming by rail from México or Canada when the goods in question originated in those countries or in others from which such goods are being licensed for import.
- (3) When coming as a return cargo from European points and then only (a) when coming from a convenient port, (b) when loaded without delay and (c) when the importation from Europe is not specifically prohibited in said list.

In the future, therefore, applicants for licenses to import articles mentioned in the list will be obliged to show in their applications the existence of such of the facts above outlined as will warrant the granting of such licenses. In the case of shipments from European points, the most satisfactory evidence will be proof that shipping space has been actually engaged. The present form of application for Import license will generally be found adequate for this purpose, and where this is not found to be the case, a letter setting forth the additional facts should accompany such application.

The United States Consuls have been instructed not to issue consular invoices on and after 15th April 1918, for the articles mentioned in the list without first being furnished with the number of the Import license or being given other evidence of the issuance of such license. Shipping agencies are also advised not to accept for shipment consignments of the articles mentioned in the list without similar evidence of the issuance of the Import license. This applies only to the articles mentioned in the List. No proof of the issuance of the Import license for articles not so mentioned is to be required either by consuls before issuing consular invoices, or shipping agencies in accepting freight. It will devolve upon importers, therefore, to advise their shipper abroad by letter or cable, of the number of their Import license so that such shipper will be able to furnish the same to the consuls and the shipping agencies. This will mean that Importers must be diligent in applying for Import licenses a sufficient time in advance of the shipment so that the number of the Import license may be communicated abroad in ample time.

It should be borne in mind by importers that the publication of this List in no wise relieves them of the necessity of applying for license to import articles not on the list, as all commodities require an import license except such as are now permitted to be imported under general licenses.

The following is the list of restrictor Imports, No. 1:—

The dates appended to various prohibitions are those of Orders of Council imposing or amending those prohibitions since the Royal Proclamation of 10th May 1916. Where no date appears it may be assumed that the prohibition stands as it did on the 10th May 1916.

List E (page 980).—Goods specially prohibited by Royal Proclamation of the 13th March 1917, as amended by Orders of Council of the 10th August 1917, and the 27th November 1917, to be exported to Switzerland. The goods in this list are consignable to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique. It must be understood, however, that all goods mentioned in the General List, pages 962—979, are prohibited to be exported to Switzerland whether mentioned in List E or not. Goods mentioned in the General List but not in List E are not consignable to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique.

List F (page 988).—Goods specially prohibited by Royal Proclamation of the 29th September 1917, to be exported to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

Orders of Council issued subsequently to the date of this list are published in the "Board of Trade Journal," which may be obtained either directly or through any bookseller from the undermentioned branches of H. M. Stationery Office:—

London: Imperial House, Kingsway, W. C. 2.

Cardiff: 1, St. Andrew's Crescent;

or from Messrs. E. Ponsonby, Ltd., 115, Grafton Street, Dublin.

The attention of exporters is drawn to the fact that various articles marked B or C may, in view of the percentage of copper contained in them, be subject to the Copper Prohibition (List A). (See "Copper.")

This list cancels all similar lists issued by the War Trade Department prior to 19th April 1918.

Application must therefore be made to the War Trade Department for licences to export goods which fall within the aforementioned copper prohibition on account of the quantity of copper contained therein. Such applications should always indicate clearly the actual quantity of copper and/or copper alloys the goods contain.

LIST F.

Goods of every description [other than (1) printed matter of all descriptions, and (2) personal effects accompanied by their owners], whether mentioned in the foregoing lists or not, are prohibited from export to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland in accordance with the Royal Proclamation of 29th September 1917.

In this connection attention is drawn to the following reprint of a notice which appeared in the Public Press of the 4th October 1917.

The Director of the War Trade Department calls attention to the Royal Proclamation of September 29th, 1917, prohibiting the export, as from October 8th, 1917, of all goods (with the following exceptions) to Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Holland :

1. Printed matter of all descriptions (which will remain subject to the censorship regulations).
2. Personal effects accompanied by their owner.

It is not proposed immediately to refuse all consideration of applications for the grant of licenses for the export of goods which have not hitherto been prohibited from export to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Holland, but which now become prohibited under the Royal Proclamation in question. Exporters are warned, however, that the continuance of this arrangement must not be counted upon. The special arrangements in regard to the export of goods to Sweden, notified in the announcement issued by the War Trade Department on August 18th, 1916, are withdrawn as from October 8th, 1917, Sweden being thus placed on the same footing as the other Scandinavian countries and Holland. This order also applies to articles consigned by parcels post.

Application for renewal shall be made to the Public Debt Office or to the treasury in which the bond is registered for the payment of coupons, and the bond must be presented with the application. No fee shall be charged for the renewal of a Bearer Bond.

2. The loss or destruction of a Bearer Bond or of coupons or of both shall be notified in the first instance, by letter addressed to the Public Debt Office, Calcutta direct, or in the case of a bond standing on the books of the Public Debt Office, Bombay or Madras, through the Public Debt Office concerned. With every such letter there shall be forwarded the following documents, namely :—

Name of the Advertiser.....

Residence.....

4. Where a Bearer Bond is reported to be lost or destroyed, and the coupons are in the possession of the person claiming to be the owner of the bond and coupons, the Controller of Currency, if satisfied that the bond has been lost or destroyed, may, after the expiry of six months from the last date of the advertisement prescribed in rule 3, direct the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, to issue to the claimant a duplicate bond with coupons and to pay the amount of any coupons which may be due, upon the execution by him of a bond of indemnity with two sureties, should the same be deemed necessary, for twice the value of the bond lost or destroyed, and on the surrender by him of the unpaid coupons of the original bond.

5. Where both a Bearer Bond and its coupons are reported to be lost or destroyed, the Controller of Currency, if satisfied that the bond and coupons have been lost or destroyed, may, on the expiry of two years from the last date of the advertisement prescribed in rule 3, include the particulars of the lost or destroyed bond and coupons in a list of lost Bearer Bonds and coupons. No payment shall, however, be made on the lost or destroyed bond or coupons, nor shall a duplicate bond with coupons be issued, until six years have expired from the date of the first insertion in the list. Thereafter the Controller of Currency, if he sees no objection, may direct the Public Debt Office to issue to the claimant a duplicate bond with coupons and to pay the amount of any coupons which may be due (or if the bond is of a terminable loan which has fallen due for redemption, to pay the amount of the bond and of any coupons which may be due) upon the execution of a bond of indemnity with two sureties, should the same be deemed necessary, for twice the value of the bond and twice the value of the coupons due for payment. The Controller of Currency may, if he thinks fit, extend to twelve years the period of six years mentioned above.

6. Where the coupons only of a Bearer Bond are reported to be lost or destroyed, the Controller of Currency, if satisfied that the coupons have been lost or destroyed, may, on the expiry of two years from the last date of the advertisement prescribed in rule 3, include the particulars of the coupons in the list mentioned in rule 5. No payment shall, however, be made on the coupons, nor shall a duplicate bond with coupons be issued until six years have elapsed from the date of the first insertion in the list. Thereafter the Controller of Currency may, if he sees no objection, direct the Public Debt Office, on the surrender by the claimant of the original Bearer Bond, to issue to him a duplicate bond with coupons and to pay the amount of any coupons which may be due on the execution of a bond of indemnity with two sureties, should the same be deemed necessary, for twice the amount of the coupons due for payment. The Controller of Currency may, if he thinks fit, extend to twelve years the period of six years mentioned above.

7. The list referred to in rules 5 and 6 shall be advertised half-yearly in the Gazette of India, in the months of January and July or as soon afterwards as may be convenient. All Bearer Bonds and coupons, the inclusion of which in the list has been directed by the Controller of Currency, shall continue to be advertised every half-year until the expiry of six years from the date of first publication or from the date of the last payment of a coupon, whichever is the later date. The list shall contain the following particulars, viz., the number of the lost Bearer Bond, its value, the dividend numbers and dates of the lost coupons, the name of the loan, the name of the claimant for a duplicate, and the date of publication of the list in which the Bearer Bond was first mentioned.

8. The indemnity bond referred to in rules 4, 5 and 6 shall be in such form as may be prescribed by Government. No fee will be chargeable if a bond does not exceed the amount of Rs. 500, but on bonds for higher amounts a fee of Rs. 5, for every Rs. 1,000, or a part thereof, shall be charged, provided that no fee for any one indemnity bond so issued shall exceed the amount of Rs. 31.

If, however, the Controller of Currency considers that the circumstances of the case demand that a bond shall be specially prepared by the Government Solicitor, a fee of Rs. 32 shall be payable to that officer.

9. Particulars of lost or destroyed Bearer Bonds in respect of which an order is made for the issue of a duplicate under rule 4, as also of the bonds or coupons referred to in rules 5 and 6, shall be advertised half-yearly in the Gazette of India. The bonds or the coupons shall be included in the first list published next after the passing of such order and shall continue to be advertised every half-year until the expiry of six years from the date of their first publication. The list shall contain the following particulars, viz., the number of the bond, the name of the loan to which the bond relates, the value of the bond, the dividend numbers of coupons relating to the bond, the name of the claimant for a duplicate, and the date of publication of the list in which the loss or destruction of the bond or the coupons was first mentioned. The loss or destruction of the bond or the coupons or both must also be specifically indicated in each case.

Bills Introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees presented or to be presented in that Council, and Bills published before introduction in that Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

BENGAL LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 932L., dated the 5th July, 1918.—The following Bill was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 3rd July, 1918, and is hereby published for information, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto:—

BILL

further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in the manner hereinafter appearing; VIII of 1885.

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under section 79, sub-section (2), of the Government of India Act, 1915, to the passing of this Act; S. & G. Geo.
5, a. 81

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment No. 2) Act, 1918.

Amendment of section 74 of Act VIII of 1885

2. Section 74 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 VIII of 1885. (hereinafter called the said Act); shall be renumbered as sub-section (1) of section 74, and after the said sub-section the following shall be added, namely:—

“(2) All impositions upon tenants of road cess or public works cess, or of both,—

(a) in excess of the net amount prescribed by section 41 of the Cess Act, 1880, or

(b) on any scale in excess of that prescribed by clause (3) of that section.

levied in addition to the actual rent, shall be illegal, and all stipulations and reservations for payment of any such excess contained in any contract made between a landlord and a tenant on or after the 13th day of October, 1880, shall be void:

Provided that, subject to the provisions of section 72 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, no suit shall lie for the recovery of anything paid before the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment No. 2) Act, 1918, on account of the impositions referred to in sub-section (2).”

IX of 1872.

Amendment of section 75

3. In section 75 of the said Act,—

(1) after the words “in excess of the rent” the words “or road cess or public works cess” shall be inserted; and

(2) after the words “lawfully payable, may” the following shall be inserted, namely:—

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER the provisions of section 41 of the Cess Act, 1880 (Bengal Act IX of 1880), the amount payable on account of road and public works cesses by a cultivating raiyat to the person to whom his rent is payable is one-half of the full rate. When the Cess Act was first introduced in 1871, Government took the exceptional precaution of issuing a proclamation pointing out how the payments of raiyats were to be calculated, and informing them of their liabilities and rights. In 1885 it was brought to the notice of Government that it was a common practice of zamindars to recover from their raiyats the full amount of the road cess and public works cess payable to Government in respect of their estates. A notification was again published for the information of all persons concerned that the amount payable with his rent on account of road and public works cesses by any cultivating raiyat is only one-half of the full rate of such cesses. In I. L. R. 33 Cal. 688 it has been held that cess does not come within the definition of an abwab contained in section 74 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), as it is not an imposition on the tenant by the landlord in addition to the rent but a tax imposed by Government, and that therefore a contract to pay more than the proportion payable by the tenant under section 41 of the Cess Act is not illegal. Recent inquiries have disclosed the fact that the limits laid down in section 41 of the Cess Act are being ignored on the authority of the High Court's rulings. On grounds of public policy it is desired to amend the law so as to bring it into consonance with the intention of the framers of the Cess Act, 1880.

2. The object in view is sought to be attained by an amendment of section 74 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, providing that all impositions upon tenants, of road and public works cesses, in excess of the limits prescribed by section 41 of the Cess Act, 1880, in addition to the actual rent, shall be illegal, and that all contracts to pay more than the prescribed proportion made later than the 13th October, 1880, the date on which the Cess Act came into force, shall be void. Consequential amendments have also been made in section 75 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

3. The proposed amendment will not affect contracts entered into by the holders of permanent mukarari leases, who will still be subject to the provisions of section 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

4. Provision has been made that no suit shall lie for the recovery by tenants from their landlords of cess paid before the date on which the Bengal Tenancy Act will be amended.

J. W. GUNN,

Assistant Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

CALCUTTA, the 1st July 1918.

NOTIFICATION.

BABU BRAJAMOHAN DUTT'S PRIZE FOR INDIAN LADIES FOR THE YEAR 1918-19.

THE following subject has been selected for "Babu Brajamohan Dutt's Prize" of Rs. 45 for the year 1918-19 :—

Domestic sanitation—as an important branch of learning for ladies

The conditions for the award of the prize are—

- (1) That the competition be open to all educated women, being natives of Bengal, without regard to age.
- (2) That the prize of Rs. 45 be given for an essay to be written either in Bengali or Sanskrit.
- (3) That the essays be sent to the Central Text-book Committee for adjudication within six months of the date of advertisement.
- (4) That each essay be accompanied by a written declaration from the husband, parent, or guardian of the competitor that, to the best of his belief, she has received no assistance of any kind, direct or indirect, in writing the essay.

Candidates are requested to send their essays not later than the 31st December 1918 to the Secretary to the Central Text-book Committee, Office of the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, 8, Dalhousie Square, Calcutta. The envelope containing the essay should be superscribed "Brajamohan Dutt's Prize Essay." The name of the successful competitor will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

A lady who wins the prize in any year is not debarred from subsequent competition, and if the essay submitted by a competitor who has been previously successful is adjudged to be the best, the name of such a competitor will be published in the Gazette as the winner of the competition. The actual prize will, however, in these circumstances, be awarded to the competitor whose essay is adjudged to stand next in order of merit, provided that her essay comes up to the standard required by the next clause.

If none of the essays come up to a standard which is, in the opinion of the examiners, adequate, no prize will be awarded.

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. In this section the expression "arbitrator" includes any person by whom a claim for compensation is to be settled in accordance with the provisions of the Second Schedule to the said Act.

Power of arbitrator to allow claim for compensation in certain cases of illegal employment. S. 10, s. 10

Goods marked (C) to All Destinations in European and Asiatic Russia and in other Foreign Countries in Europe and on the Mediterranean, except France and French Possessions, Italy and Italian Possessions, Spain and Portugal, and to all Ports in any such Foreign Countries.

The dates appended to various prohibitions are those of Orders of Council imposing or amending those prohibitions since the Royal Proclamation of 10th May, 1916. Where no date appears it may be assumed that the prohibition stands as it did on the 10th May, 1916.

List E (page 1159).—Goods specially prohibited by Royal Proclamation of the 13th March, 1917, as amended by Orders of Council of the 10th August, 1917, and the 27th November, 1917, to be exported to Switzerland. The goods in this list are consignable to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique. It must be understood, however, that all goods mentioned in the General List, pages 1141 to 1159, are prohibited to be exported to Switzerland whether mentioned in List E or not. Goods mentioned in the General List but not in List E are not consignable to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique.

List F (page 1167).—Goods specially prohibited by Royal Proclamation of the 29th September, 1917, to be exported to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

Orders of Council issued subsequently to the date of this list are published in the "Board of Trade Journal," which may be obtained either directly or through any bookseller from the undermentioned branches of H. M. Stationery Office:—

London: Imperial House, Kingsway, W. C. 2.

Cardiff: 1, St. Andrew's Crescent;

or from Messrs. E. Ponsonby, Ltd., 115, Grafton Street, Dublin.

The attention of exporters is drawn to the fact that various articles marked B or C may, in view of the percentage of copper contained in them, be subject to the Copper Prohibition (List A). (See "Copper.")

* This list cancels all similar lists issued by the War Trade Department prior to 21st May, 1918.

Application must therefore be made to the War Trade Department for licenses to export goods which fall within the aforementioned copper prohibition on account of the quantity of copper contained therein. Such applications should always indicate clearly the actual quantity of copper and (or) copper alloys the goods contain.

the Port Health Officer or Port Sanitary Inspector. If the patient has not been removed by his friends to hospital, the police will arrange for his removal. The Sanitary Inspector shall visit the vessel or boat without delay and carry out the necessary disinfection.

13. Should the Health Officer consider it necessary, the Deputy Commissioner of Port Police shall provide a guard for any infected vessel, whether she be lying at Meteabruj on arrival or in the port proper.

14. The Master of every vessel is responsible for seeing that his vessel is kept in a clean and sanitary condition. Ships' privies may be used in the stream and at the jetties, but not in the docks. When the flushing system is disarranged, provision must be made for hand-flushing (tub and tin) each time the privy is used; otherwise the privies should be kept locked and use made of over-side privies.

15. The Master of every vessel in the stream, or in the docks, is responsible for seeing that ashes and galley refuse are not allowed to accumulate or remain for more than 48 hours. Any failure of the conservancy system as affecting ships should at once be reported to the Port Health Officer.

16. If a death occurs on board any vessel before she reaches Saugor, the body shall be buried in a depth not less than 5 fathoms in such manner as to secure its sinking at once and remaining below water.

17. If a death occurs after passing Saugor, and the vessel is not likely to reach Calcutta the same day, the body shall, with the permission of the Magistrate at Diamond Harbour, be disposed of at that place. If the vessel is likely to arrive at Calcutta the same day, the Pilot shall telegraph particulars to the Port Health Officer, who in turn shall inform the police. The body shall be kept on board until the Health Officer has determined the nature of the disease and has made arrangements, through the police, if necessary, for its removal.

18. If a death occurs from any cause on board a vessel within port limits, i.e., between Budge-Budge and Cossipore, during the day, the ensign and house flag, if there is one, are to be immediately lowered half-mast and kept in such position from sunrise to sunset as long as the body remains on board; at night one red light is to be hoisted at the peak half-mast. The occurrence of death shall be reported immediately to the Port Health Officer, who shall arrange for the disposal of the body as herein provided.

19. On the occurrence of a death on a vessel the Port Health Officer should be informed immediately. If the vessel carries a medical officer that officer shall certify as to the cause of the death. If there is no medical officer, the above certificate shall be given by the Port Health Officer.

20. When the Medical Officer of the ship or Port Health Officer is unable for any reason to give a certificate as to the cause of death, the police shall be immediately informed by the Medical Officer or the Port Health Officer, as the case may be, and asked to arrange for a post-mortem examination.

21. In the case of death due to an accident the Master of the vessel shall report the occurrence immediately to the nearest police-station.

22. A dead body shall not be removed from the vessel until the certificate prescribed in rule 19 has been granted by the officer responsible for the same.

23. The police shall be responsible for the removal of a dead body only when (a) post-mortem examination is necessary, or (b) the body is unclaimed.

Accidents.

24. On the occurrence of an accident on board a vessel, the Master, or person in charge, shall give immediate intimation to the nearest police-station. The police will arrange for the removal of the case to hospital by ambulance.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

In the Resolution of the Government of India, in the Home Department, No. 2884, dated the 10th December 1917, it was announced that the Governor-

General in Council, with the approval of the Secretary of State for India, had decided to appoint a Committee—

- (1) To investigate and report on the nature and extent of the criminal conspiracies connected with the revolutionary movement in India.
- (2) To examine and consider the difficulties that have arisen in dealing with such conspiracies and to advise as to the legislation, if any, necessary to enable Government to deal effectively with them.

The Committee met under the presidency of Mr. Justice Rowlatt of the King's Bench Division of His Majesty's High Court of Justice, and included the following members:—

The Hon'ble Sir Basil Scott, Kt., Chief Justice of Bombay.

The Hon'ble Diwan Bahadur C. V. Kumaraswami Sastriyar, Judge of the High Court of Madras.

The Hon'ble Sir Verney Lovett, K.C.S.I., Member of the Board of Revenue, United Provinces.

The Hon'ble Mr. Provash Chandra Mitter, Vakil of the High Court of Calcutta.

Mr. J. D. V. Hodge, I.C.S., Bengal, acted as Secretary to the Committee.

2. The Committee have now submitted their report accompanied by a volume of appendices, informing the Government of India at the same time that they are doubtful whether the matter contained in the supplementary volume is suitable for publication as it reproduces literature of a very inflammatory character. The Government of India have examined the report carefully and decided to publish it with a few omissions which are marked by asterisks. These are made solely in the public interest and do not in any way affect the arguments of the Committee and the conclusions which they have reached. For the reason given by the Committee it has been decided to withhold from publication the volume of appendices. It is manifestly inexpedient that the pernicious matter which it reproduces should obtain publicity; the miserable history of sedition in India has all too often shown, and the report amply testifies, how the seeds of violence are first sown, especially in the enthusiastic but inexperienced mind of youth, by access to the literature of anarchy and crime.

3. The report which is unanimous, is based largely on an enormous mass of intricate documentary evidence, and gives a full and concise account of the origin and growth of revolutionary conspiracy in India, while the ramifications of the movement, and the inter-connection of its varying phases in different provinces, are traced with admirable clearness and precision. In conclusion the Committee submit their recommendations regarding the steps required to meet the difficulties that have arisen and these will now be taken into consideration.

4. In announcing the publication of the report the Governor-General in Council takes the opportunity of expressing his high appreciation of the labours of the Committee, and of the manner in which the results of their investigations have been presented.

- (ii) providing for boats in the flood-affected area to give shelter to the villagers at the time of high floods;

(b) Noni Gopal Sen Gupta, who had suffered from religious delusions since his childhood, was reported to have developed suicidal tendencies in March, 1917. In September, 1917, he was released from jail and domiciled with his father-in-law under the Defence of India Rules.

(c) Ratan Singh was reported to be showing signs of insanity in June, 1916; he was released from jail and sent to his home.

(d) One other State prisoner has been under observation.

Détenus—

- (a) Priya Sankar Sen was arrested on the 27th March, 1916. In April, before orders had been passed in his case, a report was received from the jail authorities that he showed signs of madness. Orders of internment were never, therefore, issued and he was released. Subsequently, under orders of the Additional District Magistrate, 24 Parganas, he was sent as a lunatic to the Berhampore Asylum.
- (b) Dasarathi Mukherji was interned in his own home in September, 1916; a year later a local practitioner, under whose treatment he was, submitted a certificate that he was suffering from neurasthenia caused in his opinion by worry and sexual excess, and this had affected his brain. His relatives declined to send him to a hospital, but he was released from domiciliary orders.
- (c) Nibaran Chandra Chakrabarti was interned in June, 1917. A month later it was reported that he had become insane after an attack of fever. He was domiciled with his relatives but at the end of August he was reported to have developed into a dangerous lunatic; the orders under the Defence of India Rules were cancelled, and he was dealt with by the District Magistrate under the Lunacy Act.
- (d) W. T. Floyd, who was interned at Kalimpong, was recently reported to have developed religious mania and was sent to an Asylum for treatment.
- (e) Khemendra Dastidar, who was interned in June, 1917, in the Rajshahi district, recently developed religious hallucinations; he was then domiciled under the care of his relatives.

Besides these persons named Mohendra Chandra Das, who was detained under the Ingress into India Ordinance, has been declared insane and sent to the Berhampore Lunatic Asylum.

(ii) One State prisoner, Rasik Sarkar, committed suicide recently in the Rajshahi Jail. Two détenus, Surendra Nath Kar and Hari Charan Das, committed suicide while interned; the facts of their cases have already been given in Council.

(iii) No State prisoners have died of disease. The following détenus have died during internment:—

- (a) Keshab Lal Dey, died of typhoid fever.
- (b) Jatindra Chandra Roy and Dharendra Mohan Mukherji, died of cholera.
- (c) Sarada Kanta Mitra, died of fever.
- (d) Manindra Nath Sett, died of phthisis."

Are the Government considering the advisability of having the Bengal Village Self-Government Bill, which was introduced into this Council in March last, translated into Bengali, and of distributing the translation amongst the members of the Village Panchayats?

Publication and distribution of the Bengal Village Self-Government Bill in the vernacular.

(a) Are the Government aware that it has been reported that cases have occurred of people committing suicide owing to their inability to purchase cloth?

Alleged cases of suicide owing to inability to purchase cloth.

(b) Have any inquiries been made into the truth or otherwise of these reports?

(c) If so, will the Government be pleased to publish the results of these inquiries?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) Inquiries have been made in Howrah, Midnapore and Bakarganj into specific cases which were reported in the Press. Only one case has been authenticated. It is reported that one Nur Bux, of Keoradagi, in Bakarganj, hanged himself on the 23rd March because he was unable through poverty to purchase clothes for his wife. In the other cases, the reports which appeared in the newspapers proved on inquiry to be unfounded."

(a) Are the Government aware that no Hindu, belonging to the district of Noakhali, has been appointed to the Provincial Executive Service since the nomination system was introduced?

Appointments to the Provincial Executive Service from Hindus in the district of Noakhali.

(b) Are the Government also aware that there have been suitable and qualified Hindu candidates from Noakhali who could have been appointed to these posts?

Questions and Answers.

(c) Are the Government aware of a feeling of dissatisfaction amongst the Hindus of Noakhali on the ground that they have not hitherto received any share in appointments to the Provincial Executive Service?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of issuing orders that in future the claims of the Hindu community of Noakhali may be considered and that the rules prescribed by the Government for "securing a fair share of appointments to each important section of the community" may be given effect to?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) Yes.

(b) No Hindus belonging to the district of Noakhali have been nominated by the Commissioner for the Provincial Civil Service since 1905. Four candidates have been nominated for the Subordinate Civil Service, and three have been given appointments. The same minimum qualifications are prescribed for both services.

(c) Government have no information on the point, but no definite principle that appointments must be allotted in rotation by districts has ever been admitted.

(d) This question and answer will be communicated to the Commissioner, but the Hindu population of Noakhali cannot be regarded as a separate section of the community for the purposes of the rules which, subject to the due representation of various classes in the public service, contemplate the selection of the best candidates in the division, irrespective of the particular districts from which they come."

Bazar.

(a) Are the Government aware that there are no pasture lands in the villages adjoining the reserved forests in the Cox's Bazar subdivision in the district of Chittagong?

(b) Is it a fact that the inhabitants of those villages are all agriculturists and tenants of the Government khas mahal?

(c) Are the Government aware that from the 19th September, 1916, to the 29th May, 1918, 572 persons have been convicted in the Cox's Bazar subdivision for allowing their cattle to enter the reserved forests and for entering the forest for gathering fuel for domestic use, and that out of them 529 persons have been sentenced to an aggregate fine of Rs. 4,485-2 and 43 persons suffered rigorous imprisonment for different periods?

(d) Are the Government considering the advisability of setting apart a sufficient quantity of pasture land in every village in the Government khas mahal in Cox's Bazar subdivision, free of charge, for the grazing of cattle?

(e) Have the Government considered the advisability of removing the present boundary lines of the reserved forest towards the interior of the forests and of keeping a sufficiently large space of land for grazing purposes between the villages and the reserved forests?

(f) Are the Government considering the advisability of issuing passes for the grazing of cattle and for the gathering of fuel in favour of families instead of individuals?

(g) Are the Government also considering the advisability of issuing free passes for fuel for home consumption to such poor people as are unable to pay the prescribed rate?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" (a) There are certain villages in the Cox's Bazar subdivision of the Chittagong district for which sufficient pasture ground is not available outside the reserved forest. In such cases the villagers are authorised to graze cattle in the forest on taking out the prescribed passes.

(b) The inhabitants of these villages are mostly agriculturists and tenants of the Government estate.

(c) Between the 19th September, 1916, and the 29th May, 1918, 88 persons were convicted of offences in connection with the pasturing of cattle or buffaloes in the forest reserve; 2 were imprisoned and 86 were fined Rs. 1,380; 91 persons were convicted for the illicit removal of firewood, of whom 3 were imprisoned and 88 were fined Rs. 529; 382 persons were convicted for illicit removal of bamboos and timber and for other breaches of forest regulations.

(d) to (g) The charges for grazing cattle and cutting firewood in the Chittagong reserved forests are already very low. An annual payment of 12 annas entitles a cultivator to graze 6 cattle in the forest and to take firewood for his domestic use. No further concessions appear to be called for in regard to the grazing of cattle and removal of firewood."

(a) Is it a fact that the Kutubdia détenus, who have been tried by the Special Tribunal at Chittagong, on several occasions petitioned various Government officials for redress of grievances in respect of water-supply, irregularity of payment of allowance, want of winter clothing and other matters?

The case of the
détenus.

Questions and Answers.

(b) Is it a fact that in April last, on their way back from Calcutta, they were subjected to ill-treatment and oppression?

(c) Is it a fact that on previous occasions they had been ill-treated by constables?

(d) Is it a fact that certain instructions, which the accused in what is known as the "Char Lawrence case" had written out for their Counsel, were intercepted by the police?

(e) What action, if any, have the Government taken in the matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a), (b) and (c) The détenus domiciled at Kutubdia have not submitted any representation to Government on the matters referred to. They have from time to time brought certain alleged grievances to the notice of the local officials, who have inquired into them. These grievances have been repeated in a recent trial and have been examined by the Tribunal, who have found that there is no real substance in them. If responsible and properly authenticated statements are furnished regarding the allegations contained in (b) and (c), doubtless a more specific reply can be given if need be, after inquiry into any such charges.

(d) and (e) It is understood that when the defence pleaders interviewed in jail the accused referred to and obtained their instructions for their defence, they requested the accused to send their written statements. These statements were sent by the assistant jailor with the escort in a cover addressed to the court sub-inspector for the Superintendent of Police, whose duty it is in the ordinary course to censor all letters written by the accused before despatch. The court sub-inspector received the cover, and after reading the assistant jailor's covering note, sent the papers to the Superintendent of Police for his orders. The Superintendent of Police at once passed them and sent them back to the Court, but the defence pleaders declined to receive them. The procedure was in accordance with the present routine, and Government do not propose to take any action in the matter."

(a) Is it a fact that the Guru-Training School of Sarail has been transferred to Brahmanbaria?

(b) If so, what is the reason for the transfer?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state the estimated expenditure involved in the transfer?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY :—

"(a) No. The school has been removed temporarily to Comilla and will be transferred to Brahmanbaria when the buildings required have been constructed.

(b) The transfer has been decided on for the following reasons. The school at Sarail was built for only 20 gurus and has no accommodation for the head master, whereas under the scheme for guru-training schools approved by Government there should be class and hostel accommodation for 40 gurus besides quarters for the head master. The site at Sarail is moreover small, there being not enough space for drill, while extension is impossible. (b) Are the Government also aware of a strong feeling that if the abolition of the Kasba chauki be considered unavoidable, the present mutilated area of Kasba should be transferred to the Sadar subdivision in preference to Brahmanbaria or to the new subdivision proposed to be opened?

(c) What decision, if any, has been arrived at on this question?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of consulting public opinion on this question before taking any final steps?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. DUVAL :—

(c) No decision has been reached; the views of the High Court and the public are awaited.

(d) The views of the public on the scheme for the opening of a new subdivision in the Tippera district were invited in the Government memorandum No. 2707 P., of the 4th April last. (d) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the desirability of instructing District Officers to take such steps as may be deemed advisable to put a stop to the practice?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR:—

"(a) to (d) The custom of charging a small discount for changing either notes for larger amounts or silver rupees, unfortunately prevails in regard to notes generally, although doubtless in respect of notes of so small a denomination as one rupee it especially hits the poorer classes. There have also been reports as to the unpopularity of recent issues of small denominations, and possibly they are not yet circulating freely. (a) Are the Government aware that a large portion of last season's jute crop still remains in Northern Bengal owing to the scarcity of railway wagons caused by the transfer of Eastern Bengal Railway stock to other lines?

Transport of the jute crop of Northern Bengal.

(b) Are the Government aware that the available storing and assorting accommodation is almost wholly taken up at the present time by stocks of old jute awaiting transport?

(c) Are the Government aware that large quantities of jute still remain unsold in the hands of the cultivators who, having already missed their market owing to the absence of transport facilities, are still unable for the same reason to realize their holdings at even half the rates obtained in other parts of the province where transport difficulties have not been so pronounced?

(d) Are the Government aware that unless the bulk of these stocks is cleared before the end of next month accommodation will not be available for the harvesting and marketing of the new crop?

Questions and Answers.

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state what action, if any, they have taken or are taking to relieve the situation?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

“(a) and (b). The facts are as stated.

(c) Government are aware that in Northern Bengal large quantities of last year's jute are still in the hands of cultivators or small traders, and that the price obtained for jute in Northern Bengal has generally been lower than that obtained in Eastern Bengal. The inferior price is due partly to the inferior quality of the jute and partly to difficulties of transport.

(d) Government are aware that if existing stocks are not removed during August and September, there will be difficulty in storing the new crop.

(e) Steps are being taken to relieve the situation by the following measures :—

(i) the provision of a larger number of broad gauge wagons on the Eastern Bengal Railway,

(ii) the provision of improved facilities for carrying jute by rail to Fulchari Ghat and thence by steamer to Calcutta.”

(a) Is it a fact that the post of the Government Pleader of Noakhali fell vacant some time ago by the death of Babu Bankim Chandra Bose?

(b) Is it also a fact that Babu Jashodakumar Ghosh, B.L., Vakil of Noakhali, officiated in the above post during the absence on leave of the said Babu Bankim Chandra Bose and for some time even after his death, and that he was a candidate for appointment to the post?

(c) Is it also a fact that Babu Jashodakumar Ghosh officiated in the post on a previous occasion after the death of Khan Bahadur Buzlal Rahim, the then Government Pleader, until the appointment of Babu Bankim Chandra Bose to the same post?

(d) Is it also a fact that Babu Jashodakumar Ghosh acted as pleader on behalf of the Government on several other occasions in connection with important civil suits during the incumbency of the late Khan Bahadur?

(e) Is it also a fact that on the present occasion, although the District Magistrate recommended the confirmation of Babu Jashodakumar Ghosh in the post in which he was already officiating, one Babu Hitalal Guha, a Vakil of the Calcutta High Court of five years' standing, has been permanently appointed to the post?

(f) Is it not a fact that ordinarily local men are appointed to such posts?

(g) Are the Government aware that in such cases the public are always in favour of the appointment of local men having knowledge of local conditions and some experience of the legal profession?

(h) Is it not a fact that Babu Jashodakumar Ghosh is a native of the district and has been practising at Noakhali for about fifteen years and has one of the largest practices there?

Abolition of the chauki at Nabinagar.

(b) Is it a fact that there is a proposal before the Government to abolish the chauki at Nabinagar and to remove one of the courts from there to Brahmanbaria and the other to Comilla?

(c) If the answer to the above is in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state the reasons for the proposed abolition of the chauki in question?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. DUVAL:—

"(a) One of the Munsifs' courts then sitting at Muradnagar was removed to Nabinagar in the year 1882, the grounds for the removal being congestion at Muradnagar and the desire of the people of Nabinagar to have a munsifi near at hand.

The second Munsif's court at Nabinagar, which was established later, was not transferred from Muradnagar.

(b) There is no such proposal before Government. Government have, however, asked the advice of the High Court as to the changes, if any, in civil court jurisdictions which will be desirable in the event of a new subdivision being created in the district of Tippera.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the area under cotton cultivation in Bengal, its annual output and quality? Cotton cultivation in Bengal.

(b) Is there any truth in the statement that Dacca cotton was very abundant in the 18th century and was of a superior quality?

(c) Have the Government considered the question whether the cultivation of cotton will pay in this province and, if so, what steps are they taking for introducing cultivation in suitable areas?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) The estimated area under cotton in Bengal in the year 1917-18 was 71,230 acres,—nearly all in the hill areas of the Chittagong Hill Tracts and of Hill Tippera; a very small area being also sown in Bankura and Midnapore districts. The estimated outturn was 18,854 bales of 400 lbs. The cotton is of short staple, the climatic conditions being unfavourable to the production of cotton of first-rate quality.

(b) The cotton grown in the north of Dacca district in the 18th century is stated by Dr. Roxburgh in Flora Indica to have been more abundant and of better quality than the cotton which is grown now. Innumerable attempts have been made since the middle of the 19th century to grow long-stapled cotton in Bengal; but every attempt in the plains has so far been a failure.

In view of the uncertainty of a market for jute and rice, are the Government considering the advisability of issuing instructions for the cultivation of any other crop, in addition to jute and rice, which may be of national importance during the war and also of benefit to the agriculturists?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. KERR :—

“Government have called for opinions with a view to considering the desirability of encouraging a more extensive cultivation of (1) cotton with a view to facilitating local manufacture of cotton goods, and (2) rabi food crops with a view to diminishing the need for import by railway.

Regulation of traffic in the northern part of the town.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether the Commissioner of Police has organised a traffic police to regulate the traffic in the northern part of the town, especially in the Barabazar, Jorabagan and Kumertolly sections?

(b) Are the Government aware that the obstruction of roads continues without any abatement, carters and others unnecessarily leaving their carts and goods for long periods on the streets and foot-paths without the slightest regard for the public convenience?

(c) Are the Government also aware that this is done in the presence of the beat constables, who complacently allow the obstruction to continue?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is not possible to employ mounted police or some superior staff of officers to see that the beat constables do their duty?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to the question which he put on this subject at the meeting of this Council held on the 13th December, 1915. Since then the Commissioner of Police has prepared a scheme for traffic police throughout the Calcutta Police District; but the scheme, which necessarily entails a large increase of force and considerable expenditure, is being withheld until financial conditions improve and until the Commissioner is able to recruit up to the strength already sanctioned.

(b) There is no doubt that considerable obstruction of roads takes place in the northern part of the town in spite of prosecutions. Without widening the roads and providing suitable cart spaces the portions of the town specially referred to will invariably be obstructed, no matter what steps the police take to regulate traffic.

(c) No. A large number of cases are sent up against persons responsible for causing obstruction: the majority of these are reported by the beat constables.

Questions and Answers.

(d) It is not possible to employ any extra staff for supervision owing to the financial stringency and the shortage of men, both Indian and European. The staff of patrol sergeants in this part of the town has, however, been kept at its full strength, somewhat to the detriment of work elsewhere."

(a) Is it a fact that the Inspectors of Police attached to the Shampukur, Jorabagan, Burtola, Barabazar, Jorasanko and Sukeas Street thanas in Calcutta are required to attend daily to hear the report of the Deputy Commissioner of Police, Northern section, at Jorabagan at 10 A.M. and that they have to wait there till about 3 P.M.?

Alleged waste of time by the Inspectors of certain thanas attending to hear the report of the Deputy Commissioner.

(b) Is it a fact that a report of all cases is made once to the Assistant Commissioner, Northern Division (Town), between 10 A.M. and 12 noon and once again to the Deputy Commissioner, Northern Division, between 1 P.M. and 3 P.M.?

(c) Are the Government aware that a good deal of time is thus spent by a large number of police officers and that they find themselves considerably handicapped in their investigation work?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of modifying the present system of hearing reports?

(e) Are the Government aware that Sir Frederick Halliday, Messrs. Bignell, Showers, James, Barnard, Sir John Lambert and other Commissioners of Police, Calcutta, heard reports of all cases of all the thanas, in Calcutta and suburbs, in a room (with open doors) at Lal Bazar in which the public, the friends and relations of accused persons, as well as the lawyers, had always an access?

(f) Are the Government aware that the public and even the friends and relations of accused persons are not allowed an access to the report room of the Deputy Commissioner of Police at Jorabagan, where he hears reports of cases with closed doors?

(g) Will the Government be pleased to state the reasons which have led to a departure from the old practice of hearing reports?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) The officers in charge of the police sections named are required to attend at Jorabagan at 10 A.M. for reports on those days on which they have cases to put up. It is not a fact that they are detained till 3 P.M. daily.

(b) No. The Deputy Commissioner only hears those cases in which it is necessary for him to pass orders of remand or discharge. He does not hear those cases which are sent up at once to the Magistrate or comparatively unimportant cases which are under inquiry.

(c) and (d) Some time is spent by police officers at reports which might otherwise be spent in investigation, but orders have been issued by the Commissioner of Police that not more time than is absolutely necessary is to be spent at reports. The arrangements in force are designed to secure this object, and Government do not propose to fetter the discretion of the Commissioner of Police in the matter.

(e) It is not a fact that reports of all cases of all police sections of the town and suburbs were heard by the Commissioners named at Lal Bazar, but these officers heard reports of important cases at Lal Bazar under the conditions described.

Mohini Mohan Samanta.

(a) Is it a fact that the father or elder brother of Mohini Mohan Samanta petitioned the Government to allow the widowed sister of the détenu to live with him in order to look after his health and nurse him?

(b) Has the petition been granted?

(c) If not, why not?

(d) Is it a fact that he was granted an allowance of Rs. 40 per month, and that subsequently the same was reduced to Rs. 30? If so, will the Government kindly state the reason?

(e) Is it a fact that the Civil Surgeon of Suri recommended that he might be sent to the Medical College at Calcutta for examination? If so, was it done? If not, will the Government kindly state why the Civil Surgeon's recommendation was not carried out?

(f) Is it a fact that the Civil Surgeon reported that the détenu was suffering from nervous debility and recommended that he should be sent to a healthier place and that in consequence he was removed from Birbhum to Char Lawrence?

(g) Is Char Lawrence a healthy place?

(h) Is there any truth in the statements that he made before the Special Tribunal that when he went to Char Lawrence on the 8th April, at about 2-30 P.M., he found the house had been converted into a privy; that he could not clear it out himself and so he could not live there; that he had nothing to eat on the day he arrived; that on the next day he took chira; that on the way from the shop he found Sarat Sen, Inspector, in a room surrounded by other détenus; that he peeped from outside and that as soon as Sarat saw him he asked him to come inside; that he told him that he had not taken rice on the 8th and also on the 9th; and that Sarat then asked him whether there were no other arrangements?

(i) Were these statements challenged in Court? If not, why not?

(j) Is it a fact that Mohini was removed from Char Lawrence on the 8th April last and that he had no rice on the 8th as well as the 9th?

(k) Is it a fact that he was subsequently prosecuted on a charge of taking his meal on the 10th April with another détenu, named Sudhir Kumar Roy?

(l) Is it a fact that the written instructions of Mohini to his Counsel were seized by the police and that Mohini complained before the Special Tribunal that the police seized them in order to prepare their case?

Questions and Answers.

(m) Is it a fact that Babu Upendra Lal Ray, from his place in the Special Tribunal, observed that he saw the papers had been kept for one hour at least and that the Court Inspector read them before offering to hand them over and that the Inspector was reading them in Court?

(n) If the answer to clause (m) be in the affirmative, will the Government kindly state—

(i) why,

(ii) under whose instructions, and

(iii) under what authority

the police seized the instruction papers of Mohini and other under-trial prisoners before the Special Tribunal at Chittagong?

(o) What steps are the Government taking to prevent the interception of instruction papers of détenus and other accused persons in future?

(p) Do the Government propose to send back Mohini to Char Lawrence after his term of imprisonment is over?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a), (b) and (c) The father of Mohini Samanta petitioned that his widowed sister might be allowed to live with his son and nurse him. The petition was refused because there was no necessity for nursing, and it was considered undesirable that his relatives should live with him.

(d) His allowance was reduced from Rs. 40 to Rs. 30 on his transfer to Birbhum, as the Magistrate reported that Rs. 40 was excessive having regard to the cost of living in that district.

(e), (f) and (g) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the communiqué issued by Government on the 5th May, 1918.

(h), (i), (j) and (k) These questions presumably refer to the second trial of Mohini Samanta. Government have no information that any such allegations were made by Mohini Samanta; on the contrary, the judgment of the Tribunal specifically states that "the accused made no statement as regards the facts and did not cross-examine." The judgment also states, "These police officers have also proved that there was no excuse for accused behaving as they did, as they were well provided with all necessaries or could obtain them without any difficulty.

(l), (m), (n) and (o) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to clauses (h), (i), (j) and (k).

(p) The question of the treatment of Mohini Samanta on the conclusion of his sentence has not yet arisen."

(b) Is it a fact that these vacancies were filled up by Hindus, though there is not a single Muhammadan clerk in the office?

(c) Is there a rule which requires that at least one-third of the appointments in a Government Department should be filled up by Muhammadans?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state the reason why the posts were not given to Muhammadans?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. COWLEY:—

"(a) Yes, the first in September, 1916, and the other in March, 1918.

(b) No; it is incorrect to say that there is not a single Muhammadan clerk in the office.

(c) The Circular to which the Hon'ble Member evidently refers lays down that the proportion of one-third is the standard to attain which special efforts should be made.

- (ii) that the boys were given the alternative of either applying for transfer certificates or of being rusticated, with this further condition that even if they adopted the former course the column under the heading "Conduct" would be filled up with the remark "Unsatisfactory;"
- (iii) that the boys agreed to apply for transfer but wanted a few days' time to send for money from their home, but the Head Master refused to grant them time and immediately struck their names off the school register and ordered them not to attend school from that date; and
- (iv) that a few days before the boys were so expelled the Hindu boys of the school were going to stage a drama, "Prithwiraj," that the Muhammadan boys, considering that the staging of the said drama would be hurtful to Muhammadan feelings, petitioned the Collector of the district to intervene, and that on their petition the Collector stopped the staging of the drama?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they approve of the action taken by the Head Master?

(c) If not, what steps are they taking in the matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY :—

" (a) (i) The two students in question were rusticated by the orders of the Managing Committee of the Rangpur Zilla School, and not of the Head Master. A copy of the orders is placed on the table.

(ii) A copy of the proceedings of the meeting of the Managing Committee held on the 1st May, 1918, is laid on the table.

Buildings for
Department.

- (i) the places where buildings have been constructed in Bengal (excluding Calcutta) for the Police Department during the period April, 1912, to March, 1918;
- (ii) the cost of the building in each case;
- (iii) the purpose for which each such building is intended; and
- (iv) how many of such places contain registration offices and how many of such registration offices are located in separate buildings?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR:—

"The Hon'ble Member apparently desires a comparison between the amounts spent in recent years on buildings in the Police and Registration Departments. The total figures were as follows:—

		Police Department.	Registration Department.
		Rs.	Rs.
1912-13	...	9,05,135	50,544	}	Actuals.
1913-14	...	13,17,844	49,353
1914-15	...	16,83,706	86,855
1915-16	...	10,06,246	29,757
1916-17	...	7,79,247	33,016	}	Budget estimate.
1917-18	...	17,21,000	41,000

Buildings may vary from large to small projects and may be of any description. The figures include the amounts spent on buildings for the Calcutta Police, separate figures for which are not immediately available. In order to supply the detailed information asked for by the Hon'ble Member, it would be necessary to make inquiries about a large number of buildings of different kinds in various districts, and Government consider that the expense and labour involved would be incommensurate with the results to be obtained."

proceedings in Mymensingh.

With reference to my unstarred question No. XVI of the 14th March last, will the Government be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of mahals in the district of Mymensingh in respect of which diara proceedings have been completed, initiated or are contemplated, respectively, and the aggregate area of lands which are to be assessed to revenue as compared with the total approximate area of the revenue survey manzas in the district;
- (b) the number of diara proceedings in the district of Mymensingh in which—
 - (i) the zamindars concerned have taken settlement without protest;
 - (ii) the zamindars have taken settlement under protest;
 - (iii) settlement has been made with third parties upon refusal by the zamindars; and
 - (iv) the zamindars have succeeded in establishing their title, either wholly or partially, to the lands in dispute as belonging to their permanently-settled estates?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) Diara proceedings have been initiated in 386 mahals in Mymensingh district, and completed in 91 mahals.

It cannot be stated in how many mahals such proceedings are contemplated, because the number is not ascertained before proceedings are initiated.

The area of the lands likely to be assessed to revenue is 30 square miles, and the approximate area of the revenue survey mauzas in the district is 6,400 square miles.

(b) As a diara proceeding involves more than one mahal, and the zamindars of all mahals included in each proceeding do not take the same action, the information is given by mahals—

- (i) The zamindars have taken settlement without protest in 127 cases.
- (ii) The zamindars have taken settlement under protest in 76 cases.
- (iii) Settlement has not been made with third parties in any case, but 38 mahals have been kept under direct management owing to the recusancy of zamindars.
- (iv) The zamindars have established their title to the lands as belonging to their permanently-settled estates wholly in respect of 110 mahals and partially in respect of 85 mahals. The figures given above do not relate only to proceedings which have been completed, as settlements are made before completion of proceedings"

(i) the rent roll of the estate in the year immediately preceding the assumption of charge of the said estate by the Court of Wards and during the subsequent years up to 31st March, 1917,

(ii) the amount of collection and the amount remitted to Dacca Sadar from Dacca, Mymensingh, Comilla and Barisal circles, respectively, during these years,

(iii) the number of suits of all kinds that have been instituted for and against the estate in these years, and

(d) Will the Government be pleased to make a statement showing the debts of the estate on the day the Court of Wards assumed charge and those outstanding on the 31st March, 1917, and the amounts of principal and interest paid in each year out of the (i) surplus income and (ii) the sale proceeds of the properties?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a), (b), (c) and (d) Government have ascertained from the Court of Wards that it would be necessary to employ special establishment for a considerable period to prepare the information asked for. The Court of Wards is not prepared to engage special establishment for the purpose on behalf of the shareholders whose property is in its charge, nor is it prepared to ask the owners of the remaining shares to incur expenditure for this purpose. registered.

Will the Government be pleased to make a statement showing the Joint Stock Companies that have been registered and the new industries that have been started since the war broke out, noting, in each instance, the amount of authorised capital and the nature of Government patronage, if any?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR:—

"A copy of statement No. II attached to the annual reports by the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies for the years 1914-15 to 1917-18, is laid on the table¹. It is not easy to answer the second part of the question in the form put without detailed inquiries for which there is little time, but, speaking broadly, no new industries have actually been started since the outbreak of the war, though many existing industrial concerns have been largely developed and are possibly opening up new lines of business. In other words, one result of the war has been to force India to look to its internal resources and efforts for many things which prior to the war it imported from abroad. In this connection the Hon'ble Member is referred to the article on Industrial Development in Bengal in the Munitions Board Hand-book published in connection with the Bombay Exhibition.

As regards Government patronage it is understood that large orders have been placed with such concerns by the Indian Munitions Board."

(c) Have the Government made any inquiry as to whether or not there is profiteering in cloth by wholesale dealers in Calcutta?

(d) If there is any profiteering by wholesale dealers in cloth, how far has it affected the retail prices?

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to question No. XVII put by the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta.

(b) Between October, 1917 and April, 1918, 152 cases of ladi looting occurred, and in the same period there were in various districts 98 cases of house dacoity and 42 of robbery in which cloth or salt was stolen. Since the 14th April there has been no further case of ladi looting, but further isolated cases of theft of cloth from individuals have been reported recently. The scarcity and high price of cloth may be regarded as the predisposing cause of most of these offences, but many of them must be ascribed to local bad characters and professional thieves.

Cox, Inspector of Excise and Salt, purchased a bottle of medicinal preparation known as 'Rahitakarishtha' from Kaviraj Satish Chandra Sarkar and sent it to the Chemical Examiner for analysis. It proved to contain alcohol, derived from the fermentation of gur, equivalent to 17.6 per cent. proof spirit. On receipt of a report to this effect the Inspector, after obtaining a search warrant, searched the premises of the Kaviraj, where he found 100 bottles of similar preparations and two large fermenting vats for their manufactures. The Kaviraj was therefore prosecuted for the illicit manufacture and sale of an exciseable article under section 46 (a) of Bengal Act V of 1909, as amended by Bengal Act VII of 1914. Government are not prepared to lay the connected papers on the table.

(b) No.

(c) No special opinion was taken.

(d) Under section 90 of the Excise Act the Local Government is empowered to exempt any exciseable article from the provisions of the Act. powered to exempt any exciseable article from the provisions of the Act which duty has already been paid, have been thus exempted.

(e) It is a fact that in its main outlines the Bengal Excise Act was based upon the Bill framed by the Indian Excise Committee of 1905. The relevant clause in the Committee's Bill was as follows :—

Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this Act applies to the import, manufacture, possession, sale or supply of any bona fide medicated articles for medicinal purposes by medical practitioners, chemists, or druggists, apothecaries or keepers of dispensaries; but the Local Government may by notification prohibit throughout the province or within any local area, the import, manufacture, possession, supply or sale of any such article except under such conditions as it may prescribe.'

There is no corresponding provision in the present Act. It was omitted at the suggestion of the Select Committee which considered the Bill, on the ground that it would open the way for the use of medicinal preparations for intoxicating purposes, and that the power given in section 90 of the present Act would be a sufficient safeguard against undue interference with articles of which the alcoholic strength is low.

(b) Have the Government made any inquiry as to whether or not the use of the septic tanks and their discharge into the Ganges have been responsible for pollution, from a sanitary point of view, of the river water in the immediate vicinity?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the results of any inquiry that may have been made in the matter of the septic tanks and their effect on the health of the locality concerned?

Distribution of
Mymensingh.

(a) With reference to the answer given to my unstarred question No. IX, of the 3rd April, 1917, will the Government be pleased to state what modifications, if any, have been effected in the scheme of distribution of areas as between the three districts of Mymensingh and their respective subdivisions?

(b) What are the reasons that led to such modifications? Were the public consulted in the matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" (a) Since April, 1917, no further modifications have been made in the areas and boundaries of the districts and subdivisions which it is proposed to form in connection with the scheme for the partition of the Mymensingh district. A statement giving particulars of the scheme as it now stands is laid on the table.

Questions and Answers.

(b) The modifications of the original scheme were made in consequence of criticisms and suggestions received from the public and the local officers after the publication of Government Resolution No. 6287 P., dated the 27th May, 1915, a copy of which was laid on the table in answer to the Hon'ble Member's former question. The changes were all designed to meet the public convenience. The transfer of the northern portion of Nalitabari to the western district was made because of representations received from the inhabitants of Sherpur and Nalitabari that the latter place is more accessible to Jamalpur than to Mymensingh, and this convenience will be still more marked when the railway line is constructed from Jamalpur to Nalitabari. The inclusion of a portion of the Madhupur jungle in the western district was made to suit the convenience of the principal zamindars of this area, whose main property is situated in the Tangail subdivision. The inclusion in the sadar subdivision of the eastern district of the western portion of the Badla police-station was made in view of representations received from the inhabitants of this area that it is much easier of access to Kishoreganj than to the headquarters of the south-eastern subdivision."

What practical steps have been taken in Bengal since the War Conferences at Delhi and at Calcutta in the matter of developing the resources of the country? Developm of the reac

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

“As regards industrial development it is impossible to answer the question in a general form, the more so as the Delhi Conference and its provincial sequel are of comparatively recent date. All that can be said broadly is that the policy of developing the resources of the country is being steadily pursued as opportunity offers.

The development of the agricultural resources of Bengal has been receiving special attention since the outbreak of the war, as the results of the war have demonstrated the special necessity of such development. The steps enumerated below as having been taken since the war conferences are not therefore exclusively the results of those conferences.

(1) To meet the increased demand for quinine 700 acres have been taken up for cinchona cultivation in place of the normal area of 300 acres.

(2) With the object of providing for the supply in India of the tea chests required by the tea industry, Government have given facilities in the Buxa Forest Division which are contingent on the concessionaire carrying on the business of manufacturing tea chests or three-ply wood.

(3) With a view to ascertaining the trade requirements of forest products and the possibility of supplying them Government have arranged to depute Mr. H. S. Gibson, Deputy Conservator of Forests, who had made special inquiries in America under the auspices of Government, to the office of the Director of Industries, Bengal, for a period of two months with effect from the 16th July, 1918. It is intended that if the experience of two months shows that Mr. Gibson can be employed in that capacity with advantage he shall be appointed as Forest Utilization Officer.

(4) Arrangements have been made for the distribution of 8,000 maunds of superior rice seed and 1,000 maunds of superior jute seed.

(5) Five new posts of District Agricultural Officers have been created.

(6) Orders have been issued for encouraging the use of manures of proved suitability by the distribution of loans under the Agriculturists' Loans Act on the recommendation of officers of the Agricultural Department.

(7) Inquiries have been instituted throughout the Presidency and the results of those inquiries will be discussed at a meeting of the Provincial Agricultural Association to be held on the 4th July, regarding—

(a) the possibility of increasing the cultivation of rabi food crops in Bengal;

(b) improvement of the organization for the supply of manure, seed and implements;

(c) extension of cotton cultivation;

(d) extension of the supply of new varieties of sugarcane.

(8) For the extension of the co-operative movement and in particular of industrial societies 16 new posts of Inspectors of Co-operative Societies have been created.

Questions and Answers.

(9) The Co-operative Department has devoted special attention to ob-operation among weavers and to improving the facilities for obtaining cotton yarn.

(10) The improvement of the facilities for the transport of perishable food products, such as fish and dairy produce, by railway and the provision of cold storage for the same have been receiving the attention of Government. A conference on the subject was held on the 2nd July."

Cultivation of cotton and manufacture of yarn.

(a) What steps, if any, have been taken, or are contemplated by Government, in the matter of encouraging the cultivation of cotton and manufacture of yarn in Bengal?

(b) What steps have been taken by the different District Boards in this behalf?

(c) Are the Government making inquiries as to how far a revival of the charka system of spinning cotton is possible in the present circumstances and is likely to meet the situation?

(d) Have the Government any idea as to the approximate number of handlooms at present working in the province, and to what extent their number and capacity can be increased?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" Government have instituted inquiries as regards the practicability of encouraging the cultivation of cotton and the manufacture of yarn in Bengal. These questions will be discussed at a meeting of the Provincial Agricultural Association to be held on the 4th July. Government are unable to state the approximate number of handlooms at present working in Bengal."

Appointment of advisory committee for the examination of internment cases for Bengal.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table all papers regarding and leading up to the appointment of the advisory committee for the examination of internment cases in Bengal?

(b) What are the terms of their appointment and what procedure will be followed by them in dealing with individual cases?

(c) Will it be open to them to call for witnesses or interview détenus for purposes of inquiry?

(d) Will the advisory committee receive representations on behalf of the détenus relating to the charges against them and deal with any complaints regarding the treatment or health of détenus, the inconveniences of their places of domicile, and the inadequacy of allowances?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" Government do not propose to lay on the table the papers asked for. A copy of the Resolution appointing the Committee is laid on the table. Within the terms of reference to the Committee the details of the procedure to be adopted by it will be for the decision of that body."

Questions and Answers.

Resolution referred to by the Hon'ble MR. KERR, in his answer to question No. LXXVIII (unstarred), asked by the HON'BLE BABU BHABENDRA CHANDRA RAY at the Council Meeting of the 3rd July, 1918.

The Governor in Council has decided to appoint a committee to advise him in respect of the cases of those persons now under restraint, or who, during the sittings of the committee, may be placed under restraint, either under the provisions of the Defence of India Act (Act IV of 1915): the Ingress into India Ordinance (V of 1914) (to the extent that the persons so dealt with belong to the province of Bengal); or Regulation III of 1818, whether there are reasonable grounds for believing that they had acted, or were about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or the Defence of British India.

The proceedings of the committee will be held in Camera and no Counsel will be permitted to appear. The papers of each case will be placed before the committee by an officer deputed by the local Government in the grouping essential to the proper understanding of them and in the manner best calculated to effect that end. Should the committee desire further information the request will be dealt with by the local Government to the best of their ability.

With the consent of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, the services of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Beachcroft have been lent as a member of the committee, which will also comprise Sir Narayan Ganesh Chandravarkar, who has kindly consented to serve.

By order of the Governor in Council,

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to unstarred question XXXVIII.

(a) Are the Government aware that the supply of quinine in the post offices has run short in some parts of the province and that a good deal of inconvenience is being experienced by the people on this account?

(b) If so, what are the reasons for such shortage and what steps have been taken to prevent such shortages in future?

At and short supply of quinine in post offices.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. KERR :—

"(a) and (b). In view of the profiteering in quinine that was going on, the Sanitary Commissioner sent orders in May to Civil Surgeons not to issue quinine treatments for sale pending further instructions. These orders, which were intended only to suspend temporarily the issue of stocks to post offices were misunderstood in some cases, and postmasters were directed to suspend sales to the public. Orders directing the resumption of the issue of supplies of treatments were given after about 10 days, but in the meantime there was a stoppage of sales in some places. Apart from these special circumstances, there is sometimes a shortage of quinine treatments at post offices owing to the postmasters not being able to obtain supplies from Civil Surgeons' offices in good time. Government are, therefore, considering the question of introducing a different system of distribution."

Have the Government any reason to suspect that there are any systematic organisations for carrying on traffic in girls in Calcutta or elsewhere in Bengal? Traffic in girls in Calcutta.

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR:—

"Reports have been received that such an organisation exists within the jurisdiction of Maheshtala police-station in the 24-Parganas district; but the evidence on the subject is not sufficient to justify the institution of legal proceedings. No report has been received regarding the existence of similar organisations in any other district."

(a) Is it a fact that the scale of pay of the clerks attached to the Executive Engineer's office under the South-Western Circle and Central Circle was raised and a circle cadre introduced in 1914, and that these clerks now start on a salary of Rs. 30 with prospects of rising up to Rs. 250 per month? Salary of navigation clerks under the Executive Engineer, South-Western and Central Circles.

(b) Is it a fact that Government have not revised the scale of salary of the navigation clerks who work under the same Executive Engineer? If so, what are the reasons for such invidious treatment?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what is the maximum and minimum salary now drawn by the navigation clerks of the Circular and Eastern Canals Division, Cossye Division and Nadia Rivers Division?

(d) Is it a fact that a proposal for revision of the scale of salary of the navigation establishment generally has been lying with Government for consideration since the circle cadre was introduced for other clerks in 1914?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state whether the above proposal will be sanctioned and what would be the additional monthly expenditure that it will entail if sanctioned?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. COWLEY :—

"(a) Yes, except that the maximum is Rs. 240 and not Rs. 250.

(b) The Committee appointed in 1911 to consider the question of the pay, grading and method of work of the Public Works Department offices definitely excluded the question of the pay of the navigation staff from the scope of their inquiries and from their recommendations.

(c) The maximum salaries drawn are Rs. 35, Rs. 35 and Rs. 40 and the minimum salaries Rs. 20, Rs. 30 and Rs. 25 in the three divisions respectively.

(d) A proposal for the revision of pay of the whole of the navigation establishment of the Public Works Department in Bengal was considered by Government in 1916; but for financial reasons effect has not been given to that proposal.

(e) It is probable that the proposals of 1916 or some similar proposals will be re-examined at an early date. The additional monthly expenditure involved in the proposals of 1916 is about Rs. 700 per mensem but, owing to the increase of establishment with the increase in length of canals where tolls are enforced, the additional expenditure likely to be involved in subsequent proposals will be somewhat higher."

(e) Will the Government be pleased to give the names of colleges in Bengal which are situated on 900 bighas of land or more?

(f) If the answer to clause (d) is in the affirmative, are the Government considering the desirability of refusing to sanction the proposal to acquire large tracts of land for the Carmichael College?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY:—

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President said :—

“Hon'ble Members will learn with regret, I am sure, of the recent death of Mr. F. G. Wigley, C.I.E., a gentleman who was long and intimately connected with the Bengal Legislative Council as its Secretary. During his long connection with this country he must have made many friends among Europeans and Indians alike. He accompanied Sir C. Ilbert to India during the Viceroyalty of Lord Ripon and did much useful work in the Legislative Department of the Government of India. At a later date he joined the Calcutta Bar and accepted office as Secretary to the Bengal Council in 1896. During his residence in this country and after his retirement from it he devoted much of his time and his abilities to the consolidation of the many Indian enactments and Parliamentary Statutes affecting this country. I feel sure that you will desire that this brief tribute to his work and this expression of sorrow at his death should find a place in the records of the Council with which he was so long and so closely connected.

For some months past vague rumours have from time to time reached my ears to the effect that persons restrained under Regulation III or under the Defence Act were ill-treated by the police. Some of these rumours were of a sinister character and accused the police of torturing those in their charge. But though some of the accusations contained in the rumours were definite enough—as I shall show by an example in a few moments—I found it extremely difficult to find any one who was willing or able to substantiate them. Those whom I asked told me that they had heard such and such a thing, or that such and such a story was common talk, but when I asked further who was responsible for the story, or what grounds there were for supposing it to be true, no one could tell me. Early in the present year, however, Mrs. Besant came forward with certain charge of torture which she submitted to the Government of India. She was not prepared to substantiate them and at first she even refused to give the names of those who were alleged to have been tortured. It was pointed out to her that if any sort of inquiry was to be made into the allegations which she brought, it was essential that the Government should be told firstly who were the persons alleged to have been ill-treated, and secondly, what was the precise nature of ill-treatment complained of. Mrs. Besant then, while still refusing to maintain the truth of the complaints or to give the name of her informant, whom she vaguely described as a gentleman whose name and address she possessed, put in writing certain specific charges. The disadvantages of having to deal with charges brought in this irresponsible manner must be obvious to everyone. Nevertheless, since this was the nearest approach to definiteness which the Government had been able to reach, it was decided to hold an investigation, and the task of holding the inquiry was undertaken by a high official having no connection of any kind with the police, namely, the Hon'ble Mr. Stevenson Moore, and an Indian non-official gentleman eminently qualified for the task by character, by training and by professional ability, namely, Sir Benode Mitter. Perhaps I may be permitted to take this opportunity of publicly expressing to these two gentlemen the thanks of the Government for consenting to undertake this very disagreeable task.

Now I come to the charges themselves. Mrs. Besant first stated vaguely that upwards of 100 persons under restraint on the islands in the neighbourhood of Chittagong were ill-treated by the police. The only observation which I have to make with regard to that is that the total number of persons who from first to last have been under restraint on these islands is 77, and that besides being hopelessly vague, the charge is therefore based upon information which is hopelessly incorrect. When reduced to something more definite, this charge amounted to a complaint of ill-treatment made on behalf of eleven detenus. All these persons were examined by the investigating committee, and I cannot do better than quote the finding at which they have arrived :—

‘Of these 11 persons two . . . have said before us that the complaints are false. One . . . makes minor complaints which are shown to be wholly unreliable, while four . . . have declined to make any charges of ill-treatment before us, and so far as we have been able to test the complaints which were communicated by Mrs. Besant, we have found that they failed to satisfy the test, and the failure was of a kind that justified us in believing them unworthy of credence. We are thus left with four persons only . . . who have made before us specific charges of ill-treatment and torture against the officers of the Intelligence Branch and the Special Branch. We have analysed these charges at some length with the result that we are satisfied that they are quite unfounded.’

I propose to publish both the charges brought by Mrs. Besant and the findings of the investigating committee and I do not intend, therefore, to trouble the Council with more than a simple example taken from the former. The charge I select as typical of all of them is that a certain person, Amrita Lal Sarkar by name, was brutally mutilated by the police. So much for the accusation. Now what are the facts? Amrita Lal Sarkar was arrested on September 27th, 1916. On arrest he was found to be suffering from a complaint the nature of which was explained to him by a surgeon of the Indian Medical Service. He was further advised by the surgeon that an operation was desirable; and with the patient's consent the operation was successfully performed. Those are the facts of the case which are vouched for by the surgeon himself whose certificate we possess. I have taken this particular charge as an example, because I have learned from different sources that this story has gained the widest currency. At the same time I cannot refrain from expressing my amazement that it should be thought possible that deeds rivalling the supreme efforts of the Spanish Inquisition could be perpetrated in the 20th century under British rule. If it be, indeed, a fact that stories of this kind are believed by people of ordinary intelligence, then I confess that credulity could go no further and I am driven to the conclusion that the psychology of a certain section of the people of this Presidency is such that they are prepared to accept as gospel truth the wildest rumours to which imagination is capable of giving birth.

Let me now sum up briefly the salient features of this unsavoury episode. Firstly, Mrs. Besant submits to the Government of India a communication in which it is stated that over a hundred detenus on the islands in the neighbourhood of Chittagong are being ill-treated and tortured. Secondly, on being pressed for something more definite she submits details of alleged ill-treatment not in over 100 cases, but in 11 cases only.

Thirdly, on examination it is found that far from these 11 cases referring to systematic ill-treatment as was suggested in Mrs. Besant's first communication, they referred to episodes which are alleged to have occurred nearly two years ago. Fourthly, Mrs. Besant herself states that there is a conspiracy among the detenus to break the internment rules and then, when sent to gaol, to hunger-strike, not, as is often alleged, as a protest against ill-treatment but as a protest against the failure of the Secretary of the State to grant a general amnesty in commemoration of his visit. I may add that this is the solitary statement made by Mrs. Besant which is supported by unimpeachable evidence in the shape of a cipher letter written by one detenu to another. Fifthly, such specific charges as were made have been found to be groundless after investigation by an independent committee. Sixthly, the method by which the charges were brought to the notice of Government was such that the committee were led to make the following observations :—

‘In our opinion the method adopted for bringing them to the notice of Government, viz., by unauthenticated complaints was unsatisfactory, and calculated to hamper proper and complete investigation.’

The Bengal Tenancy (Amendment No. 2) Bill, 1918.Mr. Cumming.

For myself I would add : let us have no more of these scurrilous accusations purveyed to Government through the agency of a middleman who refuse either to name the source whence they are derived or to accept responsibility for them. Let those who traduce English and Indian gentlemen serving in the police force take their courage in both hands and come into the open. Until they do so we are entitled to draw our own conclusions as to the cause of the excessive modesty which constrains such persons to hide themselves behind the cloak of anonymity. The Special Branch of the police are carrying on a task of great difficulty and, as recent events have shown, of great danger also.

It is deeply to be regretted—but Government have ample evidence that it is a fact—that the attitude of hostility towards the police on the one hand, and of scarcely veiled sympathy with the revolutionaries on the other, which has recently characterised a portion of the press and a certain section of the public, has enormously encouraged the party which looks to anarchy to achieve its ends. I am sorry to say that with some exceptions I have looked in vain for that outspoken condemnation which I should have expected to pour from Press and platform alike of the recent murder of three police officers and the attempted murder of several more. And when I observe the comparative indifference with which these foul deeds appear to be regarded, I find it difficult not to contrast with it the campaign of calumny and abuse against the police of which the matter that I have dealt with to-day is a fair example. It is gratifying to find that there are some organs of public opinion at least which have the courage and the honesty to face the facts of the situation and to give to the police the credit which is their due. Let me quote from the Dacca Herald of June 17th :—

'We doubt very much if in any other country there is a batch of officers with that sense of duty and devotion which a large number of our police officers have shown. No fate has seemed too dangerous to prevent any of these gallant men from taking the greatest possible risk. This is the case of the dead head-constable. Only on Friday Patiram Singh had been discharged from the hospital after recovery from the wound he received during the raid in Asak Jamadar's Lane the other day. This did not prevent him from venturing on Saturday which has cost him his life.'

Everyone who knows anything of this side of the work of the police will endorse every word of that. But the paper has also laid its finger upon one of the dangers of the present situation. After referring to the sympathy which is excited on behalf of the revolutionaries, the writer goes on to say :—

'This sympathy, it is said, discharges the functions of a bacillus, and unless it is entirely eradicated the germ of the revolution will remain.'

No truer word was ever written. It is a truth which I should like to see sent forth from every platform and proclaimed in every newspaper throughout the land. When that is done—when these misguided persons are made to realise that methods such as these are abhorrent to every right-thinking man, that by adopting such methods they excite not the sympathy but the strongest condemnation of every newspaper and every public man—then, and not till then, shall we see the cancer of anarchy eradicated from the soil.

LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 3.*THE BENGAL TENANCY (AMENDMENT No. 2) BILL, 1918.

The Hon'ble MR. CUMMING introduced a Bill further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

He said :—

"Sir, I beg leave to introduce the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment No. 2) Bill, of 1918.

The Bengal Tenancy (Amendment No. 2) Bill, 1918.Mr. Cumming.

The object of this Bill is to maintain the policy of the framers of the Cess Act—a policy from which the Government have never resiled,—before a departure from that policy becomes crystallized. Now, in section 41 of the Cess Act, we read as follows :—

‘Every cultivating raiyat shall pay to the person to whom rent is payable one-half of the road cess and public works cess.’

When the Act was first introduced in 1871, Government took the precaution of issuing a proclamation, pointing out that every raiyat was bound to pay to the person to whom rent was payable, along with his rent, one-half of the rate of road cess imposed by the Road Cess Committee, and the zamindars and other holders were authorised to levy a cess at the half rate; and 14 years afterwards when Government found that some zamindars were recovering from their raiyats the full amount of road cess payable, a notification was again published, pointing out that the amount payable with the rent on account of the road and public works cess by any cultivating raiyat was only one-half of the full rate of cesses levied in the district. It has, however, since been held by the highest judicial authority that the provisions of section 41, to which I have already referred, were neither exhaustive nor prohibitive; and that there was nothing in its terms to prevent the parties, if otherwise competent, from entering into a contract under which the tenant contracted to pay the whole of the road and public works cess. Government are, however, concerned with the policy on the basis of which section 41 was framed, and while the legal interpretation of the section as drafted in 1871, which is being judicially maintained, may be perfectly correct, it does not represent the intention of the framers of the Act, especially in view of the proclamations issued in 1871 and 1885. Enquiries have been made, and it has been found that in certain districts of this province, kabuliyats have been taken, under which raiyats agree to pay more than half anna in the rupee, and that such kabuliyats have been accepted by the civil courts. The object of the present legislation is to maintain the policy of the framers of the Act; but it is recognized that it is not right to affect injuriously any payment which has hitherto been made either under the terms of any agreement executed between the parties with the protection of the civil courts, or without any such special contract, mistake and coercion always excepted. For that purpose, a proviso has been drafted that no suit shall lie for the recovery of anything paid before the date on which this Bill may become law. The object in view has been effected by drafting a second clause containing such a proviso to section 74 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which deals with impositions in addition to the actual rent which are prohibited.

I should like to add that when the provisions of this proposed Bill were circulated in 1917, the opinion was advanced in certain quarters that it was desirable to protect the cases of permanent tenure-holders. It will be noticed in the Statement of Objects and Reasons that this has been considered, and the proposed amending Bill will not affect contracts entered into by the holders of permanent leases who will still be subject to the provisions of section 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. This provision, as is well known to all those in this Council who have a special knowledge of revenue law, is one which permits the holder of a permanent tenure to grant a permanent lease to his tenant on any terms agreed between them, which may, of course, include any special provision regarding cess. I may inform the Council that two of the leading judicial decisions on the subject deal with such cases, with which the present Bill is not concerned.

These then, Sir, are the intentions of Government in connection with this Bill,—first to make a clean sheet of what has happened in the past; and secondly, to lay down explicitly what will be considered contrary to law in future.

The motion was then put and agreed to.

*The Calcutta Hackney-Carriage Bill 1918.Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan : Mr. Eden.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 4.*THE CALCUTTA HACKNEY-CARRIAGE BILL, 1918.

The Hon'ble SIR BIJAY CHAND MAHTAB, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, moved that the Calcutta Hackney-Carriage Bill, 1918, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Duval, the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, the Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukherji Bahadur, the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, the Hon'ble Mr. Carter, the Hon'ble Mr. Eden, the Hon'ble Mr. Altaf Ali, the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray and the mover, with instructions to submit their report in time for its presentation at the September meeting of the Council.

He said :—

"My Lord, I do not think that it requires many words from me at this stage of the Bill, but I would like to point out to this Council that they have by now received the opinions from the different public bodies and associations on the Bill. Among these opinions, that of the Calcutta Corporation is undoubtedly the most important. In that opinion a new question of principle has been discussed, namely, that of the transfer of power from the hands of the Corporation to that of the Commissioner of Police. I may say that at the present stage Government propose to maintain an open mind on this question of control and will await the recommendations of the Select Committee before they decide what course to follow. It will therefore be open to the members of the Legislative Council to approve or otherwise the report of the Select Committee, when it is received, on this point. I may, however, point out to the representatives of the Corporation in this House that Government cannot entertain their proposal of transferring the power from the Commissioner of Police to the Corporation as regards the Calcutta Fire Brigade. This question does not arise as it is beyond the scope of the Bill."

The Hon'ble MR. EDEN said :—

"My Lord, when introducing this Bill on the 19th February last the Hon'ble Sir S. P. Sinha gave us a brief history of the events which have led up to the introduction of the Bill. There is one matter, however, to which he omitted to refer, and to which I now wish to call attention. At the Council meeting held at Dacca on 7th August 1916, when the Report of the Select Committee appointed to consider the Amending Bill of 1916 was presented, several Hon'ble Members offered suggestions for consideration when the new Consolidating Bill was being framed.

In speaking at that meeting to the motion that the Amending Bill be not further proceeded with, I recommended that when framing a new Bill to deal with the hackney-carriage service of Calcutta, the whole of the hackney-carriage services, whether horse drawn or mechanically propelled, should be placed under one controlling authority, and that bullock and buffalo carts, motor lorries, palanquins and rickshaws should be included in the scope of the new Bill.

In replying to the speeches of Hon'ble Members the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, the Hon'ble Nawab Sir Syed Shams-ul-Huda, referred to the various suggestions which had been made; and with reference to the question of placing the regulation of hackney-carriages and motor cabs under one controlling authority he said that the matter would be considered before the new Consolidating Bill was placed before the Council, and he gave his assurance to Hon'ble Members that their suggestions would be taken into consideration and, if desirable, would be incorporated in the Consolidating Bill when it was drafted.

The Calcutta Hackney-Carriage Bill, 1918.

Mr. Eden.

The Bill has been published and has been circulated to the Corporation and other public bodies inviting their opinions on it, and from the replies which have been received, I see that there is a strong feeling which is supported by the Corporation that the Hackney-Carriage Department should be transferred from the Corporation to the Police.

Under the Bill which is now before the House, it is proposed to continue the anomaly whereby the registering, licensing and regulation of horse-drawn hackney-carriages are to be controlled by the Corporation, while those of taxi cabs are to be controlled by the police, and while at the same time the control of all vehicular traffic in the streets is in the hands of the police.

I do not want it to be supposed that I am dissatisfied with or find fault with the Corporation's administration of the Hackney-Carriage Department; I believe that much credit is due to the Corporation for their administration of the department within the limitation of the power provided for them under the existing Act; and in this connection it must be remembered that the Amending Bill of two years ago and the Bill now before the House is the direct result of many years of appeal to Government by the Corporation for greater and additional powers to enable them to exercise a more effective control and to deal more efficiently with the hackney-carriage service.

But although I am not expressing dissatisfaction with the administration and control of the Hackney-Carriage Department by the Corporation, I am of opinion that in order to provide the City of Calcutta with an effective service of public conveyances plying for hire, a great deal more requires to be done than the Corporation have given evidence of doing, or than it is possible to do under the present system of a department of the Corporation.

The object to be obtained is to secure the greatest efficiency with a complete power of control over all classes of public conveyances plying for hire. Such can best be obtained by a single control, and such control can best be exercised by the authority which already possesses the power of control over all classes of vehicular traffic in our streets.

The Corporation have recommended that the Hackney-Carriage Department of the Corporation should be taken over bodily and formed into a separate Traffic Department of the Police in charge of an officer of the status of a Deputy Commissioner.

I go further than this, and recommend that an entirely new department should be created which would administer under one combined control the regulation of the traffic in the streets as well as the registration and licensing of all public conveyances plying for hire, including horse-drawn hackney-carriages, motor taxi cabs, palanquins, rickshaws, motor lorries, and bullock and buffalo carts. The department should be under the control of the Commissioner of Police with an officer of the rank of a Deputy Commissioner in charge of it, who would give his whole-time service to the department. This new department would take over the present Hackney-Carriage Department of the Corporation and also the present Motor and Taxi Cab Department of the Police; the two should be amalgamated and such other departments which deal with bullock and buffalo carts should be included.

I shall be sorry to delay the passing of a Bill which has for its object the improvement of the hackney-carriage service. Such a measure has already been too long delayed, but while the matter is before us, it is better to submit to some further delay if by doing so greater improvement can be obtained.

In supporting the motion that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee, I do so, with the recommendation that the Select Committee shall consider the proposals which have been made for the creation of a new department to control all public conveyances plying for hire.

There is another matter to which I wish to refer. Several proposals have been put forward recently, which have received a considerable amount of support for the more humane treatment of hackney-carriage animals.

The Calcutta Hackney-Carriage Bill, 1918.Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

These proposals may be summed up as :—

- (1) The provision of stables for hackney-carriage horses under the control of the authority administering the Act.
- (2) The provision of veterinary care and inspection of animals and the control of the hours worked by and the condition of animals.

A very strong opinion is held that in no other way can the humane treatment of hackney-carriage horses be secured.

In putting forward this proposal for the care of horses, I have no intention of advocating that the cost of hackney-carriages to the public should be increased or that the vested interests of owners should be unduly interfered with or their legitimate profits decreased. But I repudiate any suggestion that the public desire cheapness of fares at the cost of injustice and inhumanity to dumb animals and I must leave the working out of an equitable settlement of the interests of the public and of the owners to subsequent enquiry and arrangement.

There is no doubt that at present there is a vast amount of cruelty to hackney-carriage horses: the fact that about 2,500 prosecutions by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in one year in respect of horses were successful is convincing evidence."

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR said :—

" My Lord, I venture to place a few suggestions before this Council.

The Hackney-Carriage Act, Bengal I of 1864, was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council by Nawab Abdul Latif Khan. The objects of the measure were to avoid the extortion of native livery stable-keepers, to provide a regulated scale of fees and to place the relations between the carriage-hiring community and the owners and drivers of gharries on a satisfactory footing. Mr. F. R. Cockerell's amending Act V of 1866 which was a retrograde movement was amended by Mr. Reynolds' Act in 1878. By this Act the Local Government placed the registering officer under the control and supervision of the Calcutta Corporation. The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton, in introducing the Bill, remarked that the public of Calcutta, both the residents and visitors to the place, have complained, and with good reason, of the extreme inefficiency of the ticca gharries of the city and of the disreputable manner in which they are turned out. We are concerned in framing good and effective laws. There is a public sentiment that the present Act has not done much good. The same high charge and extortionate demand of gharri-wallas exist as it were in 1864, 1866 and 1878. The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton observed that the expression suburbs of Calcutta has, however, no legal meaning since the greater portion of the old suburban municipality has been amalgamated with the town. It does not and never did include Howrah. But at present the Corporation conducts the business not only for the town but also for neighbouring municipalities including Howrah and makes over to them a certain portion of the registration fees. In order to legalise this procedure the new Bill authorises the Local Government to include or exclude within the limits of Calcutta any local area in the vicinity of the same. Although there is a clause in the Bill empowering the Lieutenant-Governor to extend its provisions to any town or place it would seem that such extension implies a separate administration and not the administration by one authority—vide 1st April 1891 Calcutta Gazette, Part IV, paragraph 12.

The present Hackney-Carriage Bill is framed to consolidate and amend the law relating to hackney-carriages and palanquins and to make certain provisions with regard to rickshaws in Calcutta. The Bill when passed into law may be extended by clause 2 to any other town or local area and by clause 82 effect is to be given to the provisions of the Act. It is, therefore, necessary that I should venture to discuss some of the principles enunciated in the Bill for the consideration of the Council. Just as you come to Sealdah or Howrah Railway station your trouble commences with the hackney-carriage drivers. One feels that the charge is exorbitant and sometimes extortionate. The intention of the Bill is to do away with this inconvenience. In every mufassal town where the present Act is in operation the remark applies in full force. To begin with, the definition of 'hackney-carriage' is defective. In the mufassal motors are excluded from being taxed. If marketable commodities only are taken in hackney-carriages, will the definition given be sufficient? In clause 6 the power of removal of the Registering Officer does not appear clearly. The present Act, however, allows that (section 5, clause 3). The commencement of the year should be from April to be consistent with the provisions of section 123 of the Bengal Municipal Act for levying a tax on a carriage or horse. In clause 9(1) I do not think it will be judicious to introduce the words 'any person' for the word 'owner.' Ownership and possession should be traced to the hackney-carriage. This principle should not be lost sight of. In clause 13, there is no provision for suspension and cancellation of the registration of a carriage if any horse or harness used in such carriage is found unfit for public use. The present Act contains no such principle. The words 'duly registered under the Act' under clause 17(1) have given rise to a few judicial decisions. There is nothing in the clause which indicates the local area.

Provision in the Bill should be made to do away with this ambiguity and the words 'duly registered' under the Act should be supplemented with the words 'duly registered' in the Act within the local area or the municipality wherein the carriage is intended to be used or plied for hire.

The Bill now before the Council does not provide anything to prohibit double registration and the levy of double fees like that of Calcutta and the suburbs. It is necessary that there should be a distinct provision in the Bill. I may refer to the proceedings of the Legislative Council, dated 18th April 1891, when the Hon'ble Sir Henry Cotton presented the Hackney-Carriage Bill. Clause 82 of the present Bill demands amendment. It is the intention of the framer of the Bill to allow amalgamations of one or more municipalities. This may be allowed as the case in Calcutta. There are various other points which the mufassal municipalities may present to the Council for being introduced into the Bill. Supposing a railway station is without the limits of a municipality, can the Commissioners compel the driver of a hackney-carriage to take the passengers to the station under the Hackney-Carriage Act? Practical difficulties were felt in administering the Hackney-Carriage Act and many prosecutions were unsuccessful. Again passengers felt a difficulty to pay legal hire to the drivers and there was none to enforce the law in the railway stations. A complaint in the Magistrate's court is felt to be very troublesome and vexatious. There ought to be some remedy to put an end to the trouble of the passengers. The police officers are also bad customers. Sometimes these hackney-carriage drivers decline to go to the railway stations which are not within the limits of the municipality. These are matters of daily experience to those who are in charge of municipal affairs in the principal towns outside Calcutta. I beg to bring to the notice of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill to modify the provisions of the Bill so that the Bill when passed may remedy the grievances of the people who stay in the principal towns where the law is to be extended. It is very difficult to state concrete cases within a limited time to persuade him as to the absolute necessity of making the law elastic so as to meet the difficulties felt by the rate-payers residing within the jurisdiction of mufassal municipalities. There are places where hackney-carriages and horses are kept in stables which are outside the limits of municipal towns. There ought to be provisions to regulate the fare which the drivers demand.

The Calcutta Hackney-Carriage Bill, 1918.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur; The President; Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I do not know whether I shall be in order to move a slight amendment. The members of the Select Committee have been selected by Government without any reference to the wishes of non-official members composing the Council. That is the practice which has been going on ever since I have been associated with the Council and long before that. I do not know whether I shall be in order to move an amendment to the effect that the name of the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur be added to the Select Committee."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The Hon'ble Member is entitled to move amendments at this stage, and it will then be for the Member of Government in charge of the Bill to express his view with regard to the amendments moved."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"With Your Excellency's permission I move an amendment that the name of the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur be added to the Select Committee. The Hon'ble Member has studied the Bill carefully and I believe that his presence in the Committee will facilitate the work of the Council and we shall be benefited by his advice as coming from one who has been the Chairman of a mufassal municipality for many years."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR of Burdwan said :—

"I am quite prepared to accept the amendment of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"Unless any other member wishes to speak on the amendment, I will put the amendment now. The discussion on the main question can then continue."

The amendment was then put by the President and carried.

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I shall now make some observations in regard to the Bill. I must point out that the different amending Acts were all introduced into the Council mainly on the recommendations of the Corporation of Calcutta. The Bill which is now before us is also the outcome of the recommendations of the Corporation. My Hon'ble friend Mr. Eden, although he desires that hackney-carriages should be placed in the hands of the Commissioner of Police, still pays a tribute to the efficiency with which the administration of the Hackney-Carriage Department was carried on by the Corporation. My Lord, a new proposal has been made by the Corporation that the Hackney-Carriage Department should be taken out of the hand of the Corporation and made over to the Commissioner of Police. Those who have perused the proceedings of the Corporation must have observed that that motion was carried by a bare majority. In fact I remember that when votes were taken there was an equality of votes and the Chairman was in a fix on which side to give his casting vote. Then a poll was taken and it was found that one or two of the Commissioners came to the Chairman's rescue. Therefore it will be seen that the opinion of the Corporation was very distinctly divided on the subject. My Lord, there was another condition on which their recommendation for giving up the Hackney-Carriage Department was made and that condition, which was accepted on the recommendation of the Chairman of the Corporation, was that the Fire Brigade should be made over to the Corporation in exchange. I believe that the Corporation would not have agreed to part with the Hackney-Carriage Department if they knew that they could not get the Fire Brigade Department in exchange. I understand from what has fallen from the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur that no such bargain can be entertained, and therefore I think that the recommendation of the Corporation to make over the Hackney-Carriage Department to the Commissioner of Police also falls to the ground, because it was a conditional offer and in no way an unconditional one. The Hon'ble Mr. Eden suggested that there should be an entirely new department which shall have control over not only the motor service, the taxi cab, the hackney-carriage but will also include bullock and buffalo carts—that, of course, is not included in the recommendations of the Corporation—and that they should be under a superior officer who shall be under the Commissioner of Police. He thinks that if his suggestion is adopted there will be an improvement in the condition of carriages and carts and even of animals. But, my Lord, I must say this that while there is some force in the observation that these should all come under one department, I do not see why he is so anxious to overburden an already hard-worked department with more work when they cannot cope with the ordinary traffic in the northern quarter of the town. Why should this department be under the nominal charge of the head of the Calcutta Police? There is the Corporation of Calcutta who will be better able to take charge of such a department than the Commissioner of Police who is already overburdened with work. Of course, a single officer will be the dictator over this department. But I think in these days of progress it would be going backward to place the administration under one person. A public administration like the Hackney-Carriage Department to which may be added the motor service, the cart registration, etc., may be amalgamated and placed under the Corporation. In your country, my Lord, I find that the Hackney-Carriage Departments are in the hands of public bodies—the District Councils and the County Councils. I find on page 83 of the book 'Local Government,' by Wright and Hobhouse, that the licensing and registering authorities of hackney-carriages are the District Councils. And why should it be made over to the Commissioner of Police here? Why should it be placed in the hands of a single officer? It would be going behind the times in this progressive age. Then, my Lord, it has been proposed that like the traffic the registration of hackney-carriages should also pass under the control of the Police. But this requires a knowledge of the diseases of animals, the condition of horses and carriages and such other things and I think it requires expert knowledge and the Commissioner of Police is least capable of doing it. These things should be left to an expert staff such as the Corporation have got. It may be said that Corporation have passed a resolution recommending the transfer. But it must be borne in mind that the bare majority were led to believe that by giving up the Hackney-Carriage Department they will get the Fire Brigade. But that is not to be the case now as has been declared by the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur. Ever since 1878 the Hackney-Carriage Department of the Corporation have carried out their work admirably. There have been considerable improvements in carriage, etc., as a result of the admirable suggestions made by various members of the Corporation who took an interest in the affairs of hackney-carriages. As regards the history of the transfer of the Hackney-Carriage Department to the Corporation from the hands of the Police, I might remind the Council that it was done at the instance of a Police officer who was also a Deputy Commissioner of Police. I allude to John Blessington Roberts who came out from Scotland Yard as a constable and rose to be the Chief Magistrate of Calcutta. He was a most active member of the Corporation. His motion for transferring the hackney-carriage service to the Corporation was carried. The Government accepted the decision of the Corporation at the recommendation of Mr. Reynolds who was appointed to inquire into the matter and the Bill was accordingly passed in 1878. Ever since that time the Corporation have been administering the affairs of the department and no reason has been shown why it should now be transferred again to the Commissioner of Police. Some have observed that there is bribery in the Corporation Hackney-Carriage Department. But there is bribery also in the Police Department. The gharriwallahs should not be fleeced both ways. That sort of arrangement, my Lord, was placed before the Corporation. Like the traffic Police the registering Police may constitute a separate department but that won't save the gharriwallahs. They will have to pay the subordinate Police staff both in the Registration and Traffic Departments, if they are so inclined. On these grounds, my Lord, I strongly oppose the transfer of the Hackney-Carriage Department to the Police. I am gratified to know that Government have kept an open mind in the matter. Although the Chairman of the Corporation and I are in opposite camps in this matter—the idea of transfer emanated from him—I am sure the select Committee, constituted as it is, will give it its due consideration."

The motion was then put in the following form and agreed to:—

"That the Calcutta-Hackney Carriage Bill, 1918, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, the Hon'ble Mr. Duval, the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, the Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukharji Bahadur, the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, the Hon'ble Mr. Carter, the Hon'ble Mr. Eden, the Hon'ble Mr. Altaf Ali, the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray and the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur with instructions to submit their report in time for its presentation at the September meeting of the Council."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 5.RESOLUTIONS.

(Under the rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest.)

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI asked permission to withdraw the following resolution:—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a Committee of officials and non-officials be appointed to inquire into and report upon the desirability of taking legislative action for discouraging professional beggary in all municipalities in Bengal including Calcutta.

He said:—

"My Lord, as there is a difference of opinion among the Hon'ble Members and having given the matter my best consideration, I ask for Your Excellency's permission to withdraw the motion."

The Hon'ble Mr. CRUM, in objecting to the motion being withdrawn, said:—

"My Lord, with regard to this motion, I shall in my remarks not discuss the municipalities other than Calcutta; because, first, I have no knowledge of the municipalities outside Calcutta; and, secondly, their treatment, speaking generally, should be quite different from that accorded to Calcutta."

Resolutions.Mr. Crum ; Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

There are three classes of beggars in Calcutta. First of all, there is the religious mendicant ; secondly, the professional beggar who sets up his house in the corner of the streets and goes there every day ; and thirdly, the casual and really indigent beggar. Now, of these three classes I am perfectly certain that as regards the religious mendicant no Member of this Council has any desire to interfere with in any way or to offend in any way the religious susceptibilities of the people of Bengal. I, therefore, propose to leave the case of religious mendicants out of my consideration.

As regards the professional beggar, I think that anybody who has been through the streets of Calcutta and seen the conditions of these beggars must agree with me that something is really and urgently necessary as regards the present powers of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta. Under the Calcutta Police Act, there are powers to arrest beggars generally and to deal with them under sections 70 and 70A of the Calcutta Police Act. Section 70 gives power to a Magistrate to imprison a beggar for one month with or without hard labour. Section 70A gives power to a Magistrate to send a beggar to a certain place such as the Refuge, specially set up for the purpose. Section 70 deals really with the professional beggar who sits in a corner of the street and elicits the sympathy of the passers-by and finds it much easier to obtain his livelihood by begging than by any other means. Sometimes a child or a woman is sent out to beg and a man farms and collects their daily saving. It is interesting, I think, to discuss the results that this section of the Act has achieved. Last year, I am told, in Calcutta 2,739 beggars were arrested. Out of these 2,151 were either dismissed with caution or detained until the Court had finished sitting. About 130 were sent to the house of juvenile detention and a few more were sent to the Leper Asylum and five more sent to the Refuge. I submit, my Lord, with reference to professional beggars who sit in the corners of streets daily, that there is either something defective in the Act, or that the Magistrates do not take seriously enough the behaviour of these people.

Then, we have the third class, i.e., the real casual beggar ; and I am quite satisfied that there are a number of people in Calcutta who are really indigent and there is nothing at present to provide for these people except the Refuge and a few similar institutions of charity. I am afraid I am opening out a very big question, but it does seem to me that the time has come when the whole question should be discussed. The position is, however, quite different in the villages. I am told that in the villages—although I am not myself acquainted with the conditions of affairs there—there is still a very wonderful system of private charity ; while in Calcutta that has gradually disappeared. The associations of the Hindu joint family system are nothing like so strong as they were 20 years ago. Therefore, seeing the number of the really poor beggars in the streets who are unable to provide for themselves, it seems to me that the time has come to provide for these people by some kind of work-house or institution or alms house. The Refuge is the only place at present where they can go and the people in charge of that institution do the utmost they can to keep it going. But Hon'ble Members who have seen it will agree with me that it is not a very desirable place ; all classes are mixed up there and it is in a very undesirable locality in Bowbazar Street. What I propose is not legislation but examination, and I do not know whether legislation is necessary or not ; but I think that the time has come for an enquiry into the whole condition of the poor in Calcutta. I hope Government will see their way to accepting this resolution in this sense that an enquiry may be held into this matter, which I feel is a real disgrace to the fair name of Calcutta."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BHADUR said :—

"I do not know, my Lord, whether this motion has already been withdrawn or is still being discussed."

Resolutions.

The President: Rai B. C. Pal Bahadur

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The question of the withdrawal of a motion with the Hon'ble Members of this Council. A motion cannot be withdrawn except by leave of the Council; when I asked that by pleasure of the Council the motion might be withdrawn an Hon'ble Member rose and objected to this being done, as he wished to discuss it. The resolution must therefore be discussed before it is disposed of.

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"This is a very interesting subject and I have some knowledge of the sort of begging that goes on in Calcutta. The discussion that has been raised by the Hon'ble Mr. Crum is also interesting from another point of view. The first issue is whether we should approach Government to take some steps in connection with the professional beggars and, secondly, whether any legislative action should be taken in connection with the matter. So far as professional beggary is concerned, it is confined, apart from religious medicants, to that class of persons who make something out of the earnings of disabled beggars. That is to say, these men employ the beggars and collect their earnings and feed and look after them. The beggars are generally cripples and the men who employ them are of the very lowest class. Whether a home should be provided for the beggars is a matter for the consideration of Government. I think it is quite within the power of Government to provide some place for these helpless poor. Then I come to the next class of beggars—persons in distress who cannot actually come and beg in the street. This class, I should say, is growing day by day. A man earning Rs. 10 or 20 a month dies, leaving his family consisting of his wife and, say, one or two children destitute. They cannot beg from street to street as they had some sort of respectability. As Secretary of the Indian section of the District Charitable Society I have to deal with this class of people. I do not know whether this motion will be accepted by Government, but if an inquiry is started, it will bring all these facts into light and steps may be taken to train this section of the poor to learn some sort of industry and earn their living. It may be said that there is private charity. There is indeed among the Hindus the system of nashī bhiksha, that is to say, a beggar can call any morning in any Hindu house, before the hour of the last meal, and get something from the mistress of the house either in the shape of cooked food or at the least a handful of rice. In that way a large number of mendicants eke out their living in Calcutta. But I am not asking relief for them. I am more concerned with the distress of the crippled and the Bhadralog poor, who cannot go from door to door, and it is a question which should be considered by our community. As regards the Alms House, I may inform the Council of its history. It was in the early thirties that the idea of a Alms House was first mooted. A committee is now sitting under the auspices of the District Charitable Society to consider the matter of providing a new Alms House. Looking into the past history I find that a joint committee was appointed in the early thirties and even the idea of an Indian Alms House was considered by a special committee consisting of Ram Gopal Ghose, Rama Mohan Tagore and others. I find among the old records that only about Rs. 5,000 was provided for an Indian Alms House. But the idea was abandoned when it was found that not many Hindus or Mohammedans would resort to it. The difficulty is still the same. Those who have got some sort of respectability would never go to such a home. The professional class of beggars will not come either as they find street-begging more profitable and they are disinclined to do even the slight work which they would be required to do in the Alms House. These are the questions to be considered by Government who should ascertain what are the needs of the community at the present time in regard to this important matter.

The Hon'ble RAI DEBENDER CHUNDER GHOSE BAHADUR said :—

My Lord, if my Hon'ble friend Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri had chosen to press his resolution for consideration, I should have felt very great difficulty in giving my support to him having regard to the words of his resolution because he wants the appointment of a Committee not to suggest means for the alleviation of distress in the town of Calcutta and other municipal towns in the Presidency but to report upon the desirability of taking legislative action for discouraging professional beggary in all municipalities. Speaking for the town of Calcutta I think there is sufficient legislative provision in the powers given to the Commissioner of Police in this matter. I do not think that without providing poor houses for meeting the wants of people who are obliged to beg, we should take legislative action for the purpose of further discouraging professional beggars. I do not like to be hard upon the poor, as the poor are always with us. If they cause you annoyance you have to put up with that annoyance to some extent, and I think the time has arrived when you should seriously consider whether you should have poor houses in all municipal towns. I think after you provide that, there will be time enough for giving more powers to the Commissioner of Police to arrest people for begging for alms in the streets and send them to a place where they would be under no necessity for seeking alms. That is, my Lord, my attitude in this matter."

The Hon'ble MR. P. C. MITTER said :—

"The question which has been raised is a very interesting one, but a little consideration will show Hon'ble Members that this is not so much a question as to how to deal with this problem but one of ways and means. It is for that reason that, with Your Lordship's permission, I would move the following amendment :—

'This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that an inquiry be held into the question of professional beggary in the town of Calcutta, to suggest practical steps to effectually put a stop to such beggary and inquire into the causes thereof.'

My Lord, the object with which I have ventured to propose this amendment is that Your Lordship's Government as well as the public should know what the real problems are. At the present moment we have a general idea of the problem, but more than that is necessary. We should know, for example how much we shall have to pay for effectually stopping beggary which is a source of great annoyance in Calcutta. At the present moment we are told that Magistrates are often disinclined to impose drastic sentences. It is not for me to question the acts of these Magistrates, but I think it is rather cruel that a man should be sent to jail without allowing him an opportunity to earn his livelihood. As regards the man who, in spite of such opportunities, would not avail himself of them it may not be improper to send him to jail. As we have no institution where a man can earn his living, it is only right that we should know what the total cost for such institutions will be. There is one more point to which I should like to draw attention of Hon'ble Members. In my amendment I have limited it to the town of Calcutta and I have done that, my Lord, for more than one reason. We all know that the mufassal towns are comparatively poor. Questions of the most pressing importance—questions of water-supply, drainage, and of education which vitally affect the health and the life of the dwellers of these municipalities are neglected, and apart from other reasons they are neglected because of the poverty of the municipalities. We all know that save and except the towns of Howrah and Dacca and the mill municipality of Bhatpara, there is not a single municipality which has a population of more than fifty thousand. These being the condition of affairs in these municipal areas it will perhaps be unjust to saddle them with the expenses of looking after their beggars. The second reason why I have limited it to Calcutta is because the question is not as pressing in mufassal municipalities as it is in Calcutta. The third reason is that if any municipal town can bear the expense it is Calcutta. For these reasons, my Lord, I move this amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. MACKENZIE said :—

"My Lord, I could not quite catch why the Hon'ble Mover of this resolution wished to withdraw it, but I strongly support the Hon'ble Mr. Crum in his suggestion that some enquiry on the line suggested in the resolution should be proceeded with, as there is no doubt that the nuisance which the resolution seeks to discourage is a growing one. As the Hon'ble Mr. Crum has pointed out, under the Calcutta Police Act and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, the Police have powers to deal with the matter so far as Calcutta and its suburbs are concerned, but it is quite obvious that these powers are insufficient inasmuch as notwithstanding a large number of arrests, amounting in the case of Calcutta to some 3,000 or more per annum, the Commissioner finds it extremely difficult to rid the streets of these beggars. He therefore finds it necessary to ask for additional powers to enable the Police to deal satisfactorily with this problem. I hope that these powers will be given him and will also be extended to other parts of the Presidency. There is a special feature of the nuisance to which I wish to direct particular attention and that is the large number of beggars one sees in the streets suffering from unsightly diseases. In their own interest no less than in the interests of the public generally these unfortunate people should be removed from public thoroughfares. I understand that under section 70A of the Calcutta Police Act Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, declare any institution situated either in the town of Calcutta or in the suburbs thereof to be a refuge for the reception of aged, infirm or incurably diseased persons convicted and sentenced to imprisonment under section 70. So far as I understand only one such place has been so notified—the Refuge in Bowbazar Street—and as the Hon'ble Mr. Crum says this Refuge is not a very satisfactory institution and I understand, moreover, it is largely supported by public subscription, I suggest that it is not right that the support of an institution of this kind should be left to individual effort. To my mind it is clearly the duty of the Government to provide suitable accommodation for these unfortunate people and, if need be, to tax the whole community for its maintenance. I hope that if an enquiry is made, this feature of the case will not be overlooked."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"The original question before the Council is—

'This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a Committee of officials and non-officials be appointed to inquire into and report on the matter with a view to taking legislative action for discouraging professional beggary in all municipalities in Bengal including Calcutta.'

To this an amendment is proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter in the following terms :—

'This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that an inquiry be held into the question of professional beggary in the town of Calcutta, to suggest practical steps to effectually put a stop to such beggary and to inquire into the causes thereof.'

I would point out to the Hon'ble Member that as the amendment has only just been handed in, it is open to any Hon'ble Member who desires to do so, to object to the amendment being moved. Is it the pleasure of the Council that the amendment be moved?"

Resolutions.Sir H. Wheeler.

Objection not being made, the Hon'ble SIR HENRY WHEELER said :—

"My Lord, it will be convenient if I now briefly indicate how this question is regarded by Government, and possibly in the light of what I may say, it may be regarded as unnecessary either by the mover or by the Hon'ble Mr. Mitter to move either the substantive resolution or the amendment.

The attitude of Government in this matter is one of full recognition of the important considerations involved, but it is also inspired by a certain degree of caution as to whether we have yet reached the stage of setting on foot a formal enquiry of the type contemplated in the resolution. There is a defect in the resolution, and I doubt whether it has entirely been cured by the speeches that have been made to-day, inasmuch as although it refers to the advisability of legislation on a somewhat difficult question, it gives very little inkling as to the kind of legislation which is to be advocated. As has been pointed out, especially in Calcutta, certain legislation is already in force. Outside Calcutta, it is of a very mild kind, merely covering that section of the Police Act which makes it an offence to expose or exhibit any bodily ailment or deformity. In Calcutta, the law is a little more elaborate; a man may be arrested for begging and on conviction he may be sent to jail or to a Refuge. Still, even in Calcutta, it is somewhat elementary legislation, and, as we have also been told, it has not been very effective in its working. A certain number of men are run in every year and in a very short time they resume their previous activities. But the solution of putting a man in jail, even if the permissible term was extended, say to six months or so, is not final or satisfactory. The difficulty cannot be met merely by penal action, and if we go further than provisions of this description, we drift quickly, as has been recognised this morning, into something of the nature of a Poor Law. I have always understood that it has been regarded as one of the happiest features of Indian social organisation that, unlike less fortunate countries in the West, it has been possible hitherto in this country to deal with this question of extreme poverty by the existing recognised social obligations instead of having to invoke the more elaborate and less elastic machinery of official relief. I apprehend that there are still large sections who would prefer to see the problem continue to be grappled with on these lines rather than by more mechanical State methods.

But apart from that, we have also special difficulties in India, such as the case of religious mendicants, as also the religious aspects of the distribution of charity. Moreover, when we get to a Poor Law we are entering upon what has been found in the West to be a most difficult and complicated problem, a problem upon which even now there are very divergent schools of thought, and a problem which is far from being satisfactorily solved. Any sort of official relief, as contrasted with private charity, is inevitably somewhat hard and unsympathetic, as it is bound to proceed according to rules and regulations in a matter in which human sympathy and understanding play a large part. But we have also to differentiate between different types of beggars—the man who is the victim of circumstances, the maimed, the halt and the blind, for whom asylums may be required; or again the person who is referred to in old literature as the incorrigible rogue, the man who can work but won't work, against whom more drastic methods must be employed; then there are the deserving poor, suffering more from misfortune than their own fault, for whom any form of indoor relief may be inappropriate unless characterised by greater elements of kindly charity than is usually possible under such a system. All these are difficulties of the problem, and as the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter has remarked, they are all matters which involve very great expense. Poor Law is ordinarily administered from local poor rates, and their imposition is bound to add considerably to the existing burden of local taxation. The problem cannot be merely solved by asking Government to help, although I may inform the Hon'ble Mr. Mackenzie that to 'the

Refuge' Government has in the past made very considerable contributions ; only the other day a sum of about Rs. 50,000 was given to it; in addition to previous large donations.

These being the facts, we feel that it would be a little premature to appoint a committee at this stage, but we are willing to do what will probably meet the Hon'ble Members' wishes, and that is to address those persons and bodies likely to be interested in the subject, and make enquiries of them as to whether the problem of professional beggary has assumed serious proportions and on what lines they would recommend action against it ; also by whom the cost of any such relief should be met. Some Hon'ble Members would confine the enquiry to Calcutta, but while I fully admit that the case of Calcutta differs very considerably from that of mufassal municipalities, the case of the latter has been introduced into this debate, and it may perhaps be as well to include it in the reference. By writing round to all and seeing what the general trend of opinion is, material will be collected from various bodies—in Calcutta from the Corporation, the District Charitable Society, etc.—and we shall know how we stand and what steps can best be taken. If we then find, in the case of Calcutta in particular, that there is room for a more elaborate enquiry, I do not think that we shall hesitate to undertake it."

The Hon'ble Mr. P. C. MITTER said :—

"My Lord, after what has fallen from the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler, I think our purpose will be served by getting more information ; and later on perhaps Government itself may bring forward what is necessary. Under these circumstances I do not wish to press my amendment."

The Hon'ble Mr. CRUM said :—

"I agree with the Hon'ble Mr. Mitter and have no objection to the resolution being withdrawn."

The resolution and the amendment were then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 6.

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed to consider what recommendations can be made to Government for bringing about as much improvement as possible in the present conditions so as to reduce the acute distress prevailing in the country owing to the present high prices of cloth.

He said :—

"It is with somewhat confident feelings that I rise to move this resolution. The acute distress that has been prevailing for some time past in the country is now too much a matter of common knowledge to need any discussion in this Council. I doubt if there is at the present moment any other matter, so far as the Indian section of the population is concerned, which is causing to any equal extent the apprehensions that have been aroused in the minds of all classes of the community by the high prices now prevailing of cloth. It is also an admitted fact that this acute distress is due to the abnormally low prices of rice and jute, and also to the abnormally high prices of cloth. As is well known, in former years a cultivator could purchase at least two pairs of dhotis by selling one maund of rice and at least three pairs by selling one maund of jute. Roughly speaking, under the present conditions he has to sell about two maunds of rice or jute in order to be able to buy one pair of dhotis—I am told that even two maunds would not be sufficient. Roughly speaking, the expenses of a cultivator have gone up four times and have put an unnecessarily heavy burden on his otherwise slender resources.

My Lord, I find on the agenda paper this morning that amongst the interpellations that have been made, there are no less than 12 questions relating to the high prices of cloth and also to the connected question of the cultivation of cotton in a larger measure in order to provide some sort of remedy for the present condition of things that is now prevailing in this country. I believe it is known to the Hon'ble Members of Council that there are reports of many a sad tragedy in the domestic life of the people—cases in which people have committed suicide for not being able to purchase the necessary wearing apparel for themselves or members of their family. In answer to one interpellation, Government stated that there was at least one genuine case of this character that had been substantiated on enquiry, but I believe that there are many cases that have not been reported in the newspapers and which have not come within the purview of the investigation that was set on foot by Government. I have reason to believe that more cases of suicide have happened within the last few months than would appear in answers that have been given to the interpellations. Therefore, it goes without saying that it is the bounden duty of Government to try and take immediate steps. I am also aware that Government itself was keenly anxious to meet the requirements of the situation and trying its very best to find out some remedy. I find that this question was brought to the notice of Government as long ago as the 4th September 1917, by a question that had been put by my Hon'ble friend, Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray, to which the Government was pleased to give the following reply :—

'The Local Government are aware that, as is unfortunately the case with other articles, the prices of dhotis and cloth have risen recently. No special enquiry into the circumstances leading to this result is contemplated, as the main facts relative to the effects of the war on manufacture and freight are known, and it is to these effects in general that the rise may be attributed. Government is not aware of the precise stocks of cloth at the moment available in Calcutta, while the legislation to which the Hon'ble Member presumably refers is contained in Ordinance IX of 1914. As at present advised the Local Government do not consider that there is a case for action under that Ordinance in the matter of imported cloth, which is apparently the course which the Hon'ble Member has in mind.'

Then a resolution was moved on the 19th February 1918, by the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta, to regulate the prices of the necessities of life including cloth, etc. To this resolution, the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler gave a lengthy reply and although Sir Henry opposed the resolution, he gave us something like a history of the efforts that had been made to meet the situation. Sir Henry added that, although profiteering might have been going on, the difficulty was really one of supply, and he concluded his speech by saying : 'What we can do, we will do.' These are italicised by way of prominence. I would have made certain definite suggestions, but I prefer to ask Your Excellency's Council to appoint a committee. Whatever suggestions may now be made by us, they may be open to the objection that we are not in possession of all the facts and therefore are not in a position to advise Government. It is admitted that Government is quite as anxious as anybody to do whatever can possibly be done and the only question is of ways and means. I submit, therefore, that a Committee would be in a better position than any individual member of the Council to consider the question and to consider all the proposals that can be put forward by those interested in the matter, and if all these questions are considered a conclusion will be come to satisfactory to all concerned.

"My Lord, I beg to refer to one matter of very great importance that there is a popular belief—I have been very much surprised to hear it—that Government is not willing to undertake any steps for regulating the prices of cloth, etc., because the Government is very much afraid of displeasing the Marwari community. I find that several members of that community are in the upstairs visitors' gallery to-day. I think that they have taken the alarm lest the non-official majority in this Council may force their will on the official minority, but whatever that may be, I should like to hear from Your Excellency's Government a disclaimer of the apprehensions that have been aroused in the minds of the public by these rumours. This can more effectively be done by accepting this resolution."

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY WHEELER said :—

My Lord, it is scarcely surprising that in the present economic circumstances of the province we should again have ventilated in this Council this very difficult question, and I take no exception to any discussions which are likely to throw any light on a possible solution of it. The matter, as the Hon'ble Mr. Fazl-ul-Huq has said, came before us in February last, and in the course of the remarks that I then made, I brought forward certain points: firstly, that it was undoubted that prices had risen considerably. I could corroborate this by subsequent and later figures, though it is scarcely necessary to do so, as the facts stand beyond all dispute. Secondly, however high our local prices may be in Bengal, they are substantially below the prices at which fresh piece-goods could be brought out from Manchester at the present moment. Thirdly, while profiteering may have been going on, the real difficulty—the essential factor in the whole situation—is the shortage in supply, due to conditions arising out of the war and to the comparative failure of the cotton crop in all parts of the world with the resultant high prices of raw material. These conditions unfortunately still hold good, although the happenings of later months have given prominence to other points which are extremely relevant, namely, that our imports since the war have dwindled very seriously year by year, while as regards forward business, the situation now is anything but satisfactory.

The diminution of imports can be substantiated in detail by figures and it is beyond doubt, but as giving a concise idea of the facts, I may draw attention to statistics which recently appeared in the papers on the authority of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which showed that importations of cotton piece-goods for the four years 1914-15 to 1917-18 had been, respectively, 2,418 millions of yards, 2,116 millions of yards, 1,890 millions and 1,353 millions. So in four years we have got down from 2,418 to 1,353 million yards. There has been a corresponding rise in local production, but it is in no sense sufficient to make good the gap, and on taking the total of the two there is still a very serious deficit. Again, figures which the Collector of Customs has lately given me for Calcutta only, show that in the years 1914-15 to 1917-18 the percentage of annual diminution of imports of all kinds of cotton goods were successively 14, 26, 38 and 51 per cent. as compared with the first year of the series. That unfortunately is a serious position, the more so when it is read in the light of the fact that Manchester prices are still some 25 or 30 per cent. above ours. That is the crux of the whole situation—how to get more stuff; and no amount of regulation or control will re-establish cheap prices unless we can tackle that difficulty.

In February last I said that we would do all we could to find a way out, and we have been doing so, but the remedy does not lie entirely in our hands; after all, we are only a local Government, and unfortunately the main sources of supply are outside our limits. Imports come mainly from Manchester and Japan, while the principal sources of raw cotton are on the Bombay side and in the Central Provinces. Neither, so far as we know, is it necessarily the case that the conditions of the Calcutta market are an absolutely true index of the conditions all over India. We have been told, for instance, that conditions are not entirely the same in Bombay as they are here ; that being so, we have had to represent our difficulties to the Government of India, and since the discussions of February last, we have done so on various occasions. I may add that His Excellency, during his recent visit to Simla, particularly drew the attention of the Imperial Government to this question, while we know that our difficulties are fully realised by them, and that they are giving them their most anxious attention. We are told that they have received the report of the Bombay Cotton Committee and that they hope to come to final conclusions on it very soon. As all must have seen, they have also requested us to take a census of the cotton stocks in this Presidency, and that is going to be done on the 6th July. We understand that the Government of India will closely examine those figures to see whether they afford any evidence that stocks are being improperly withheld from the market, in which case they will most certainly consider a remedy. And with reference to certain of the Hon'ble Mover's remarks, I have sufficient respect for and belief in the Marwari community to think that they will be the last to expect that their susceptibilities should be allowed to stand in the way of any remedies that are likely to be required in the interests of the country as a whole. We will collect this further information within a few days, and we hope that we shall then learn finally the views of the Government of India.

The finding of a remedy will not be easy, as may be gathered from the suggestions which we see put forward from time to time, and if I run over these briefly it is not by way of pronouncing finally on their merits, but of indicating the difficulties which characterise the problem. We are sometimes told that the obvious remedy is to regulate prices, but the mere regulation of prices will not be a solution by itself. Apart from its efficacy or otherwise in respect of imported goods, it is not easy to enforce. There are a very large variety of piece-goods on the market, and the difficulty is to ensure that any regulation of prices which may be applied to the first-hand importer will pass down through the various intermediaries to the consumer, so as to benefit the actual purchaser in the mufassal. As regards the local mills, regulation might be more easy, though the question is primarily a Bombay one, but within the last two or three days we have seen an interesting example of complaints from an important industry against the regulation of their sale prices unless the prices of other things which they consume are similarly controlled. Another course that is sometimes advocated is the importation of cloth in some way by Government, possibly accompanied by some standardisation of quality which would meet the needs of the poorer people ; but that again is a question which must turn largely on conditions in the manufacturing centres of which we are not well aware.

Another remedy which has been pressed in the papers is that Government should either prohibit or curtail the export of raw cotton or manufactured cotton. It is perfectly true that at the present moment there are exportations of raw cotton going out from India, mainly to Japan, and that these exportations have increased since the war. Cotton yarn is similarly exported, largely to China, while manufactured piece-goods are exported, in continually increasing quantities since the war, principally to Aden, Persia, Turkey, East Africa and the Straits. Some people say, 'Why not stop all this and place the goods on the local market, thus increasing supplies?' But there again, the problem is not quite so easy as it sounds, for if you cut these outside countries off from the supplies for which they have hitherto looked to India, they will have to look for them elsewhere, possibly in other markets on which India also draws, while as regards raw material we do ourselves receive a considerable amount of it back in manufactured form. It would only be advantageous to keep that raw material here if we could make it up ourselves, and it has yet to be shown that we could.

Resolutions.

Babu K. M. Chaudhuri; Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur.

These are the remedies which have the most direct bearing on this particular resolution, though others have been mooted which refer to the organisation of the weaving industry and the encouragement of cotton growing in India itself. These will be discussed in connection with a later resolution, but obviously while they may be helpful, so far as they go, yet for immediate purposes they will not afford very great relief.

That, sir, is the position. I admit it is not as satisfactory as we could wish, and we are still groping for light. The actual proposal of the resolution is that we should appoint a committee; we have not the slightest objection to doing so; as I said before, we welcome any advice from anybody who can help us in this difficult matter, and I will willingly accept any suggestions as to the names of any gentlemen who can assist us. In that sense, I accept the resolution, on behalf of Government, though I might add one word of caution, namely, that the reference to a committee will, of course, only be on the subject of cotton piece-goods. As the resolution is worded, it might be taken to authorise the committee to wander off into remedies of a general character which have no direct bearing on the question of cotton piece-goods."

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI said :—

"My Lord, after what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge I do not think it is necessary for me to say anything more. Coming from the mufassal I know full well that there is real distress and something ought to be done. A proper enquiry into this matter will satisfy the people."

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I beg to associate myself with the terms of the resolution moved. The high price of the dhuties and saries is now a national grievance. The question is what has been done to alleviate the serious distress now prevailing in the country arising out of the cloth difficulty? The situation is indeed drifting from bad to worse. My Lord, this subject has been discussed on the public platform and brought to the notice of Government by the press but without any tangible result. It is high time that Government should interfere.

This is not the first time that the subject is brought to the notice of the members of the Council. Are we to understand that the present extraordinary situation of the cloth market is due to the laws of demand and supply and Government is powerless to interfere? Is it to be contended that Government cannot come to the rescue of the distressed millions? My humble suggestion is that Government may be pleased to appoint a Cotton Controller as the Bombay Government have done. I am led to believe that the profiteering in the sale of cloth by a few Calcutta merchants may be at once stopped.

My Lord, the working of the ordinary economic laws ought not to be suspended on the idea that this acute distress has arisen for war conditions. The State is the guardian—the centre authority—the controlling power in all matters affecting the happiness of the people. The indigenous industries are dying. The handlooms are very few. The weavers are now operatives in the mills of the riparian Municipalities. This, my Lord, is no exaggeration. The bilati dhuties of Ralli Brothers are sold at Rs. 5-8 per pair and saries are sold at Rs. 5-6 per pair (coarse cloth). The Banga Luxmi Mills sell a daisse dhuti at Rs. 4-3, sari Rs. 4-6. The synthetic dye is not available in the market. The sale of a maund of jute cannot secure a price of a piece of cloth. In one word I beg to say that the Hon'ble Member may agree with me that acute distress prevails at every hamlet, village or town and Your Excellency, whose popularity is immense. owing to your love for the people may allow me to say that Government must find out means to control the merchants who are making large profits. Your Excellency's Government must have been in possession of facts which are reported by the Magistrates of the various districts in Bengal."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, I do not wish to take up more than a minute or two of the time of Your Excellency and the Council. It is needless for me to say that we all associate ourselves with the motion of the Hon'ble Mr. Fazl-ul-Haq. I wish to thank the Hon'ble Sir Wheeler for accepting this resolution because I know there is a great deal of misapprehension about the attitude of Government in regard to this question. The people are in such acute distress, that they blame the Government for not moving in the matter. I therefore hope, my Lord, that all possible means will be found to assure the public that every endeavour is being made by Government to ease the present situation, specially through the agency of the Publicity Bureau, of which my friend the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas is in charge."

The resolution was then put and carried.

At this stage the Council adjourned for lunch.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 7.

The following resolution stood in the name of the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Stevenson-Moore, the Sanitary Commissioner to the Government of Bengal, Sir Nilratan Sarkar, Kt., a representative of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce on the Bengal Legislative Council and the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq, be appointed—

- (1) to inquire into the complaints and allegations made by the persons interned in Char Lawrence and Kutubdia, and
- (2) to inquire whether proper arrangements were made by Government for keeping the détenus in the same condition of life as they were accustomed to live.

The PRESIDENT said :—

"I have been asked by the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray for permission to postpone the resolution which stands in his name until Hon'ble Members have had an opportunity of studying the papers which I have promised to publish, and I am prepared to agree to the postponement. I now call on the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem to move Item No. 8."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 8.

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Government do take up the amendment of the Village Chaukidari Acts (Bengal Act VI of 1870 and Bengal Act I of 1871), with a view to raise the maximum tax payable by any one person from Re. 1 per mensem to Rs. 4 per mensem, and with a view to make chaukdari tax payable by residents in municipal towns for the maintenance of the town police.

Resolutions.Maulvi A. Kasem; Kumar S. S. Ray.

He said :—

“ My Lord, it is with some diffidence that I venture to move this resolution, because I have been told that the resolution has caused certain misapprehension amongst a certain section of my countrymen. I have been told that this resolution seeks to introduce a new tax or to raise the existing tax, but those who will examine it carefully will find that nothing of the sort is being proposed. I know, my Lord, that the chaulkidari tax is the most unpopular tax payable by my countrymen, and I know it causes great hardship on the rural population, and nobody would have been more glad than myself if I could see my way to ask for an abolition of the chaulkidari tax altogether. Such a proposal in the present circumstances of our finances would be absurd, and even if there was an improvement in the finances I would hesitate to make such a proposal because I think that the public revenue has better and greater demands upon it than the payment of the rural police. What I ask, my Lord, is that the tax may be equitably distributed and the burden should fall on the shoulders of those who are more able to bear it than the poorer population. In the present Act it is stated Re. 1 is the maximum tax which is payable and firstly the Act also lays down that the richer people have first to be assessed and then the poorer, and if we have a maximum so low as Re. 1, the natural result would be that in order to meet the expenses of the chaulkidari union, we would have to place the tax on the poorer members of the community, and the rule which provides that exemptions should be made in favour of poor men cannot always be adhered to because the money has to be found and this money naturally raises the maximum to Rs. 4 as payable by one individual. I must submit, my Lord, that Rs. 4 a month will not be a heavy sum considering the fact that it will be levied on persons who are able to pay and who are comparatively very rich in the village. The poorer people, by which I mean the day-labourers, the poor artisans and others, have very little need of the village chaulkidar. In the present state of the rural population these people have scarcely anything in their houses which even a thief will condescend to steal, and besides their services are utilised in a very large number by the richer members of the community in the village. Formerly the chaulkidar was a sort of village servant and was paid by land. In my humble opinion it was a mistake to resume these chaulkidari lands and to make this cash payment to the chaulkidars by the imposition of this tax. But we must take things as they now stand. I therefore propose that the maximum be raised to Rs. 4; there will be no unfairness because the wealthier cannot be unduly taxed by the village panchayat, who will not dare to do anything wrong to the richer people and it will only give the village panchayat or the Deputy Magistrate or the District Magistrate an opportunity of relieving from taxation a large section of the people who deserve and ought to be relieved. The second part of my proposal is that people living in the municipal area should be made to pay chaulkidari tax for the maintenance of the village police; whereas the rural population which is comparatively very poor has to pay for the maintenance of the village police. People living within municipal areas who are comparatively rich are exempt from these police charges to which the rural population contributes more largely than the town people. Therefore it is on the question of equity and justice that we demand that the people within the Municipal area should be made to pay police tax just as the people in the rural area pay it. The saving thus caused to the public revenue might be better utilised in many other ways and many other reforms which cannot be carried out for want of money, and I have reason to believe that this Council will accept the resolution.”

The Hon'ble KUMAR SHIB SHEKHARSWAR RAY said :—

“ My Lord, my esteemed colleague has surely forestalled me in moving the present resolution. But as far as the latter part of the resolution is concerned, I fully support it. During the last debate on the Budget I referred to the anomalous distinction between the rural and urban population in the matter of local police taxes and though I was then summarily dismissed for resuscitating ancient history, I still hold that the Government should take some steps to remove this anomalous distinction. If we, the people in the country, are to be separately taxed for maintaining our police, I do not think that our brothers in the towns ought to claim an exemption from a similar tax and continue to be policed, from general revenue, at our cost. We pay something like rupees fifty lakhs in police taxes. If a similar tax is imposed on the urban population, I think that at least a sum of rupees ten lakhs of the general revenue would be annually free to be devoted to meet one of the many pressing needs of the country.

Kumar S. S. Ray; Sir H. Wheeler.

As for the first part of the resolution which urges the raising of the amount of maximum tax from Re. 1 to Rs. 4, I would like to point out that the people whom the Hon'ble Mover has in view in this connection, derive very little benefit from chaukidars. They undoubtedly can afford to pay the amount specified, but it must not be forgotten that they cannot depend on the chaukidars alone but have to keep their own guards to protect their property in the country. Under the circumstances it would be rather hard upon them to raise their tax.

I am, however, of opinion that the Chaukidari Acts require some useful changes and the Government would be well advised to take up an amendment of these Acts."

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY WHEELER said :—

"My Lord, this resolution raises two somewhat incongruous points which have no particular reference to each other, although the Hon'ble Member for some occult reason has brought them up together.

His first proposal is that the maximum chaukidari tax leviable on one person should be raised from Re. 1 to Rs. 4 per mensem, and he has justified it on arguments touching the pressure of this taxation on the poorer classes and the advisability of equalising its incidence by placing a heavier burden upon the rich. Into the merits of the proposal I do not think it necessary to go at the present time. There is a good deal to be said for it, and for the connected proposition that the pay of the chaukidar should be higher than it now is, but the whole position is under reconsideration in connection with another Bill, which is now before the Council. It is true that the Chaukidari Act does impose this monthly maximum of Re. 1 on an individual assessee, but if the Government proposals in connection with the Village Self-Government Bill are approved, that maximum will disappear; and if Hon'ble Members will refer to clause 39 of the Village Self-Government Bill, they will see that the rate to be imposed shall be an assessment according to the circumstances and the property within the village of the persons liable to the same, therefore all maximum will disappear, and people will pay according to their capacity. I submit that it is somewhat a waste of time, with this proposition before us in the near future and under reference to various bodies for opinion, for us to debate a resolution whether a particular section of the Chaukidari Act shall or shall not be amended, when the whole Act will in all probability go by the board in a very short time.

The second part of the resolution has reference to a point which was raised in the budget debate, and on which I then gave a very brief answer. The idea of the Hon'ble Mover is that inasmuch as the rural population pays chaukidari tax, it is only fair and equitable that the town population should pay something equivalent to the same. The argument from analogy is always somewhat dangerous, as it is apt to overlook many contingent circumstances.

Resolutions.Sir H. Wheeler.

There is no very close analogy between town police and village chaukidars. The police entertained in towns are not chaukidars, and, as I shall support by a subsequent question from the report of the Police Commission, they must be maintained in the interests of efficiency as part of the ordinary police force. There is nothing in a municipality similar to the old village life and village control as represented by the panchayat, and the analogy is therefore in no sense complete. But, apart from that, the history of municipal taxation for police purposes is one which it is well for the Council to remember. In the old days, municipalities used to contribute towards their police. In the eighties, when the Local Self-Government Reforms were under discussion by Lord Ripon's Government, it was definitely proposed that they should be relieved of taxation in order that they might apply their funds to sanitation, education, etc. In a letter from the Government of India of October 1881, the following paragraph occurs :—

'His Excellency in Council observes that at present the total annual amount spent on police by municipalities in British India amounts to about 27½ lakhs of rupees. The only function which the municipalities discharge in regard to police is the provision of funds for the purpose of meeting the whole, or a portion, of the cost of the municipal police force. They practically exercise no control over the police, and cannot therefore be expected to take any special interest in the efficiency of the force, or to look with sympathy on a provision of the law which treats them as a machinery for raising taxes to be spent on a department over which they have no control, and in the efficient and economical expenditure of which they have but little direct interest and no immediate responsibility. The Governor-General in Council would therefore be glad to see municipal bodies relieved altogether of the charge for police, an equal amount of expenditure on education, medical charity, and, if possible, Public Works of local interest, being transferred to them with as full control as may be practically expedient over the details of such expenditure.'

In the succeeding year, in February 1882, in pursuance of that policy, the Local Government remarks that it was the intention of the Lieutenant-Governor to relieve municipalities entirely of charges for police under a guarantee that the income then devoted to that object would be expended on education, sanitation and other works of improvement, the charges falling on Government being reduced, and the whole of the expense of maintaining police in municipalities, unions and stations in Bengal (with the exception of Calcutta, the Suburbs and Howrah) was eventually assumed by Government with effect from 1st April 1882.

Therefore, in the eighties, rightly or wrongly, these municipalities were relieved of these charges on condition that they spent their money in other directions of more immediate benefit to the towns. I cannot conceive, therefore, how the somewhat retrograde proposal of the Hon'ble Member can commend itself to those who represent municipal bodies in this Council. But there is a second argument. Apart from what was done in the eighties the whole system of municipal police was condemned by the last authoritative enquiry conducted by the Police Commission. Apparently at the time of that enquiry in some municipalities in Bengal these contributions still continued, and the Police Commission gave a very decided opinion on the point. They said :—

'In some provinces the police employed in the municipal towns other than the three Presidency towns and Rangoon which have been dealt with already, are paid wholly or in part from municipal funds. It is objected to this system that much-needed improvements are prevented by the inability or unwillingness of the municipal bodies to meet the necessary increased expenditure. The police in such towns are generally undermanned, there are no reserves, and an inferior agency is employed because it is cheaper. There is difficulty also in employing municipal police beyond municipal limits, and there is thus loss of efficiency through the town and the suburbs being under separate police forces. The Commission fully recognise that the cost of the police is a fair charge upon municipal revenue, but for the reasons just stated the system does not work well in any but largest cities. They consider, therefore, that in general the charges should be transferred to provincial revenues, which should in turn be relieved of expenditure on other departments which municipalities can better control'

Resolution.Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur; Babu M. N. Ray.

So, therefore, on the merits, there is the very authoritative and considered declaration of the Police Commission, and in pursuance of it, the Local Government of the time took action in 1907-08 to relieve the Howrah Municipality from such police contributions as it then made. As far as I know, no exception was taken at that time in Council or elsewhere to this step; therefore the present policy is one which was accepted for good reasons more than 30 years ago, and I submit to the Council that there can be no justification for now reverting from it."

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR said :—

"My lord, I beg to oppose this resolution. The resolution is divisible into two parts : first with regard to the increase from Re. 1 to Rs. 4 of taxation, and second, with regard to the distribution of the tax in the municipal areas. If my learned friend would have referred to the history of the imposition of this tax, he would have been satisfied that the assessment of Re. 1 was fixed after some discussion, and perhaps his experience will warn him that any increase over Re. 1 will be a great hardship to those who live in the village. Now that we are going to have a new Act which will deal with village unions, it will not be expedient or politic or desirable to have an enhancement of the rate. If the opinion of the villagers be taken I am almost sure that there will be a strong opposition, and although my Hon'ble friend considers that the poor people should be exempted and the rich men made to pay, he ought to remember on what standard and on what principle the assessment is to be made. I do submit that this part of the resolution ought not to be pressed upon the attention of the Council.

With regard to the second part of the resolution as to the distribution of the money to municipal areas, the learned mover ought to refer to the provisions of section 85 of the Bengal Municipal Act. That section deals with two parts ; (a) with reference to the imposition of a personal tax, and (b) the imposition of a rate. Will it not be hard if the residents of the municipality will have to pay for the benefit of the villagers? The municipality has nothing to do with the villages, and secondly, I cannot understand the reason which leads my friend to press upon the attention of the Council that the municipal residents ought to contribute some money to the village unions. I consider that this is an unreasonable proposition of law and fact, and it cannot be contended that those who live within the municipal jurisdiction ought to contribute anything for the benefit of the villages. Your Excellency's Government is aware of the fact that the present tax which is imposed upon the residents of the municipality is considered something like an income-tax. The language of the section is that the tax should be levied according to the circumstances of life and property. Many persons view the imposition of such a tax as income-tax. As a matter of fact they pay the income-tax and they are obliged to pay also the personal tax, so that there is a difference of opinion as regards the imposition of the tax. I would not be privileged, Sir, at this stage to refer to the mode of imposition, but I would ask my friend to withdraw this resolution with Your Excellency's permission, because various questions are to be discussed in all their bearings and it will be a great hardship if such a resolution were successfully carried in Council."

The Hon'ble BABU MAHENDRA NATH RAY said :—

"My lord, I had in mind that if my learned friend pressed his motion, I would vote silently on it, but it is perhaps desirable that I should say that in my opinion there is absolutely no justification for the resolution which he has thought it proper to move. The present maximum rate of assessment—the rate of Re. 1 per month—was arrived at after a careful consideration of the expenditure which is likely to be incurred, and the Hon'ble Members will see from the manuals on this subject which are available, that the revenue raised is intended to meet certain expenses for which budget provision is made annually. The budget contemplates the pay of a dafadar and two chaukidars. As the Hon'ble mover of this resolution may know, the pay of the dafadar and two chaukidars and other incidental expenses is amply met by the rates now raised, and there is no justification for the suggestion that the maximum rates should be raised from Re. 1 to Rs. 4 per month.

With regard to the amendment suggested to make the chaukidari tax payable by the residents in the municipal towns for the maintenance of the town, that involves such a fundamental change in the principle of municipal government that I do not desire to detain the Council by an elaborate discussion of this part of the resolution. There is absolutely no reason why this change should be made."

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM said :—

"My lord, after the statement made by the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler I do not think I am justified in pressing the resolution before the Council, but in asking permission to withdraw it, I should like to make a few observations on what has fallen from my learned friends the distinguished Chairman of the Municipality of Howrah and the Chairman of the Municipality of Hooghly. That the chaukidari tax has been imposed to meet the budget expenditure. That was the reason why the maximum should be raised. The budget has to be met now by taxing the poorer people more than the richer people. What I wanted to suggest was that the richer people should be taxed. However that discussion does not arise, as under the new Village Self-Government Bill the maximum question has been removed and there will be no limit to taxation so that difficulty will no longer arise. As regards the enforcement of the police tax on the residents of the municipal areas. I think that my proposal is only fair, if a rural population have to pay for their police force, I say, whatever guarantees Government may have given in the past, I see no reason why the public revenue should be made liable for the payment of the police in the municipal areas. True it is that they have to spend their income on sanitation and education and many other things, but these benefits are derived by the people living in the municipal towns and they enjoy all the advantages of municipal towns. That was the reason why I gave notice of the resolution. After what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member, I think my purpose has been served. I therefore beg permission to withdraw this resolution."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 9.

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that all proposals for the increase of fees in the Dacca College be abandoned.

He said :—

"My lord, in moving this resolution I do not wish to take up the time of this Council at any great length. I understand that the governing body of the Dacca College have recommended that the fees in that college should be raised from Rs. 6 to Rs. 9. Ordinarily, it might appear that an increment of Rs. 3 a month was not much, but I think that the members of this Council are well aware that a large majority of the parents who send their boys to College find it very difficult to have to pay even Rs. 3 per month or Rs. 36 annually; that means a very substantial portion of their income.

I think that Rs. 9 would be a burden which many of them will not be able to bear. I find that a question to this effect has been put by another member, and Government has already admitted that this proposal has given rise to much dissatisfaction. This proposal has not been received very favourably by the public, so I submit that it should not be given effect to. One of the reasons may be that the school fees in the Dacca College are somewhat lower than they ought to be, but it is much better that Government should come forward and bear the extra burden than that the parents should be obliged to pay more than they actually do in the present conditions. I submit that in view of all that has been elicited in the course of the replies that have been given to questions, and in view of the fact that the proposal has not been favourably received by the public, the proposal for the increase of fees should be abandoned."

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI said :—

"My lord, I brought forward a similar resolution as regards the Rajshahi and some other Colleges in connection with the last Financial Statement. I have no doubt that this proposed increase will fall very heavily on the purses of poor parents. I further think that education should be made nowadays much cheaper than it is, and the fee rates in the colleges should be as low as possible. I have nothing further to add, and I cordially support this resolution."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"My lord, the proposal that the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq has in mind is a proposal of the governing body of the Dacca College to the Director of Public Instruction. This proposal has, however, not come up to Government; the proposal was for a general increase of fees to be accompanied by a proposal for the grant of a concession rate of Rs. 3 a month on 20 per cent. of the admissions. I may tell the Hon'ble mover of the resolution that Government have no intention of raising the fees at present; but of course it must be clearly understood that in a matter of this kind, a guarantee that fees will never be raised cannot be given.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri thinks that the expenses of education should be kept as low as possible. I am afraid that I must differ from that view entirely, because every day education will not become cheaper but dearer; and if any degree of success in self-government is to be achieved in this country, the expenditure on education must go on increasing, and it cannot be expected either for Government or for any public bodies to maintain their colleges by simply giving out grants and leaving the fees at the rates that they are at present. As I have already said regarding the Dacca College, Government have no intention of raising the fees at present, and, therefore, I hope that however on receipt of this assurance the Hon'ble Member will withdraw his resolution."

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ said :—

"My lord, I think in effect my resolution has been accepted. I am prepared to add the words 'at present' as that will meet the position taken up by Government."

Resolution.Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan ; Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq.

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"My lord, I do not think Government can accept the resolution when there is no proposal before the Government. Therefore, the Government cannot accept the resolution as it stands. The proposal not being before Government the question does not arise."

The Hon'ble MAULVI FAZL-UL-HAQ said :—

"My lord, in that view of the matter, I beg leave to withdraw the resolution."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 10.

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a selected Muhammadan officer be placed on special duty to inquire into the management of wagf properties within the limits of Calcutta and the suburbs and to collect materials with a view to taking such action regarding the proper management of such properties as the circumstances of each case may render advisable.

He said :—

"This is one of the questions which are well known to the public and about which the public are agreed that something ought to be done, and the only question, therefore, is one of ways and means as to what ought to be done. In order, therefore, to collect materials and prepare some data for action that might be taken my suggestion is that a selected officer might be placed on special duty. There are some wagf properties in Calcutta about which so far as members of my community are concerned the facts are so well known about the mismanagement of these properties by the matwalis and others responsible for their management that it has become something like a public scandal. In the case of one of these properties, the annual income about 25 years ago was a little over Rs. 15,000 and at the present moment it has come down to Rs. 3,000 and even then the major portion of the income is not devoted to the purposes for which this income was primarily intended. The reason why I propose that an officer be placed on special duty is this: We find that private individuals seldom think it worth their while to devote their time and attention and the labour that is necessary to collect materials before any action can be taken, and since the proper management of these endowed properties is as much a matter of concern to Government as to the beneficiaries under these endowments, I submit that it would not be a waste of public money to appoint an officer who will devote his time and energy and attention in order to collect information for the consideration of this question. There are probationary officers in every district, and one of these officers may be set to work out the scheme. It won't be a serious interference of the public service if one such officer is placed on special duty. With these few words, my lord, I beg to commend the resolution to the Council."

Resolution.

Maulvi A. Kasem, the President, Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur.

THE HON'BLE MAULVI ABUL KASEM said :—

"My lord, I beg to associate myself with the resolution that has been moved by my Hon'ble friend to my left, and if Your Excellency will kindly permit me I would suggest an amendment that the words 'within the Municipality of Calcutta' be deleted from the resolution itself. My object in making that amendment is that in the mufassal there are waqf properties which are grossly mismanaged, and, if I may go so far as to say, the funds of which are misappropriated. I will cite an instance. Even in these hard days Government felt themselves in duty bound to institute a civil suit in a district in Northern Bengal against a matwali and this cost a large amount of money in the Civil Court. So there is no doubt whatever that there has been gross mismanagement and misappropriation of these waqf properties. Unfortunately, several waqf properties in my own district and also in some other districts have been disposed of as private properties. Matwalis who used to take care of these properties sometimes would even go so far as to appropriate the surplus money and devote it to their personal use. The action suggested in the resolution would be justified if only in the interest of the beneficiaries. About the year 1885 or 1886, a commission was appointed presided over by the late Sir Charles Elliot and of which the late Mr. Nolan was a member to inquire into the whole question, and if a copy of their report is obtainable now, it will be found that there were large educational endowments in connection with many waqf properties, and we are in urgent need of money at present for Muhammadan education. The Government of Bengal are not in a position to make any grant towards Muhammadan education at present and the Government of India will not allow us to tax ourselves for this purpose. I hope Your Excellency's Government will see their way to accept this resolution and institute some sort of inquiry into the condition of waqf properties. My Hon'ble friend has suggested that he will be satisfied even if a probationary Deputy Collector is appointed for this purpose. But I hope and trust that a senior officer with more experience will be chosen for this onerous duty."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"To the original question an amendment has been proposed, to leave out the words 'within the limits of Calcutta and the suburbs.' Since due notice has not been given of this amendment, it is open to any Hon'ble Member to object to the amendment being moved."

Objection not being made the Hon'ble RAI DEBENDER CHUNDER GHOSE BAHADUR said :—

"My lord, much as I sympathise with the Hon'ble mover and the seconder of the resolution as regards some Government action in regard to waqf properties in Calcutta and its suburbs for making some sort of inquiry into their management, I find it difficult to support this resolution, because, as proposed by the Hon'ble mover, it will not be a workable scheme. It is no doubt desirable, in the interest of the public, to get information as regards the management of these waqf estates, but how is this inquiry to be made? My Hon'ble friend suggests that if a Government officer goes to the matwali, all the materials would be placed before him. I think I have some experience of these matters. I should think that even the presence of the Member of the Board of Revenue before the matwali would not influence him to disclose information as regards the management of the estate under his charge and he would certainly refuse to give him any information or lay any papers before him. In that case what can a Government officer do? He will be quite powerless to do anything. As the situation stands at present it is only a Court of law which can make the inquiry, and that also at the instance of a person interested in the affairs of the estate, if the Advocate-General moves the matter, or if the Collector of the district in which the estate is situated, helps any person interested in the affairs of the estate to go to Court and give him the required sanction. It is a tedious and laborious process and very few persons are public-spirited enough to move in the matter and do the needful. I know, and I quite sympathize with the Hon'ble Member on the other side of the House, that waqf properties should not be allowed to be wasted in that way. But the proper remedy would be some legislative measure under which the matwali will be compelled to give certain information just as persons connected with Joint Stock Companies have to do to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies. If you can modify the statute in this way then it will be possible for persons interested in the waqf estates to cause an inquiry to be made into the affairs of the estates. But as matter stands now the person knows nothing and has no reliable information about the affairs of the waqf estates. These estates may be utilized a good deal for the promotion of education among Muhammadans. The pious endowers naturally wished to have the money spent for the good of their community. It is time that the State should intervene and see whether some statutory enactment could not be provided for giving facilities for better administration of waqf estates. Entertaining these views, I oppose this resolution."

Resolution.Mr. M. Ashraf Ali Khan Chaudhuri.

The Hon'ble MR. M. ASHRAF ALI KHAN CHAUDHURI said :—

"My lord, last year I wanted to bring in a resolution somewhat to this effect, but under some rules it could not be brought before this Council and so it was rejected. I wanted that an officer be appointed as a permanent Inspector-General of Waqf Properties. Perhaps that was one of the reasons why the resolution was rejected. I forget what was the exact resolution, but it was something like this: 'That a Muhammadan officer be appointed and that he be empowered to take necessary steps, etc.' My lord, it is an open secret that most of the waqf estates in our country are not managed or treated as they ought to be managed or treated. This reminds one of benami transactions. A man purchases a property in the name of another. He cheats his creditor by saying that the property is not his. And if the benamidar gives trouble, he can always say that he only holds it in trust for him. The matwali holds the waqf property as God's benamidar. When his creditor comes to him, he says it is God's property and when God comes he says it is his own property. It is God's property when it is to his advantage and it is his own property when that is to his advantage. My lord, this is what is going on with the waqf properties. In many estates in Bengal, the matwalis spend the money for their own purposes diametrically opposite to for what they were intended and which they have no right to do. I do not see what harm is there in appointing a Muhammadan officer who from time to time will make inquiries as to how the income of the waqf properties is being spent by the matwalis. He could collect evidence from men who knew what the matwalis were doing. And if he is satisfied that a particular property is being mismanaged, he can bring a suit in a Court of law and bring that man to justice. The cost of the case might be borne by the estate. I wanted the officer for the whole of Bengal, but my Hon'ble friend Maulvi Abul Kasem has anticipated me. Of course it is particularly necessary for Calcutta. Nobody knows what property is waqf property in Calcutta. The Improvement Trust tries to open out a congested part of the town perhaps, and then somebody comes out and says that his miserable hut is a waqf property, thus creating a deadlock. There should be a register of waqf properties in Calcutta. In the whole of Bengal, we do not really know who are the trustees and who the beneficiaries. Take the case of the Mohsin Endowment. We derive benefit from this fund only because there was a litigation over the appointment of a matwali and the estate went into the hands of a receiver, and with the money saved during the time the estate was in the hands of a receiver, some Government papers were brought and the interest being in the hands of the Government, we derive some sort of benefit. This is the sort of case in which Government is justified in taking action, and I hope that they will take action in respect of all waqf estates."

Resolution.

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING said :—

" My lord, the proposal before the Council is that an enquiry should be made into the management of waqf properties within the limits of the metropolitan area, in order that material may be collected with a view to taking further action regarding the management of such properties. I can assure the Hon'ble Members of this Council that Government are not unaware of the fact that there is an uneasy feeling in the minds of certain sections of the public regarding the administration of these properties, and the Government are also aware that a wish has been expressed that Government should come to the assistance of those who hold such opinions. I may, however, inform the Council at once that the resolution has already been anticipated by Government—not this Government but the Government of India—as the matter is more than one of provincial concern. It will be noted at the outset that the Hon'ble Member has limited his enquiry to Calcutta and its vicinity ; but, as has been explained by another Hon'ble Member who moved an amendment that there is an objection to such limitation, it is obvious that any action regarding waqf property should have a wider application than the limits of Calcutta. But apart from such an objection, I may explain to the Council that there are two main grounds why Government are not prepared to accept this resolution. The Hon'ble Rai Debendra Chandra Ghose Bahadur, quite unconscious of what Government has done, has pointed out the imperfections in the proposal and the appropriate remedy in the form of legislation. The first ground is obviously that any such action, as the appointment of a Government officer for this purpose, would be futile in that the officer selected would have no statutory powers. The second ground is obviously that such statutory powers as are required for the purpose of enquiry into and control over waqfs should be conferred by the Imperial Council.

As regards the first point, as I have said before, such a special officer whom the resolution proposes to appoint would have no legal status or authority. Waqf managers would have merely to greet him with a definite refusal of information, and he would be powerless ; besides, a waqf is a private trust and Government would be no more justified without special legislation in interfering with the management on the lines of the resolution than with any other private business.

The second ground which I have already mentioned, namely, that statutory powers must be taken in the Imperial Council is the more important. The Hon'ble Member is himself aware that early in 1916 he submitted the draft of a bill entitled the Bengal Waqf Registration Act which he desired to introduce into the Bengal Legislative Council. He was informed in May 1916 that the subject of the administration of religious and charitable endowments in India had received the full consideration of the Government of India and of the Secretary of State, who had approved the proposal that Imperial legislation should be undertaken. A bill for the purpose was drafted ; but the Government of India at that time decided to postpone its introduction ; and the Hon'ble Member was informed that any separate provincial legislation on the same subject could not conveniently be introduced until the Imperial Bill had been passed into law. The facts, therefore, are that the Government of India contemplate legislation on the subject which is at present suspended ; that without legislation no statutory powers can be conferred ; and that without statutory powers an enquiry of the nature suggested by the Hon'ble mover would be infructuous.

Resolution.Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ashraf Ali Khan Chaudhuri has explained in the course of his speech that he made a similar proposal about a year ago. His proposal, I may inform the Council, was that an officer should be appointed by Government to inspect not only wakf but also debtar properties; and he was informed that without legislation, which was a matter primarily for the Imperial Council, no such officer could be appointed with the requisite powers. I can understand the impatience that is felt by the Hon'ble mover and other gentlemen of his persuasion; I can realise that he feels strongly on the subject of the alleged scandals in connection with the management of such trust properties; but I feel sure that he will recognise that the greater includes the less in this case; and that when his draft Bill has not been accepted, a proposal of this kind, although at first sight it looks very much smaller and therefore possibly acceptable, must be governed by the same principle.

On these grounds, Sir, on behalf of Government, while I am in accord with the textual wording of the amendment, I must oppose the resolution in its original form."

The Hon'ble MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ said :—

"My lord, I had originally nothing to say in reply, but the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose's speech compels me to say something if only to explain my position. As regards legislation, I may tell the Rai Bahadur that the matter did not escape my attention. But we must collect materials before we can take any action. Some sort of legislation is undoubtedly necessary, and the officer who is to be deputed must be armed with statutory powers. It is with this object in view that I drafted a Bill which I formally submitted to Government and asked their permission to introduce it in Council. As the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming has said Government were not prepared to give me that permission for reasons which were communicated to me and which have been read out just now. I was then given to understand that the Government of India contemplated taking legislative action in this matter, and I was given to understand that in view of the action which the Government of India were going to take, it was superfluous on the part of a provincial Government to do anything further in the matter. But I doubt very much whether this good intention of the Government of India has any chance of being put into practice within a measurable distance of time. Of course I understand that it is engaging the attention of the Government. But it is for the sake of beneficiaries of these waqf estates that I have proposed, as a temporary measure, that a certain officer may be appointed and that he be deputed to take certain action before legislative action is taken by Government. Mine is only a temporary measure, and this will not prevent Government from taking action by means of legislation. The Rai Bahadur has pointed out certain obvious difficulties in the way of the officer who may be deputed for this purpose from collecting information. He says that even if the Member of the Board of Revenue is present, the matwali will withhold information from him. I do not know whether the Hon'ble Member has forgotten but I remember that in a case before the Collector at Alipore he appeared for one of the matwalis and most unconsciously, in the exercise of his profession, was of great help to the matwali so far as this particular point is concerned. But of course what he did he did in the best interests of his client. There are records in Courts and these records will show how, in the case of most of these estates, that so-called matwalis have recourse to law in order to bring about all sorts of complication and they have recourse to all sorts of legal proceedings to deprive the waqf properties of some of their most valued possessions and ultimately become owners of these properties and misappropriate their income. So far as the matwalis are concerned, I do not believe that they can withhold information from a Government servant of some standing. But even if they do so, there are other sources from which information can be gathered and it would give us ample materials for any action to be taken. Of course we all know that it is open to us, as members of the public, to take action under section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, but so far as that is concerned, certain information have got to be gathered before any action can be taken, and it is for this reason that I am pressing for the deputation of a suitable Government officer. I still hold the view that it would be some time before legislative action is undertaken, and I therefore suggest that an officer be placed on special duty for collecting materials for action to be taken in this matter. I am proposing to accept the suggestion of the Hon'ble Maulvi Ashraf Ali that the resolution be so worded as not to be limited to Calcutta and its suburbs but be extended to the whole of the Presidency. In spite of the remarks that have fallen from the Hon'ble Member who has replied on behalf of Government, I do not think that I can do anything but press the resolution."

*Resolution.Babu K. M. Chaudhuri.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 11.

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that immediate steps be taken to introduce a system of compulsory military drill in all Government schools and colleges.

He said :—

My lord, in moving this resolution I have every hope that I shall get the sympathetic consideration of the Government and the whole-hearted support of this Council, and I think it requires no very lengthy argument from me to convince this Council of the urgent necessity of taking active steps to inculcate in the rising generation a chivalric spirit of devotional service to the King and the Motherland. In order that this spirit may be properly developed it should form part of the educational system, so that it may foster and create habits of self-control, discipline and fortitude, under disturbing conditions, amenable to the command of the guiding authorities.

Recent experience from the working of the Bengal Ambulance Corps and the Bengali Regiment has taught us that even after a very long period of complete inaction there is still a martial spirit in the Bengali blood, which, if nurtured with care, may, at no very distant date, give, out of the Bengali population, a substantial unit in the Indian Army.

I am aware that my friend the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Dutt has suggested in his notice of resolution that military drill should be introduced in all colleges and schools. Really there is no difference between him and myself. I think no time should be lost and Government should at once introduce in all the schools and colleges under their control, and the private educational institutions may follow their example in due course.

Circumstances, my lord, to which I need not refer in detail, have forced upon us the inevitable conclusion that every able-bodied man should be ready, whenever required, to take up arms in the defence of his hearth and home—his mother, sisters and children and thereby to maintain the peace and integrity of the Empire we live in. If we are to do this the beginning should be made in the educational institutions. The educated community really is the backbone of the country, and they are the truly loyal subjects of His Majesty the King-Emperor, and it is from the educated people mainly that we have been able to gather recruits. And therefore if these educated people are made to grow up—not for the dark rooms of the Secretariat, adding and subtracting figures day after day for thirty bright silver coins at the end of the month—but as men to realise life with its infinite potentialities, they, I am sure, my lord, will be a real strength to the Empire.

I may take it that the Government also have realised this necessity as is shown by their acceptance of the resolution moved by Hon'ble Rao Bahadur B. N. Sarma in the Imperial Council on the 21st March, 1917, recommending the urgent desirability of encouraging the Boy Scout movement among Indian students. On that occasion the Hon'ble Sir C. Sankaran Nair said 'So far as the Indian Boy Scout movement is concerned, the Government are prepared to encourage it in India,' and the whole country is thankful to the Government for the same. My present resolution, I think, my lord, if accepted by this Council, will be only a step in furtherance of the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Sarma, and will be an additional stimulus to the progress of the Boy Scout movement among Indian students. And this step becomes also necessary as a preliminary in view of the recent pronouncement by the Government that Commissions—though only a limited number of them—in the Indian Army will be given to Indians in the future. I am very glad to notice that a resolution almost similar to mine was moved by my friend the Hon'ble Dr. Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari in the Senate of the Calcutta University on the 18th May last, and that the matter is being considered by a committee of the same.

And lastly, my lord, I hope that the step suggested in my resolution is very likely to be a cure for the malady which we are all very sorry to notice here and there now and then—I mean the spirit of anarchism—for, my lord, to my mind if the Boy Scout movement is encouraged and military drill introduced, the playful spirit of the young will find sufficient scope and will not seek other dangerous and mischievous outlets.

With these few words I commend this resolution to the acceptance of the House."

The Hon'ble Mr. CRUM said :—

"My lord, I wish I could persuade the Hon'ble Member who has moved this resolution, and those who are in favour of it, to withdraw it. I have a certain amount of experience of compulsory military drill, and for that reason I think it is both impracticable and unsuitable for Bengal. As regards its impracticability, I do not know how many schools there are in Bengal; I was told the number the other day, but I do not remember it, but I think the late Vice-Chancellor of the University will be able to give us the information; but at any rate, I think probably that all the instructors in the British army in India would be needed to instruct all the boys in military drill. It is perfectly obvious that you cannot introduce compulsory military drill without proper instructors.

The second reason why I think it is unsuitable as far as the boys in this country are concerned is that I do not remember anything more trying or boring than the hour of drill that I used to go through at school—I daresay Your Excellency has as lively a recollection as I have of the daily hour of drill.

The Hon'ble mover has referred to the scout movement in India. I shall refer to what Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who is the greatest authority on the scout movement, says about military drill for boys :—

'Military drill gives a feeble unimaginative officer a something with which to occupy his boys. He does not consider whether it appeals to them or really does them good. It saves him a world of trouble.

Military drill tends to destroy individuality, whereas we want to develop individual character; and when once it has been learnt it bores a boy who is longing to be tearing about on some enterprise or other, it blunts his keenness.'

And again—'When I see a troop drill well but fail to follow a trail or cook its own food I recognise that the master is no good as such. The indifferent or unimaginative officer always falls back on drill as his one resource.'

This, Sir, is the opinion of the greatest authority on the training of boys and in view of this, I really very much wish that the Hon'ble mover of this resolution would withdraw it; I am perfectly certain that five years hence he or his successors will ask this Council to take away this compulsory military drill from schools."

Resolution.Sir D. P. Sarvadhikari.

The Hon'ble SIR DEBA PRASAD SARVADHIKARY said :—

"My lord, it would have been better if this motion had come up after the Committee of the Senate which is considering this question submitted its report. The question is not an entirely new one. When Sir Gurudas Banerjee was Vice-Chancellor the question of compulsory drill was taken up. There was opposition probably for such reasons as have been advanced by the Hon'ble Mr. Crum; any way the scheme fell through. And the result has been an absolute state of unpreparedness. The principle of the scheme was, however, accepted in a half-hearted way and a lifeless and unimaginative sort of drill was introduced in some of our schools and which is now conducted by imperfectly-trained drill-masters. But what is there to prevent us from teaching our boys real drill? The Hon'ble Mr. Crum thinks that there are not enough instructors in the British army for Bengal schools and colleges. I do not know what the number is of the instructors in the British army. But difficulties in this and other directions have to be overcome if we are satisfied that the matter should be taken up in right earnest. And the system which Mr. Crum calls unimaginative has to be replaced. It is by no means perfect, but still it is something. The object of the proposal of substituting military drill, boy-scout training or whatever else may be decided on is that we should, in the first place, inculcate ideas of discipline in the minds of the boys, and in the second place, try to be in a state of preparedness for any emergency that may arise. I have no doubt that our boys would have been able to do their work much better if they had some sort of training of the kind indicated. Of course there are difficulties in the way. But the position that would arise if the present state of things continued be much more difficult. Without traditions, without any sort of preparedness we have been able to raise men for the Ambulance Corps, the University Infantry, the Bengal Light Horse, the Bengali Battalion and the Indian Defence Force who have not discredited us on the whole, though regrettable isolated cases of abuse have proved to be inevitable. I shall not pause to enquire whether the criticisms about military backwardness that are levelled against us are just or not, but we do feel that we are not doing nor are able to do anything like our little bit because of the lack of discipline and the condition of unpreparedness, and we strongly plead for a better order of things. The responsibility of continued inefficiency will be on those who deny us this. My Hon'ble friend has asked for the introduction of some sort of training. If the scout training which Mr. Crum advocated will do for the purpose, let it do for the school boys. But for the College boys we advocate military training, unimaginative though it may be. My lord, we have had enough of soul-uplifting agencies in this country, educational, philosophical and otherwise. It is time that we had something the other way, for the stern realities of the situation have to be faced. We can only indicate our readiness and formulate our demands. It is for the authorities to solve the question of ways and means. And if we formulate our demands, indicate our readiness and if there be lack of means or willingness on the part of the authorities to avail of this unquestionable and unquestioned willingness, why then the result will be anything but encouraging. It would not do to rest the question or give it up because of the supposed unimaginative aspect of the thing or because of its difficulty. If there are not enough instructors available, some of the teachers may be deputed to get some sort of training from military instructors in the same way that they are sent to training schools now. Of course it cannot be done all at once; it will have to be done slowly. If we are to get recruits for the army, it must be the educated people who will show the way for a long time to come yet. They have always done it in other fields, and it is some satisfaction to know that they are doing it in this field also. But what they are doing is not nearly enough; because of the lack of surroundings and atmosphere, there is an admitted

But there is a possibility of doing it from the point of view of the students. There are no proposals for want of sufficient support. Let the training be confined to colleges for the present. The course may be improved and the exam movement may be introduced. The instructors will have to take up only 50 colleges or less, perhaps, and that, I take it, will not be very difficult. Whether the M. A. classes comes under the term colleges need not enter into the question at all for the present. The great thing is to give it a start at once even if we cannot take up the whole thing.

"...the practical interest of this question is, to my mind, its bearing upon the physique of the pupils in the schools and colleges of Bengal. I have had extensive opportunities of observing the effects of compulsory military drill both with arms and without arms upon school boys. And it is my deliberate opinion that the value from the physical education point of view of military drill with arms is very doubtful. The same objections, however, do not hold for military drill without arms, and such drill no doubt has its value in teaching boys to move about intelligently in bodies, and in giving them what, I believe, is called a smart and soldierly manner. But all these advantages can be had by introducing in schools one or other of the forms of what is called Swedish drill. This form of physical education has for school boys the advantages that military drill has, and is without its disadvantages, and therefore I should be inclined to support the resolution if the word 'military' were deleted."

"My lord, I beg to support this resolution. When engaged in recruiting work in the museum, I have got the impression that the recruits have had no preliminary training in drill. If our boys had been trained properly in military drill, this difficulty would not have arisen. I am led to think that, in the circumstances in which we are situated at present, if this system is introduced at the early stage all these difficulties will be obviated. The system of drill which is introduced in our colleges and schools in the museum are based upon some recommendations made by Dr. Gray in his little book which is chiefly recommended for physical drill. I submit respectfully that a compulsory drill should be introduced. The question is however of some difficulty, as what sort of military drill is to be introduced into our colleges and schools. If we can get the men who can teach our boys properly, it will be indeed a good thing to introduce compulsory military drill at once. If a delay is made, I think we cannot expect to get better soldiers. For these reasons, my lord, I beg to support the resolution, which I consider will have a very salutary effect in teaching our boys in the military way. If about 40 years ago military schools and colleges had been established, our country would have got thousands and thousands of boys well trained to go to the battlefields. But, my lord, that policy was not adopted, although I am sure that when I was a boy in the college about 40 years ago, my father's application was made to the military authorities and their request was not entertained. My lord, I do not see any reason why our country should not be allowed any sort of military education. My idea is to have military schools and to have more arts colleges and science colleges, and to have military colleges in important centres. I am not in favour of sending recruiting officers all over the country. That is not reason for supporting this resolution."

Resolution.The Maharajahkirtiya Bahadur of Burdwan.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJADITRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"My lord, I think what most of the members who have spoken on this subject including the mover of the resolution have in their mind is that Bengal has suddenly been awakened to the necessity of having good Bengali soldiers, and there is no doubt that the Bengal Ambulance Corps movement as well as the Bengali Regiment have revived the martial spirit, and I may say, instilled the martial spirit into the educated classes of Bengal; but while that is so, the resolution which the Hon'ble Babu Kisor Mohan Chaudhuri has proposed recommends to the Governor in Council that immediate steps be taken to introduce a system of compulsory military drill in all Government schools and colleges. There is a similar resolution standing in the name of the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta who wants to go a step further and introduce that system in all schools and colleges in Bengal and not simply limit it to the Government institutions. This resolution has two aspects; first of all, that which relates to the schools and then that which relates to the colleges. I propose to take up, first of all, the aspect so far as the schools are concerned before I can deal with the other aspect. The Hon'ble Mr. Crum spoke at some length on the inadvisability and impracticability of having military drill introduced into schools. I think he said that he disliked the one hour's drill which even Your Excellency had also to undergo, but that it was a drill without arms which makes a distinct difference. I shall come to that point later on. Meanwhile, I would like to add one or two authorities to the quotations made by Mr. Crum regarding the inadvisability of introducing military drill into schools. He has already quoted Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who at another place says that 'if you want to spoil a soldier give a boy military drill.'

Sir William Aitkin, Professor of Pathology in the Netley Medical College, says 'Boys given military training at eighteen or before make soldiers who are less robust and efficient than men with whom this training was deferred a few years remaining in civil life until after their bones, heart, lungs, liver, etc., were more matured and developed. Recruits at eighteen or under show immaturity which results only too frequently in their ending in the hospital or being discharged as invalids.'

'Military opinion in all countries accepts this point of view. Military drill can be easily and quickly taught: the great trouble is that of conditioning the men. Given the material, the soldier is soon made, and the material is developed by systematic scientific physical training suited to its years.' In England shortly after the outbreak of war certain schools acting as they thought in response to the needs of the time substituted military drill for school drill: this was promptly censured by authority as harsh.

I shall go back for a moment to the question raised by the Hon'ble mover of this resolution regarding the Boy Scout movement. I may say that Government is not indifferent at all to the Boy Scout movement in Bengal. In fact, in Calcutta—and the Hon'ble Mr. Crum will bear me out in this—a governing body has been created for the Boy Scout movement known, I think, as the Boy Scout of Bengal, and I believe they have shown excellent results in a very short time. Of course, Government are waiting to see whether the material available would justify their sanctioning it in certain other centres later on in Bengal; but for the present we must watch the movement now started in Calcutta. On the other hand, regarding this Boy Scout movement I wish to remove an erroneous impression. It must be clearly understood that the Boy Scout movement is an entirely non-military movement; it is a movement which is just as much necessary for the discipline of boys as physical drill or Swedish exercise referred to by the Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood in schools.

Resolution.The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

The Hon'ble Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari, the late Vice-Chancellor of the Calcutta University, has taken a great interest in this question of military drill in Bengal, and as he has just now said, he would have preferred the postponement of the discussion of this resolution until the report of the Committee appointed by the Senate was received; but if I understood him rightly he was not so anxious for military drill in schools, as long as some kind of drill was introduced. That being so, it simplifies my case so far as he is concerned. I think many of the members of Council are aware that in most Government schools and colleges there is a system of physical drill, and also in some aided schools and private institutions, some kind of physical drill has been introduced. If the Hon'ble mover of the resolution and those who have supported him were to bring forward a proposal that greater endeavours should be made to introduce a system—perhaps a more elaborate system than at present—of physical drill in schools, I am sure Government would give it its closest consideration. But here, again, I must sound a note of warning; as has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Mr. Crum, so far as military drill is concerned, there is a difficulty about instructors and this applies with equal force to the question of physical drill. For the present, it is almost impossible; even later on, we will not be able to get in a day the number of instructors required for the purpose. Then, again, there is another aspect. If we are to accept the idea that military training is not suitable for schools, but that some kind of drill as would train the boys, teach them discipline and enable them to join any military corps in colleges after their school career; even then the fact must not be lost sight of, that in private colleges or in aided schools, it might be a hardship on these institutions to begin with. Even if you were to leave out private institutions and if you insisted on physical drill being introduced and made compulsory in all schools, it would result in Government having to stop its grants to those schools and colleges which would not be able to introduce physical drill according to the standard Government might prescribe. Therefore in considering this question that aspect will also have to be taken into consideration.

Then, again, military drill has a specific purpose, to train selected young men of good physique to better physique and endurance, and to carry out movements necessary in war, whereas school drill has its specific purpose—to give all children physiques and constitutions, better health and strength and mental and bodily alertness. Military, medical and educational opinion in, I believe, every experienced country holds that it is a mistake to attempt to identify them; that the child is spoilt as present child and future soldier if he is prematurely introduced to formal military drill. On these grounds, I think I have made it abundantly clear that it is impossible for Government to accept the question of military drill so far as schools are concerned.

In schools where the Government think that there is room for development, physical drill such as Swedish gymnastics might be introduced, but even then one will have to proceed cautiously as it might prove a hardship to those aided schools who may not be able to afford an instructor straight off for the purpose. Moreover, I do not know whether it would be quite wise also to make it compulsory in private institutions, but this is a matter which will require further consideration.

I now turn to the other side of this question which relates to colleges. Regarding this I would like to point out that I do not think that sufficient time has elapsed to judge the result achieved by the University Unit under the Indian Defence Forces. I think we should await that before we consider the desirability or otherwise of extending the system of military drill in Colleges, whether Government or otherwise, in Bengal. Moreover, I think that you cannot achieve that in a day or two, nor can you make the people of Bengal military in a generation when there has been stagnation for centuries past so far as military aspirations are concerned. Then, again, I would like to point out that this is the most unsuitable time to press upon the attention of Government the question of raising further difficulties so far as the military authorities are concerned regarding new units of military course of training in colleges. You have at present the Indian Defence Force, and I believe, although I cannot give it out in exact figures, that there is a proposal to raise the number of the Indian Defence Force so far as the non-European section is concerned. Then, again, you have the Bengali Regiment; you have your University unit under the Indian Defence Force; you have recently noticed in the newspapers the announcement made that commissions are going to be given in the Army to selected Indians; what is further, that 10 cadets, I believe, a year are to be recommended to go up for training at the Sandhurst College. Now you will admit that these are very considerable advances, and before you try new tests with your young men, let us see how these work. The military are not in a mood just now to have further taxes on their patience, put and I therefore request the Hon'ble member on the ground that it is not only inadvisable but impracticable to have military training in schools, and secondly for the present, we should watch the results of the University Corps and the Indian Defence Force and the other military organisations in which Bengalis can participate, that would be better for him to withdraw this resolution. I may add that Government cannot accept it."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My lord, I am asked to speak, but I do not wish to prolong the debate with any observations of mine."

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI said :—

"My lord, I must make my point clear at the outset by saying that I advisedly used the word 'Government' in referring to schools and colleges in my resolution. If the training is confined only to Government schools and colleges then a large number of instructors will not be necessary. I have not submitted any scheme of military drill as I am not the proper person to do it. All I want is that our boys should be trained in such a way as will prepare them in due course to take up military training whenever required. If for that purpose the word 'military' in my resolution is found to be unnecessary, I have no objection to omit it. In what form the drill should be introduced can only be considered by Government in consultation with both military and educational authorities. My object is not to start military schools and colleges but it is to give our boys some sort of training—something better than what they are getting now—boy scout training or anything, and I want it also to be extended to colleges. Whether the training will be with arms or without arms it is not for me to say, although, I think, with proper safeguards arms may be used. But a beginning has got to be made. I do not know whether Your Excellency thinks that it would be better for us to wait till the report of the Senate Committee is submitted. But all I ask is that the matter should not be rejected. If the principle is accepted by Government, we might wait for the Senate's report. As regards the objection raised by the Hon'ble Mr. Crum about the dearth of instructors and the form of drill with a view to train our boys for a military career, I think, if the principle is accepted those difficulties won't stand in the way. In that view I hope that my resolution will not be rejected. I am not very anxious in what form it is accepted. I perfectly understand that the scheme shall have to be considered in consultation with military and educational authorities. The time has now come for a military training. The reason why there are not more Bengali Battalions is that we have had no military training and no martial spirit was inculcated into our minds. We do not know whether the services of all able-bodied men will not be required for the defence of the country. And I earnestly pray that my resolution will be accepted in whatever form the Government chooses to accept it. I only hope that the principle will not be lost sight of."

The resolution was put.

The Hon'ble BABU KISHORI MOHAN CHAUDHURI said :—

"My lord, may I make a slight amendment? May I omit the word 'military'."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"I object to an amendment being made now."

The PRESIDENT said :—

"As objection is made, the amendment cannot be moved."

*Resolution.Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 12.

The following resolution which stood in the name of the Hon'ble BABU AKHIL CHANDRA DATTA was held to be covered by the debate on the previous resolution and was deemed to be withdrawn :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a system of military drill be introduced in all schools and colleges in Bengal.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 13.

The Hon'ble RAI DEBENDER CHUNDER GHOSE BAHADUR moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that Government do advise the Calcutta Improvement Trust that in disposing of surplus side lands as building sites, the Trust should, where possible, lot them—

- (i) in the case of newly-made or broadened streets, having a width of eighty feet and upwards, into plots of not less than one bigha in area ;
- (ii) in the case of streets having a width of sixty feet, into plots of not less than ten katas ;
- (iii) in the case of streets having a width of forty feet and less, into plots of not less than four katas ; and
- (iv) where the surplus land lies by the side of a park or square, into plots of not less than ten katas.

He said :—

"My lord, I crave leave to say a few words on the operations of the Calcutta Improvement Trust created some six years ago with the object of promoting the structural sanitation of Calcutta. Let me assure those connected with that body who happen to be members of this Council that their schemes and their energy in pushing them through are appreciated, and that the criticism which might be offered now is expressed with a sense of regret that, having had the opportunity of shaping the city of Calcutta on the lines of Jeypore in India or Paris in Europe, they have neglected it, and have been content to open out streets without regulating for assorted class and types of side buildings and only keeping their eyes open on the main chance of getting a high price on the land sold.

The Improvement Trust Act cannot be said to be the happiest piece of legislation for the purposes in view, and it is to be hoped that the time is not distant when its proper amendment will be taken in hand. But I must congratulate the Trust Board that despite the damping effect of the war, and the temporary cramping effect of judicial pronouncements, they have made very good progress in their works. They have opened, and are opening out, some wide main thoroughfares of eighty, one hundred and one hundred and fifty feet in width ; a few are of sixty feet, and the great majority are of forty feet in width. The Trust have been selling their surplus lands in the Surtibagan, Shambazar and Bhowanipore sections of the town, and it will be convenient if I refer to their operations in the latter to illustrate the method which I propose to condemn and to show what should be done in furtherance of sanitation and beauty.

Resolution.Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur.

Most people are aware that when building sites are sold in this city, the rate for measurement unit for small plots becomes higher than what one gets if the plot is larger in area. If the reason for existence of the Trust had been only to widen existing streets and then to make large profits by selling surplus lands in very small plots independently of any consideration for their after use, then there is nothing to be said against this way of increasing their cash balance and improving their financial position. That the purchasers would not in such cases be able to leave more than one-third of their respective lands open to the sky, and that they would be compelled to erect four-storied buildings to make their purchases remunerative and make the surroundings insanitary is their affair, and not of the Trust vendor.

This intensive construction of buildings in broad streets which the Improvement Trust are forcing people to make by their lotting surplus lands on broad streets into three to five or six katas for sale as building sites bodes no good to the future of the city. Such a fine street as Russa—the continuation of Chowringhee—is being spoiled in this way. Plots of such small areas may be quite sufficient for the 40-foot roads opened out by the Trust under Scheme No. V in the belt between Russa and Lansdowne Roads so well planned for improvement by them. Men with shorter purses will have opportunities for investment there. But those with longer purses are denied opportunities of putting up large detached buildings anywhere. There is only one plot in Russa Road (North) which has any respectable dimensions—I mean plot No. 90 which looks like ground for an intended extension of the Russa Engineering Works, a concern which deserves well of the city and Government.

I believe the Trust made a mistake in not acquiring lands on both sides of Russa Road and also by making so many exemptions. Exemptions should be made in 40-foot roads, and not so freely in the 80 or 100-foot roads. Small investors should be encouraged to go to narrow streets, and to suit their convenience a broad street should not be spoiled by the sale of lands on it in small plots. If the Trust Board are not interested in the architectural beauty of their streets, they should at least do things in such a way that twenty years hence there might not be again a cry of overcrowding and for getting a new body of Improvement Trust to undo this part of the work of the present body. I hold in my hand a copy of the map published by the present Trust Board showing the lots in Russa Road intended to be sold and also a few which have been already sold. My lord, you will be surprised to learn that a good plot of land between two to three bighas in area abutting Russa Road on the east with a fine frontage of about 300 feet has been divided into twenty-two small lots for sale. When this scheme No. IV for Russa Road widening was put forward, it was estimated by the Trust Board that the nett cost for acquisition of additional land would be nil. Probably double the price for surplus lands was anticipated then. The few sales which have already been effected point to an increase four times, and I submit that the Trust should in consideration of such a large increase in the price forego the temptation of pursuing the banda's method of selling in small plots of land on broad roads.

Public bodies when once they come to a determination erroneously on a question, generally stick to their position, and seldom acknowledge their error. I have no hope the case would be otherwise on the present occasion. But the evils looming in the future of the present short-sighted policy of the Trust is my apology for troubling Your Lordship's Council with a prayer for modification of this policy. My difference with them is not much as regards their way of disposing of side lands of 40-foot roads which are larger in number, but with their lotting of sale lands on broad roads."

Resolution.

Mr. Bompas.

The Hon'ble Mr. BOMPAS said:

"My lord, I am instructed to oppose this resolution on behalf of Government. The position of Government is this. Under the Calcutta Improvement Trust Act, it is the business of the Improvement Trust to submit improvement schemes to Government for sanction. When Government receives such a scheme, it deals with it as it thinks proper, i.e., it may sanction it or alter it before sanctioning, or it may refuse sanction, in which case it is returned, and if the Improvement Trust wishes to proceed with it, it has to be altered so as to meet with the approval of Government. This Council will, therefore, see that Government has the fullest control over the improvement schemes which are executed in this city. That is the constitutional method provided by the law by which the control of Government is exercised. For Government to issue general instructions that the Trust should carry out its work in such and such a way is a method of control which is not provided for in the law and which would probably be infructuous; for the Improvement Trust is not a branch of Government or composed of officers of Government. It is composed of 11 Trustees, of whom 5 are elected and who are under no liability to pay any attention to general directions of Government. There are also 4 Trustees nominated by Government and those gentlemen, who have hitherto served as nominees of Government, have by no means been of the 'ap-ke-waste' type; and I imagine that if these nominees were expected to surrender their discretion in matters that came before them, we should not have ready to serve on the Trust the same type of gentlemen as have hitherto done in the past.

Further, if Government were prepared to issue any such general instructions, it would not issue the particular instruction desired by the Hon'ble Member. I am personally extremely pleased when any citizen of Calcutta takes any interest in the work of the Improvement Trust. The work of the Trust will intimately affect the welfare of the future citizens of Calcutta and it affects many vested interests; and the more those who are able to advise, favour the Trust with their advice, the better pleased myself and my fellow-trustees are. This question of plotting out of lands is a very important one, but it is not quite so simple as the Hon'ble Member appears to think. A great deal has been written about it, and I have read much of what has been written. It affects the style of buildings which are to be erected and that affects directly the health and welfare of the citizens. It is true that the Hon'ble Member owns a large house in the immediate neighbourhood of Russa Road and if the land on which his house stands had been made a part of Improvement Scheme No. IV, for the widening of Russa Road, then the Hon'ble Member could have obtained one bigha of land on Russa Road; he would have acquired the land which now intervenes between his own and the road and would have obtained a very nice site. But because the Hon'ble Member would like that lands on the Russa Road should be laid out in plots of one bigha each, it does not follow that everybody wants to have so much as a bigha, and I very much doubt whether that is so. When the Improvement Trust makes a road in the centre of the town, a cottage is there worth Rs. 10,000, and if you parcel out land in plots of one bigha each, the land will alone cost about Rs. 2 lakhs and to put up an adequate building on such a site would cost another Rs. 1½ lakhs or at the present rates even Rs. 2 lakhs. A moderate capitalist would be deterred from acquiring lands on the main thoroughfares constructed by the Trust, and I think that there are a great many people who consider that it would be extremely undesirable to place a monopoly of that kind in the hands of the very rich.

There is another question. The plotting of land of a bigha in area means that the depth will be 170 feet. Now if all building plots on the main thoroughfares constructed by the Trust are to be 170 feet deep, it means that a great deal of land will have to be taken up and that means a great deal of destruction of property. I am very glad that the Hon'ble Member recommends such a proposal. Many people think that the Trust acquires too much land, and as a matter of fact we have not the courage to acquire more than 120 feet deep when we improve a road through a populous neighbourhood; but it is encouraging to know that the Hon'ble Member is prepared to recommend to the Corporation the policy he has advocated.

The Hon'ble Member has in particular referred to the Russa Road; but I do not propose to go into the details of what has been done. I may, however, point out that that quarter is a populous neighbourhood; and it is possibly true that we had not the courage to take up enough of the existing property; but to have acquired to a depth of 170 feet or 180 feet on each side of the road would have involved the destruction of a large amount of property of poor middle class people, the destruction of whose property causes the greatest possible amount of hardship. I may also remind the Hon'ble Member that in one place the Trust did take up a particularly deep area which was not covered by residences but chiefly by insanitary tanks. In consequence of this acquisition, we were involved in expensive litigation, and the Courts held that 60 feet should meet our reasonable requirements. The Improvement Trust has had to continue the litigation as far as the Privy Council in order to get that view of the matter set aside. The fact of the matter is that in plotting out lands one has, as far as possible, to anticipate what the demand of the public is; and although it is probable that in the outskirts of the town, people may desire to have large plots on which they can lay out tennis-courts, gardens and out-houses, it is by no means certain that in the centre of the town, people are prepared to buy on such an extensive scale, and if they bought such large plots they would probably be subdivided and the subdivision will be conducted on inconvenient and insanitary lines. These are practical reasons why we cannot adopt the policy of the Hon'ble Member.

The Hon'ble Member has said that there have been exemptions. The law compels us to grant exemptions if the land can be exempted. It is the spirit of the Act and the spirit of the law which, I know, meets the sentiments of the public of Calcutta. Where a man is willing to pay, he should be left in undisturbed possession of his property and there should be as little dispossession as possible; land should not be acquired simply to be given to another. Exemption constantly takes place, and it is obviously the intention of the law. But if the policy advocated by the Hon'ble Member were to be given effect to, it would render that section of the law practically nugatory. For these reasons, Government are not prepared to issue general instructions for the plotting out of lands in the way the Hon'ble Member desires."

The Hon'ble RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR said :—

"My lord, I regret to say that the two members of the Corporation in this Council are on the present occasion on opposite sides. All that need be said on this resolution has been very succinctly said by the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas. My lord, in the first place I want to bring to the notice of this Council that the Russa Road scheme before being taken up was sent to Corporation for their opinion and also published for general criticism. My Hon'ble friend the mover of the resolution as a member of the Corporation had a chance of criticising the scheme in which it was clearly shown that so much land will be taken up for widening the Russa Road and so much land on both sides of the road will be surplus land. The scheme was, referred by the Corporation to a Committee and my Hon'ble friend was, I believe, a member of that Committee and I never heard from him at that time that he wanted a larger area to be provided for building sites. If he had proposed it at that time then I believe the matter would have been better threshed out by a more popular and representative body—not that I mean to say that the Hon'ble Council was not a representative body. In that case, my lord, perhaps my Hon'ble friend would have been required to sacrifice his own house for the purpose of providing one-bigha building site. I find, my lord, that between his house and Russa Road there is a strip of land considerable portion of which has been swallowed up by the roadway and a narrow strip is left over for building site. But if we had followed the policy of laying out a bigha that would have destroyed his property. If I were he, my lord, I would have fought hard for my dwelling house. The central avenue goes right through the heart of the densely-populated Bengali residential quarter. There surplus land to a depth of 75 to 100 feet has been generally taken, and with great difficulty we managed it. Mr. Bompas wanted much more but we had to restrain him and he became somewhat manageable. If you want a bigha for building site, you have got to double that depth. In that case, it would have led to the destruction of residential houses of a larger number of poor middle class people. And how are these displaced people to be housed is a question with which we are confronted. They are generally people of small means earning perhaps 30 or 40 rupees a month and they cannot afford to buy land on a street 100 feet wide and a bigha in area. As regards reinstating these people, I find there was hot discussion in the Council between Mr. Bompas on the one side and Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and Sir Deba Prasad and Rai Sitanath on the other. It was over sections 78 and 81 of the Act. If the Hon'ble Member's resolution is accepted the problem of reinstating displaced people would become more complicated and difficult. I have tried to clearly put the case. I am intimately associated with the Trust as also with the people. I know the people's need for they come to me morning, noon and night, and I know that the Hon'ble Member's proposal would cause great hardship to the poor middle class people."

The Hon'ble RAI DEBENDER CHUNDER GHOSE BAHADUR said:—

"My lord, I was prepared to have an opposition speech from the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas, but not in the taste which has been displayed this afternoon, referring to my misfortune of being a resident in this quarter; and I thought that the taste displayed by him would not be an example to any other Hon'ble Member of this Council, but it seems that it caught its contagion in my friend to the left (the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur). My lord, I was anxious to hear the arguments on the merits of the case and not to my having been a resident in this neighbourhood. It stands to reason that one who is resident in that quarter is expected to take an interest in the matter and to put forward his views before the constitutional Tribunal or Council; and I think that by being a resident of Bhowanipore I have been able to put forward certain facts which have not been controverted and it shows that it is an advantage to hear one who is a resident of this locality.

Now the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas says: 'What has Government to do in this matter? I am the Chairman of the Improvement Trust and if you interfere in our business, myself and the trustees will withdraw from this work.' It is a threat which, I hope, does not indicate the state of the mind of his colleagues. Whatever may be his own feelings, I imagine they have got a sense of their duties and are receptive of criticisms, though I know that corporate bodies when they come to a decision always stick to it, never mind whether it is unwise or drastic, and they are always reluctant to acknowledge their error. The Hon'ble Members who have made opposition speeches have not shown that my arguments are unsound. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur is a member of the Improvement Trust Board, and I gather from his speech this afternoon that he has been instrumental, as he said, in persuading the Chairman to come to this decision that the plots should be as small as possible, so that the poor and middle class people who throng his house every morning and evening should have their views adopted by the Trust. It seems that the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur is playing to the gallery and evidently he has no thoughts of posterity. He should remember that Calcutta is a historic city, and when a traveller from the far West comes to Calcutta, having heard that it is the second city in the British Empire, and passes St. Paul's Cathedral southwards, he passes to a place which is very unsightly and insanitary. What is the argument we have got from the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas. ? I do not think he has given us any substantial arguments whatever. He says that he has done it to suit the necessities of the poorer people. I suppose, Sir, that poor people sometimes expand and become suddenly rich. I suppose that many Hon'ble Members are aware that a section of the Indian community have got money as a God-send owing to the war. Those who are engaged in trade or any business have suddenly become rich. If the Hon'ble Mr. Bompas had been at the sales which were recently held, he would have known that the buyers at those sales were not local men with the exception of very few, but are outsiders who are engaged in trade and who have made a lot of money on account of their speculations and are now investing their money in these land purchases. This could have been easily ascertained from the men of this locality. But, as I said, poor people expand and suddenly become wealthy. What I suggested was that lands on two or three wide streets such as Russa Road, etc., should be dealt with in such a way that men with long purses would have opportunities to put up good buildings there, and I am very sorry that my Hon'ble friend opposite (Mr. Bompas) should have chosen to have a fling at me and to bolster up his position. My lord, I should have welcomed some substantial arguments as to why the continuation of Chowringhee Road should not be dealt with in such a way that people might consider it equally sanitary and fine looking and not as a road meant for residence of 'natives' and therefore its sides and surroundings made nasty in perpetuity. It is for the consideration of the Council whether my resolution should be accepted or not."

The resolution was then put and lost.

The PRESIDENT said :—

I have received a request from the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Dutt for the postponement of the next resolution (Item No. 14 on the Business Paper), on the ground that he has been unable to reach Calcutta this afternoon, and I have agreed to do so. For the convenience of Hon'ble Members I propose now to take up Item No. 15 and after its discussion to adjourn till to-morrow.

There is a meeting of the Provincial Agricultural Association to-morrow at 11 A.M., and I understand that some Hon'ble Members desire to attend that meeting. I propose that after we have concluded the discussion on Item No. 15, we may adjourn till midday to-morrow.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 15.

The Hon'ble MR. PROVASH CHUNDER MITTER moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that immediate steps be taken to organise the cloth weaving industry in Bengal with a view to relieve the distress caused to the poorer population of the province owing to the prevailing high prices of cloth.

He said :—

“ My lord, at this late hour I shall speak as briefly as possible. Knowing your lordship's sympathy in the matter I refrain from discussing the question apart from general principles. I have asked a certain statement which I have compiled from the census table, to be handed to the Hon'ble Members of this Council; and from that statement, Hon'ble Members will see from column 2, that the total number of male weavers in Bengal is 144,168 and the number of female weavers is 45,303. I may perhaps explain that the females are generally engaged in helping their male relations in various preparatory processes. In the district of Midnapore, the total number of male weavers is 13,619; and there are large centres such as Jessore, where there are 10,597, Pabna 9,064, Dacca 12,567, Faridpur 10,187, Tippera 9,159. There are some districts where the weavers are in larger numbers than in others. If we take the total number as one lakh whom we can organise by active attempts, let us consider what the position will be. In order to consider the position, I ought to tell the Hon'ble Members that at the present moment, most of the weavers use their primitive looms which are good enough for ordinary purposes. By using the Serampore fly-shuttle loom, they will be able to weave 10 to 12 yards of cloth daily. That means that a lakh of weavers at their present rate, i.e., 5 yards per day, can weave 15 crores of yards a year. If we could introduce the Serampore fly-shuttle loom, they could at least double their outturn, and that outturn will amount to 30 crores of yards. My lord, the cost of a Serampore loom is only Rs. 25, but it does help the weaver in earning at least 5 annas a day more. So it stands to reason that if the industry can be organised, it will be a very good thing for the weavers and also for the community at large. My whole point is that the weaving industry is at present disorganised and a better loom should be introduced. The total amount of cloth which Bengal requires at a rough computation is something like 90 crores of yards. Manchester does not supply all that cloth but a large percentage of it. At the present time at least 10 crores of yards are supplied locally. Therefore if the industry is organised it will not only bring more money to the weavers in the shape of living wages but it will be of great assistance to meet the present situation.

My lord, there is another point on which organisation might help a good deal and on which I desire to touch very briefly. It is well known that by the time the yarn goes to the weaver its price goes up as it passes from the big importing houses to the weaver through several middlemen, and the same process is repeated with regard to the finished article. I do not think that I should discuss the nature of the organisation in detail, but I may suggest some of the main heads. The first is by an extension of the co-operative movement. I know, my lord, that Your Excellency's Government is already doing much in this direction; but perhaps regard being had to the present situation, more may be done. Government has already established outlying branches of the Serampore Weaving School in several places such as Bankura, Malda, Tangail and Cox's Bazar. It may also be possible, provided suitable persons are forthcoming, to encourage private enterprise by Government help in the shape of expert advice. But it is obviously a point which depends on the fact whether suitable private enterprise is forthcoming. I therefore refrain from discussing details.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler has intimated in the course of the debate this morning in connection with another resolution that a committee will be appointed. All that I ask for is that this resolution may be sympathetically considered and may be given effect to as far as possible. I need hardly add that the acceptance of the principle of this resolution will have a very reassuring effect on the public mind at the present moment."

The Hon'ble Mr. CUMMING said :—

"Sir, I shall endeavour to emulate the Hon'ble mover in the commendable brevity of his remarks at this late stage of the present sitting. The Hon'ble Member desires that steps should be taken to organize the cloth weaving industry in the province. I should like to say at once that Government are prepared to accept this resolution. The Hon'ble Member has made several suggestions as to the forms and agencies by which his proposals may be carried out; and I will say on behalf of Government that in accepting the resolution they do so on a certain understanding. This understanding is that the agencies for any advance should be, first, the co-operative movement to which the Hon'ble mover has referred, secondly, the Weaving Institute, and, thirdly, the agricultural improvements. On all these lines Government are taking action at the present moment. On that understanding Government accept the resolution; for it must be realised that there are some factors in the problem over which Government can exercise no effective control at all.

Without going into details I may inform the Council that it is a matter of common knowledge that the weaving class is probably the most conservative of all the industrial classes in the Presidency, and there is no class which seems to be in such a chronic state of insolvency to money-lenders. Nevertheless, there is some ray of hope in the organization of co-operative movement amongst the weavers. Such organization has been created in the Bankura and Pabna districts and further developments are expected in Tippera, Midnapore, Hooghly, Nadia and Jessore districts. I am glad to inform the Council that a most definite advance has been made in the Bankura district owing to the demands of the Munitions Board; nevertheless, whatever may be done by the co-operative movement the fact remains that cloth can only be produced from yarn and the yarn has to be bought. The next matter therefore is the provision of yarn at moderate prices, and that is really the crux of the position at the present moment. The supply of cotton yarn is rather a commercial problem than an industrial problem, and the matter has been fully discussed in connection with the resolution of the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq. As regards cotton growing, the record of the Agricultural Department is unfortunate. Any cotton grown at present in Bengal is grown in certain hill areas, in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in Hill Tippera. Many attempts have been made since the middle of the last century to grow long-staple cotton in the plains of Bengal, but every attempt has so far been a failure. This year 200 maunds of seed have been imported from other provinces and have been supplied to various people in the province, and experiments have been made in the Dacca Agricultural Farm with the object of determining the suitability of certain cotton for sowing on high lands. The great obstacles to the spread of cotton growing in Bengal are the heavy rainfall and the great variety insect pests to which cotton is peculiarly susceptible. Notwithstanding the conservatism of the class in question, the high price of the yarn and the climatic opposition to the prosperity of the cotton crop in the plains of Bengal, both the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and the Director of Agriculture have been and will be desirous of increasing the production of the raw product and the manufactured article. On such an understanding, Sir, Government are prepared to accept the resolution."

Resolution.Mr. P. C. Mitter.

The Hon'ble MR. P. C. MITTER said :—

“ My lord, I accept the understanding.”

The resolution was then put and carried.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 16 & 17.

The following two resolutions stood in the name of the Hon'ble BABU AMBICA CHARAN MAZUMDAR :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the grant-in-aid rules, as approved in the Government of Bengal, General Department, letter No. 408 Edn., dated the 25th February, 1918, be either withdrawn or so modified as to leave a substantial measure of independence to the School Committees.

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the powers given to the inspecting officers for supervising the promotions of pupils from one class to another and for selecting candidates for the Matriculation Examination, be wholly withdrawn, such powers being vested in the Head Master subject only to the supervision and approval of the School Committee concerned.

The PRESIDENT said :—

I have received a request from the Hon'ble Babu Ambica Charan Majumdar for the postponement of items Nos. 16 and 17 on the ground of illness, and I have accepted that as a reasonable ground for postponement of the motions till the next meeting of the Council.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 18.

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that so long as no European officer of the Indian Educational Service is available for the post of Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, a Muhammadan member of the Provincial Educational Service be appointed to hold the post.

Resolution.Maulvi A. Kasem.

He said :—

“ My lord, I believe that the suggestion in this resolution is very simple, and I hope that Your Excellency's Government will see their way in accepting it. About the year 1913, it was thought desirable to appoint a special officer as Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, in order to enquire into the difficulties which Muhammadans feel in prosecuting their studies and also to adopt the best means for spreading education among the Muhammadans ; and Mr. Taylor of the Indian Educational Service was first appointed as the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education. Mr. Taylor has since gone to military duty and as there is a dearth of European officers of the Indian Educational Service the arrangement at present is that the official duties of the Assistant Director for Muhammadan Education are now performed by the General Assistant Director Mr. Gunn. I know, my lord, that this officer is a very able and energetic officer and has a great capacity for work and is well known for the despatch of work in his office. But the reason why I move this resolution is that the work concerning questions of Muhammadan Education requires the officer holding that post to go out to different parts of the Presidency to enquire what the needs of Muhammadans are and how they can be met, either by Government or by local organisations. Mr. Taylor used to spend a good deal of his time on his tours, and on his return to headquarters he used to make certain recommendations which were duly considered by the Director of Public Instruction ; now Mr. Gunn, the gentleman who is doing Mr. Taylor's work in addition to his own duties, has to dispose of a large amount of work, and I trust, and the Hon'ble the Director of Public Instruction will admit, that his duties are very heavy and that he cannot afford to go out often on tour. There was some apprehension in certain quarters that the post of Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education had been abolished. So I put a question to that effect and was assured that there was no intention of abolishing the post and it was explained by Government that the duties of the two officers were now combined in the same individual simply on account of the want of officer of the Indian Educational Service. I may add that when the appointment was first created, a suggestion was made that the appointment should be held by a Muhammadan ; but the Muhammadan gentlemen whose opinions carry weight, were of opinion that the appointment should be held by a European and a member of the Indian Educational Service. I think the suggestion, so far as we are concerned, was quite satisfactory, and did in fact bring about excellent results. But what I suggest at the present moment is that during the period of war, when no officer of the Indian Educational Service is available, these duties should be performed by a member of the Provincial Educational Service and thus fill up the gap during the absence of the permanent incumbent. This has been done in many other services, as in the Indian Medical Service, the places of those officers who have been requisitioned for military duty have been taken by Assistant Surgeons—several of these Assistant Surgeons are now officiating as Civil Surgeons. In the general administration the places of many I. C. S. Subdivisional officers, who have gone on military duty, have been filled by men of the Provincial Service. In this particular case my suggestion is that a Muhammadan officer be appointed temporarily as Assistant Director of Public Instruction, who may go about the whole province and look into the needs of the Muhammadan community and submit his recommendations to the Director for his approval, and also be in correspondence with the different Inspectors of Schools in consultation with whom he may be able to solve many questions. At the present moment, we cannot afford to neglect questions concerning Muhammadan education. Everyone admits that so far as Western education is concerned, we are still very backward ; and we have just begun to take keenly to higher education, and we are exercising an influence in this matter. At this moment any want of encouragement or advice or any neglect will retard the progress that has been made, and it will indeed be very difficult to make up the lost ground. I submit that there will be no difficulty in making an appointment of a Provincial Service officer, and although I have mentioned the word 'Muhammadan', I am not very keen to the office being held by an official of my persuasion and religion; I did it because I thought that it would be more acceptable to Government; I have, however, no objection to a Hindu Provincial officer being appointed to hold charge. I believe that any officer who takes an interest in the work will do the work honestly and conscientiously. What I want is a special officer to hold charge of the office. As regards the members of the Provincial Service I beg to submit that there are many senior members who, previous to the present arrangements, held independent charge of Divisional Inspectorships and whose services were duly recognised both by Government and the Department of Education. I see no reason why they should not be thought eligible to hold this office temporarily. There is a grievance amongst my countrymen that the claims and the interest of these Provincial Service men, who have held permanent charge of Divisional Inspectorships, are overlooked and neglected at the time when members of the Imperial Services were intended for these appointments. With these words, I beg to commend this resolution to the acceptance of this Council."

The Hon'ble KHAN SAHIB AMAN ALI said:—

"My lord, I wholeheartedly support this resolution. I do not wish to take up the time of this Council, but I wish to say a few words. If a Muhammadan officer be appointed to this post, it will give him a trial to prove whether he is able to discharge these onerous duties. This will further be an encouragement afforded by Government to the Muhammadans. As everyone knows, we are very backward in English education and there is no doubt about it. A Muhammadan is expected to know more about the needs of our community than any other officer of other persuasions. With these words, I cordially support this resolution."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said:—

"My lord, I am afraid the Hon'ble mover of this resolution has brought in a question which does not really assist the object which he has in view. We have got first of all to look at the duties of the Assistant Director for Muhammadan Education, and looking at that we find that there was sufficient reason for the conference in 1916 on the question of Muhammadan Education to make this recommendation. Recommendation No. 94 runs as follows:—

'That we understand that, according to the original orders sanctioning the post of Assistant Director for Muhammadan Education, Bengal, this officer should be placed in respect of Madrasahs and Maktabas in the position of an Inspector of Schools and should be given full powers of initiation and control which are vested in an officer of this class; that he should correspond direct with the Director of Public Instruction with regard to these institutions and that they should be removed from the jurisdiction of the Divisional Inspector of Schools. In addition, the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education has to visit educational institutions of all kinds in order to look after the interests of Muhammadans in these institutions. We feel that it would be to the disadvantage of Muktabas and Madrasahs if they were removed from the control of the Divisional Inspector. Muktabas in particular get all the grants from the District Boards through the District Deputy Inspector of Schools, who is an officer subordinate to the Inspector of Schools. As far as administration is concerned, we feel that it would be a mistake to move these institutions from the control of the Divisional Inspector.

Resolution.Maulvi A. Kasem.

'We think that the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education should be an integral part of the Director of Public Instruction's office, and that his chief duties should be to see to the interests of Moslems in general educational institutions. In this case there would be no need for his separate office and establishment.'

Then the report goes on to discuss the question of office and establishment.

Now, my lord, looking through the report—and I hope the Hon'ble Member will correct me if I misunderstood what he said—we find that when this post was created, there was a considerable consensus of opinion among the Muhammadans that the post should be held by a European. Moreover, some members of the conference who knowing the backwardness of their own community, even went to the length of suggesting that the Headmasters of Government high schools should be Europeans or Eurasians generally. This is a quotation which I make from the Hon'ble Nawab Ali Chaudhuri's opinion. This shows that the Muhammadan gentlemen who were then consulted were of opinion that for the best interests of Muhammadan Education it would be better to have a European official at the head of affairs specially in a post like the one now under discussion. Moreover the present arrangement has been accepted after the consideration of many alternatives as being best in the present circumstances, both for education in general and for the Muhammadan community in particular. The present officer in charge, Mr. Gunn, has high qualifications and wide experience, and Government is confident that the welfare of Muhammadan Education is receiving and will receive proper attention from him. Government is therefore of opinion that the appointment of a Muhammadan officer of the Provincial Educational Service would not add to efficiency. Moreover, if the point is, as Mr. Kasem has pointed out in his speech, that Mr. Gunn cannot do any touring, I may say that when Government has made this temporary arrangement owing to the paucity of officers it has also arranged that Mr. Gunn should go on tour in the latter half of July to Dacca and other places, to look into the interests of Muhammadan Education. For these reasons Government, as at present advised, cannot accept this resolution, and I would point out to the Hon'ble mover and the gentleman who supported him that for the best interests of Muhammadan Education itself it would be wise to leave the present arrangement as it is. Government is perfectly aware of the fact that there are Muhammadan officers who are able and who in time, no doubt, will be able to hold appointments like this, but I think that when Government takes so much interest in Muhammadan Education, and that when it presses that the present arrangement is the best for Muhammadan Education, the Hon'ble mover will withdraw his resolution."

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM said :—

"My lord, after the statement made by the Hon'ble Member in charge, I do not think that it will serve any good purpose to press this resolution. In asking for permission to withdraw it, I only wish to state that I am glad that arrangements have been made for Mr. Gunn to go out on tour for a few days, but what I wanted to press was that Mr. Taylor used to visit all the districts every year and he used to tour for about nine months in the year. However as Government is not prepared to accept this resolution, I have no alternative but to ask for permission to withdraw it."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

*Resolution.Maulvi A. Kasem.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 19.

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM moved the following resolution:—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the number of members of the District Board of Burdwan be increased from eighteen to twenty-four.

He said :—

"My lord, it would appear that it is a question of too trivial a nature to deserve the attention of the Legislative Council, but as I found it difficult to draw the attention of Your Excellency's Government to this matter by any other means, the only course open to me was to bring it up in the form of a resolution. The prayer in this resolution is that the number of members of the District Board of Burdwan should be increased from 18 to 24. From the Local Self-Government Act, it appears that it rests with the Government of India to fix the number of members, and the Government of India, for reasons which were known to the officials in charge of that Government, fixed the number at 18 for the district of Burdwan, and if I read out to this Council the numbers fixed for other district of a smaller nature, Hon'ble members will understand the reason for my demand.

Burdwan 18 members with an area of 2,368 sq. miles.

Hooghly 27 ditto ditto 2,261 sq. miles.

The income of Burdwan is Rs. 6,15,000, whereas that of Hooghly is only Rs. 5,343.

Similarly, in Howrah, Midnapore, Murshidabad, 24-Parganas, we have got generally 25, Jessore 21 and Bankura 17, but the latter is a very small district. Mr. Lees, the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, is reported to have remarked that he could not see any reason why that number (18) was fixed for Burdwan. The Burdwan District Board has a large area and a large income, and we want that the number should be increased to 24. My reason for this increase is that the number being small the vested interests in the district cannot be properly represented.

The Muhammadan community for example is very poorly represented on the District Board, and if Government proposes to give adequate and fair representation to the Muhammadans, then other interests will have to suffer and some of these will have to go unrepresented on the District Board. Then, my lord, we have got four subdivisions including the Sadar, and as is the case with other district board, if we have all the subdivisional officers as members of the Board to give the Board their official experience, in that case we cannot have more than twelve nominated members because with the Civil Surgeon and the Deputy Inspector of Schools, there are at least six salaried servants, and at least twelve nominated members, and in order to have twelve nominated members under the present Act, we must have twelve elected members; the present practice is that they nominate the subdivisional officers by rotation, that is, on one occasion the subdivisional officer of Katwa, on the other the subdivisional officer of Kalna. The Sadar subdivisional officer has never been given a seat on the District Board. It was only on the last occasion by some arrangement that five officials got into the District Board. The Asansole local board failed to choose their representative, and their right vested in the Government and by that right the Government appointed the subdivisional officer of Asansol as one of the members. I think on that ground and also on the ground that all the interests are not properly represented on the Board, the number should be increased. There is also one other reason.

Resolution.Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur; the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

Burdwan is one of the few districts which has the privilege of rather the honour of having a non-official as Chairman of the District Board. I submit that in order that our choice may be popular that the electorate should be a little larger than what it is at present. I submit also that the request to raise the number to 24 is not at all an unreasonable one. I might be told that in view of the Government of India resolution on Local Self-Government, the constitution of the District Boards and the municipalities are to be changed in the near future, and that there is no immediate hurry in considering this question at the present moment. With reference to that I submit that whatever may be the future constitution of the District Boards, what I want is this, that the Burdwan District Board, so far as its strength and number of members are concerned, it should be put on the same level as that of neighbouring District Boards such as Hooghly, Nadia, Jessore and 24-Parganas. I hope that Your Excellency's Council will accept this recommendation. I may inform this Council that the members of the District Board approached the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division with a similar request and he promised to look into the matter. However, I do not know what has been done, and I submit this resolution at the request of several members of the District Board, including the Vice-Chairman himself, and I hope that it will receive acceptance from Your Excellency's Council."

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR said :—

"My lord, I support the resolution. It is a fact that there is truly a limited number of representatives in District Boards. From subdivisions there are very few elected members. Under the provisions of the Act, Local Boards are to send in their representatives to District Boards and that two-thirds of the members are to be elected and one-third nominated. This is a point which deserves consideration. There should be changes, my lord, in the constitution of the Local Boards, so that more elected members may be sent to the District Boards. There ought to be an extension of the electorate and there ought to be popular representation throughout the district. In this view of the matter I ask the Council to consider whether it is desirable to increase the number of members of the District Boards."

The Hon'ble the MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"My lord, it is true that for some reason unknown to us at present, the Hooghly District Board—from where the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur comes—with a population of nine lakhs should have 27 members. But if we were to take Burdwan with its 18 members and compare it with that of Bankura and even Midnapore, and also if we went further and compared it with Chittagong and Tipperah, we would find that Burdwan is not doing so very badly. But in this connection what I must first of all point out to the Hon'ble mover of this resolution is that in a matter of this kind Government cannot move on its own initiative. They are, however, quite prepared to consider proposals provided they come up from the District Board itself. If the members of the District Board were to approach Government through the proper channel, I am sure the matter would receive the fullest consideration. As to the inadequacy of Muhammadan representation on the District Board of Burdwan, I can assure the Hon'ble mover that Government have taken notice of that fact already, and I believe a remedy is under consideration such as may be possible under present circumstances. Moreover, the thing is not as easy as it appears on the surface. In giving any increase in the number of members of District Boards, we shall have to take into consideration the different Local Boards in the district. We shall have to consider how the seats are going to be distributed, and these things cannot be done until we have the reports of the local officers on the subject, and I would.

ResolutionMaulvi Abul Kasem; Babu A. C. Dutta.

therefore, request the Hon'ble Mover of this resolution that if he could get his District Board to come up with its proposal for an increase, I am sure it will receive the careful consideration of Government."

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABUL KASEM said :—

"My lord, I shall only express my thanks to the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan for his assurance that if representations are made to Government by the District Board, they will receive careful consideration at their hands. I could not certainly expect more than this. I will lay this before the members of the District Board and I am sure they will do the needful.

Reference has been made to Muhammadan representatives in the Board. I do not like to speak about this, but as the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur, fortunately for me, is familiar with all the affairs of Burdwan, especially the Muhammadan question, I beg to submit for his consideration, that the Muhammadan gentleman came to be appointed by the District Magistrate at the recommendation of the Muhammadan Association, who chose him at one of their special meetings in which we were not called for reasons which we do not know. This gentleman does not live in Burdwan but lives in his father-in-law's house in another district as a ghar-jamai, which, by the way, is a very humiliating position for an Indian. With these words, my lord, I beg leave to withdraw this resolution and I hope when the District Board of Burdwan comes up with their representation Government will do the needful.

The resolution was then, by leave of President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 14.

The Hon'ble BABU AKHIL CHANDRA DATTA moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that steps be taken to safeguard the interests of the growers of jute in Bengal and to ensure an equitable apportionment of profit between the jute mills and the jute growers.

He said :—

"My Lord, a word about the wording of the resolution. The wording of the second portion of the resolution is not quite happy. I did not mean to say or suggest that the profits that are now being made in jute mills should be shared with the growers. I did not mean anything like this. All that I meant to suggest is that steps may be taken which would ensure the growers a fair price for his jute. That is all that this resolution seeks to recommend.

Bengal is the only jute-growing country in the world. She supplies raw jute and jute manufactures to the whole world. She sends gunnybags and cloth to the United States, United Kingdom, Australia, Australasia, France, Portugal, Russia, Italy, Roumania, Greece, Chili and Peru, Cuba, Hayti, Argentina, Canada, Java, Natal, Cape Colony, Egypt, East Africa, Transval, Rhodesia and Nyassal and Mauritius, West Indies, Hong Kong, Porto Rico, the Sandwich Islands, the Philippines, Ceylon, Japan, and Madagascar, the Straits Settlements, China, Formosa, Siam, the Philippine Islands, and Dutch Borneo, besides Burma, Madras, Karachi, Bombay,

Resolution.Babu A. C. Datta.

Pondichery, the Punjab, the United Provinces, and other Provinces in India. Some idea about the extent and magnitude of the jute trade may be formed from the fact that it represents over 60 per cent. of Calcutta's export trade. Nature has given her a monopoly of jute. It is a commodity which is not only useful but is indispensable for various branches of trade and commerce without which the world cannot get on now. In fact the cornsack and bags of other descriptions for holding various kinds of grain is now looked upon by the civilised world as a prime necessity of life. A position of greater advantage can not therefore be conceived. In ordinary course the jute growers of Bengal should be in a position to dictate their terms to all the customers hailing from the different parts of the world, from China to Peru. But in spite of this unique advantage of her position the poor cultivators cannot keep their heads above debts. In normal times the conditions of cultivators is anything but what it should be. The demand for jute and jute manufactures has, however, increased beyond all measure during the war. If the jute growers and the jute manufacturers should prosper at any time that time should be this. As a matter of fact the jute mills of Bengal have enjoyed unparalleled prosperity even since the outbreak of the war. The profits they have been making are simply fabulous. The advance in the gunny trade has been substantial and enormous, the expansion being both in volume and value. The Collector of Customs, Calcutta, describes the prosperity of the mills in his report on the maritime trade of Bengal for the official year 1916-17 in these glowing terms.

'Reference has already been made to their stupendous prosperity for nine months of the year under review. At the close of 1915 their profit, for that year of Rs. 44 crores, was considered a marvellously good aggregate, but what is this compared with the Rs. 649 crores of profit with which 1916 has been credited?'

We take the following from the Indian Daily News of a recent date.

'The Gouripore mill has paid Rs. 150 per share for the half-year and Fort Gloster eighty rupees per share for the same period and Kinnison has paid Rs. 125 per share. Gouripore has 1,255 looms, Fort Gloster 1,250 and Kinnison 1,221. Gouripore is now under the Mackinnon group, which is said, in the bazar, to have gone but and surpassed all the rest in money making and the Indian mill results are much talked about. Budge-Budge has made about 22 lakhs for 782 looms, which seems to work out as good as any results published hitherto. Albion is said to have made 13 or 14 lakhs on 340 looms, which is even better.'

It is not merely the aggregate profits which have created such a flutter in the mercantile world but the price has also risen very remarkably. The price of bags has risen from about Rs. 16 to about Rs. 32 per 100 bales. The 'money and markets' column of the newspapers has become an extremely interesting study and shows how the price of jute shares are rising by leaps and bounds, the price of shares in some mills having risen to about Rs. 800. These are the blessings of the war so far as the jute manufactures and the Jute manufacturers are concerned. It is a fundamental principle not only of political economy but also of common sense that the price of raw jute should rise and fall in a certain ratio with the rise and fall in the price of the jute manufactures. A gunny bag is made of raw jute. The price of raw jute must therefore rise as a matter of course with the rise in the price of gunny bags. It is difficult to conceive the price of paddy (পaddy) falling when the price of rice (রাই) is rising. The last four years should, therefore, have been an exceptionally good time for the jute growers of Bengal. But, my Lord, ours is a land of surprises where the most unexpected always happens. For nothing is more uncontroversial to-day than the fact that the price of raw

Resolution.Babu A. C. Datta.

Jute has fallen simultaneously with the rise in the price of Jute manufactures. The cultivators of Bengal must be an extremely ill-fated people and by an irony of fate, the war, which has brought plenty for the manufacturers, has reduced the growers to a most abject condition of utter helplessness and misery. The god of war has come with gifts in his two hands, bringing in his right hand phenomenal prosperity for the manufacturers and abject misery in his left for the growers. The fall of the price of raw jute with the rise in the price of jute manufactures is an economic phenomenon which it is difficult to appreciate. My Lord, there must be something radically wrong somewhere in the machinery of jute trade, which alone must be responsible for this economic anomaly and absurdity. The poor cultivators of Bengal appeal to Your Excellency to find out the plague-spot and to take such steps as will secure to them the fruits of their labour.

A true diagnosis must precede a prescription of remedy. The question therefore arises what is the root cause of this great anomaly? 'The great scarcity of tonnage,' 'the financial difficulties in exchange,' 'the continued non-participation of the Central powers' in the trade these are some of the circumstances which are said to have contributed to the fall in the price of raw jute. The difficulty of tonnage cannot be altogether overlooked. But at the same time we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that gunny bags and cloth are being incessantly exported and that the tonnage difficulty has never been allowed so far to stand in the way of such export. So far as the tonnage question goes it does not matter very much whether what is exported is pucca bale or jute manufactures. I am informed that very recently the Government has allowed some pucca balers to export jute to meet the requirements of Dundee mills. This explanation therefore does not go far enough. What is true of the tonnage difficulty is also similarly true of the difficulty in exchange. This difficulty has never prevented the Government of India from sending gunny bags and cloth from the local mills to Russia, France, Australasia, Peru and other countries.

The true explanation must be sought elsewhere. It appears to me that the absence of all competition both, foreign and local, is the plague-spot in the system of the jute trade at the present moment. Competition amongst the customers ensures a fair price to the growers as monopoly of purchase, direct or indirect, is disastrous to their interests. Before the war there was a competition amongst all the countries to which jute was exported. Export has of course been stopped to those countries who are at war with the British Empire, and nobody can complain of this. These countries must be ruled out of the market. But there has been a persistent tendency to prohibit export of jute to other countries also. On the 7th March 1917 exports of raw jute were prohibited even to the United Kingdom, the Government taking possession of all jute then in transit. The export was also discouraged by the enhancement of duties. On the 1st March 1917 the export duties were doubled, only the war bags and cloth being exempted, and consideration being also shewn to back commitments. These restrictions no doubt undermine very considerably the wholesome competition which guaranteed a fair price to the growers before the war. But the greatest blow upon the competition was given by the special contract which has been entered into by the Government of India with the local mills and under which the latter supply gunny bags and gunny cloth to meet the military requirements not only of the British Empire but also of all the allied armies. Quarterly agreements were come to between the local mills and the Home Government, the necessary supplies being contracted for in the first instance as from the 1st October 1915, at something under current market rates. Under these arrangements no less than 297 million bags and 35 million yards of cloth were supplied in 1915-16 under the order of the British Government, to the United Kingdom, Russia and France. In 1916-17, the quantities despatched were 385 million bags and 135 million yards of cloth. Of the bags, 307 million went to the United Kingdom, 35 million to Russia and 25 million to France. The United Kingdom also took 84 million and France 51 million yards of cloth. But for this contract, these countries would have purchased raw jute from Bengal. The result would have been a two-fold competition between these countries themselves and competition between them and the local mills. This arrangement while shutting Russia, France and other allied countries off the open market, gives the mills practical monopoly of all business with those countries, so far as their military requirements go. Thus by one stroke of the pen the growers and dealers of Bengal are made to bid good-bye to their exporting customers and the only purchasers left to them are the local mill owners, who of course take full advantage of this unique position and compel the growers and dealers to accept any terms which they may be pleased to offer. The inevitable and disastrous result of this arrangement is now well known. It is abnormally low price of raw jute and abnormally high price of jute manufactures. Those who grow the jute are starved. It does not fetch them enough food to keep their body and soul together and enough raiment to cover their shame. So inspite of the increased and increasing demand for jute and jute goods caused by the war, the lot of those who grow them is not only not improved, but has deteriorated very greatly. The toiling masses are deprived of their morsel of food only to enrich a few capitalists. What is loss to the growers is gain to the manufacturers. The loss on the part of the cultivators is loss of the barest necessities of life—it is literally a loss of food and raiment. The gain on the part of the capitalists is addition of wealth which has been so happily described by the Collector of Customs as “stupendous prosperity” and which according to the Indian Daily News is now so much talked about. My lord, this can only be justified by the doctrine of the maximum of good for the minimum of people.

I shall quote here the verdict of a most disinterested and dispassionate critic. Mr. R. B. Rees, member of the Victoria Legislative Council, Australia, has said only the other day:—

‘When the war broke out, the jute trade of Calcutta got into the hands of the mill owners, the balers and the speculators of the bazar and stock exchange. Being free from foreign competition this combination pressed down the raiyat (growers of jute) until the price paid to the grower is below pre-war prices, and only on a par with what the grower got 20 years ago, yet the price of the finished article, hessians, twill, etc., is more than double the price before the war.’

It is certainly interesting to know why on earth the British Government goes out of its way and enters into a contract with the local mills on behalf of all the allied powers? Why not allow France and other allied countries to carry their own dealings with the dealers and balers and mill owners of Bengal unhampered by any action of the Government? Why not allow them to deal with each other at arm's length? Why not allow the growers to reap the full benefit of competition amongst all the customers? Why interfere with their trade? Why not allow the growers to take the full advantage of the unique position which they hold in the world with respect to jute, subject to only such restrictions as may be necessary to be imposed on Germany and her colleagues? Why does the Government take up the agency of so many customers? These are questions which are bound to occur even to the most superficial observer. My lord, I do not propose to give my own opinion; I shall only place before this Council the version which the Collector of Customs has placed before the world on behalf of the Government. ‘The principle,’ we are told, ‘underlying the arrangements made was direct negotiations between the representatives of the British Government and the mills to secure favourable rates, not only for their own military requirements.

but also those of the allied armies.' So the object of this contract professedly was to secure favourable rates not only to the United Kingdom but also to all the allied countries, and let us hope that they have all benefited by the contract. That the arrangement secured favourable rates also to the other party to the contract is also admitted, because the mill owners are getting double the price by virtue of this contract. The contract must therefore be a very merciful contract, for it has blessed those who give the bags and cloth and those who take them. But has the contract been unkind to any body? The expression 'favourable rate' carries with it a necessary implication that there is some other party to which the rate was not favourable and was not intended to be favourable. Now who is that third party as against whom the parties to the contract were much on the alert and as against whom they wanted to secure a favourable rate? Is he the poor grower? Can he possibly be the grower whose destiny the providence has placed in the hands of the British Government and whose interest it is the duty of the Government to protect? Who else can be that party? Is he not the only other party concerned? At all events we know that ever since that memorable contract the price of raw jute is falling simultaneously with the rise in the price of the bag and cloth.

Now let us critically examine for one moment the precise situation of the growers. The abovementioned contract has resulted in a combination of all the allied countries including the British Empire. Then there is a further combination of all the local mills. They have got the mill owners' association and act always in concert to keep down the price of raw jutes; one of the devices adopted is that by an arrangement between themselves not more than one or two mills go to the market at the same time. There is thus no competition foreign or local. The usual competition between the balers and the mill owners is also non-existent, for the balers have no foreign customers and must surrender to the local mill owners. The competition between European and Indian dealers is also made impossible owing to the preferential treatment the European dealers systematically receive from the mills. Great as the evils of these combinations were before the war, they have been multiplied by the stoppage of export and the monopoly which the mills practically enjoy under the contract with the Government. There is thus a world wide conspiracy against the poor growers. It is, conspiracy of millionaires against the most destitute of people. It is a most unequal fight. It is a fight between the strong and weak. It is a fight between the most educated people on one side and most ignorant cultivators on the other. It is a fight between shrewd business people on one side and simple village folks on the other. It is a fight between people ever vigilant and people who do not know their own position and strength. It is a fight between capitalists who can wait indefinitely and people who have no staying power and find themselves compelled to surrender to any price in order to avoid starvation. It is a fight between people who have got their guilds and associations and people who have not only not got any such associations but who have not even got the capacity to form guilds and associations. It is a fight between two sets of people, one set exploiting upon the ignorance of the other set. It is a fight in which the Government is not an idle and indifferent spectator but is admittedly an active participator. The mill owners are purchasers and the growers are sellers. So there is a conflict of interest between these two parties and in this economic fight, the Government have lent their powerful support to the stronger party. The Government have always placed their boundless resources at the disposal of the stronger party. What is a preliminary jute fore-cast but a census taken of the area which is likely to be under jute cultivation in the next season only to help the mill owners with such accurate information as will enable them to fight the growers to their best advantage? Was not the system of final fore-cast of jute crops introduced for the benefit and at the instance of the mill owners of Bengal and Dundee? These statistics are collected by the Government machinery maintained at the cost of the people only to be used by the mill owners both here and abroad against the grower of jute in regulating their offer of price and the volume of purchase they should make at any particular time.

My Lord, the Textile Committee in England has only the other day recommended that advantage should be taken of India's monopoly of production of jute to safeguard for Britain and her Allies supplies of jute and advised imposition of export duty on shipment of raw jute from India to all destinations with total rebate of duty in favour of the British Empire, total and graduated rebates in favour of the Allies, and graduated rebates in favour of neutral countries offering reciprocal concessions. The interest of the growers is of course an irrelevant talk and was never taken into consideration in formulating these recommendations.

These are some of the grievances of the growers of jute which I feel it my duty to place before Your Excellency. The specific recommendation which I venture to make for Your Excellency's acceptance is the fixing of price of raw jute and the appointment of a jute controller for the purpose under the provisions of the Defence of India Act. This may be opposed by interested parties on the plausible ground of interference with free trade. But I am pleading for the appointment of a Controller not as a permanent office, but only as a war-measure to deal with a certain situation brought into existence by the war. There is certainly no less necessity for regulating the price of jute than there is for regulating the price of coal, cotton and numerous other commodities. I shall venture, my Lord, to put my case on a higher ground. The low price of jute being to a certain extent the immediate and inevitable effect of the intervention of the Government, it is only fair to the growers that the Government should adopt measures to safe-guard their interest. Is it fair that the poor cultivators of Bengal should be sacrificed to secure favourable rates to the rich people of distant countries in Europe? The Government is not a private customer of the mill owners. It has a duty to the growers more imperative and more sacred than they have to the inhabitants of France and Russia, who are certainly able to protect their own interests and do not stand in need of the chivalrous assistance of the British Government. That duty requires that a reasonable price should be ensured to the jute growers. When settling the price of jute manufactures as between the Government and mills, the former should, as a part and parcel of the same contract, insist upon the fixation of the price as between the mills and growers through the dealers and bailers.

In the long run, the low price of raw jute cannot be of any advantage to the mill owners either here or elsewhere. It is an established fact that the area of jute cultivation varies almost from year to year with the price, not of jute manufactures, but of raw jute. The Administration Report of 1915-16 says that marked feature of that year was a general decrease in area which was attributable to the fall in jute prices after the outbreak of the war. When the price falls the area decreases as a matter of course. Although Bengal is the only jute producing country in the world, the reverse is not true and Bengal is not jute producing only. The jute fields are paddy fields to boot. When the price of jute falls, the cultivator at once replaces the jute by paddy. The jute field of this season becomes the paddy field of the next. So if the present low price continues, the jute cultivation will be given up and the cultivators will fall back upon the paddy. This is a prospect which the mill owners can not possibly contemplate with indifference. You may exploit upon the ignorance of the cultivators as long as they grow jute but you can not force them to grow it when eventually they give it up as unprofitable. The mills on the two sides of the Bhagirathi are there because the cultivators grow jute. Their very existence and occupation depends upon the growth of jute. First jute, then jute manufacturers. So an attitude of sympathy and solicitude for the growers is the best policy in the long run for all those who are interested in the jute trade. You may or may not care for the Bengal cultivators but your business instinct and your love of dividend should dictate nothing but sympathy and consideration for them. There is after all a common platform upon which the growers and manufacturers must eventually stand if the outside world care at all for jute and the jute trade."

"Sir, the resolution of the Hon'ble Member seeks to mitigate the disparity between the price which the producer in the jute growing districts receives from the lowest grade of middlemen for the raw jute and the price which the manufacturer in India has been receiving for the manufactured article. In pointing out this disparity, the Hon'ble mover has introduced a good deal of prejudice into the discussion, although in the beginning of his speech he indicated that he did not wish that the mills should give up part of their profits to the cultivators ; but in effect that was after all the solution for which he asked. He has evidently given considerable thought to the subject, and his speech indicates his view that there must be something radically wrong in the matter of the jute trade. The disparity is well known, and all I can say is that the economics of the jute trade are, by no means so simple as some of the critics would suggest. The inequality between the profits is not due to any special defects on the part of the cultivator nor due to any unusual degree of skill, industry or enterprise on the part of the manufacturer. I propose to explain to the Council that the inequality is due to causes over which neither the cultivators nor the manufacturers have control. In doing so, however, it is hardly necessary for me to emphasize the fact that it requires no exhortation on the part of the Hon'ble Member to request Government to safeguard the interests of the cultivating classes. Government did intervene with state help in 1914 ; and as pointed out by me in this Council in connection with a similar resolution on the 19th December 1917, Government have anxiously scanned the horizon for danger signals. Government have the interests of the cultivating classes and of the jute cultivators as much at heart as those of any other classes of His Majesty's subjects, but there are limits to effective intervention by Government and I shall explain that the remedies that the Hon'ble Member suggests, although attractive, will be ineffective to attain the remedy which he desires.

Let us consider, in the first place, the conditions which led to the low price of jute in the jute year, 1917-18. I must ask the indulgence of the Council while I place some statistical results before the Hon'ble Members. Now the price, which the cultivating raiyat receives, is a function of three variables, the outturn, the quality and the demand. From 1910 to 1914, there was a steady increase in the outturn which was synchronous with an increase in the acreage ; during the same period, there was a corresponding increase in the price paid for the raw jute by the manufacturer. The apex of that curve was reached in the beginning of 1914, when the cultivator reaped the benefit of these conditions by getting the high average of Rs. 10 to 11 per maund for the 1913 crop. Then came 1914, when the difficulty of export, owing to reduced tonnage caused by the military requirements of the Empire on the outbreak of war, reduced the average price to Rs. 4 to 5 per maund at the raiyat's door. The raiyat, thereupon, used his natural weapon to re-adjust the conditions, and reduced his acreage from three and one-third million acres in 1914 to two and one-third million acres in 1915. In that year 1915, there was a revival in the export of raw jute and a considerable increase in the export of manufactured jute ; so the reduced crop with the increased demand brought up the average price at the raiyat's door to about Rs. 7 per maund.

It is from 1915 that one must seek to understand the reason for the abnormal conditions which have since obtained. Since 1915 the export of manufactured jute has remained fairly high and constant. On the other hand, from 1916 till the present, the export of raw jute has fallen in the most remarkable fashion. During the last year, 1917-18, the export of raw jute was less than a half of what it had been in the pre-war period ; and indeed it was the lowest export on record for the last 40 years. In the year before the war, the proportion of the crop exported in the raw state was more than half ; the proportion has gradually fallen till last year when it was less than one-fifth. The cultivators, however, proceeded to sow more jute in the two years 1916 and 1917, after they had recovered from the shock of 1914. The corresponding increase in the outturn of 1916 gave them a high average price at their own door, namely Rs. 8 to 9 per maund. Hence, for 1917, we have the conditions which would normally tempt the cultivators to continue to increase their acreage, which actually did happen ; and with the increased acreage the outturn of 1917 increased to the vicinity of 90 lakhs of bales.

Let us then consider the conditions in 1917. A high demand for the manufactured article together with a good local price had increased the acreage with the proportionate increase of outturn ; and yet the average price at the door of the raiyat fell to Rs. 5 per maund. The explanation is, however, simple. Owing to the fall in the export of raw jute, the only effective competition for the raiyat's produce was from the local manufacturers. The mills not only bought their normal requirements, but they bought largely in excess of their immediate requirements to the utmost capacity of storing accommodation of which they could get hold. They not only filled their own godowns, but they filled hired godowns with purchased jute. Two facts, in this connection, must not be over-looked : First, that the enormous decrease in the exportation of raw jute left the market flooded with jute for local purchase, and that naturally depressed the price. Furthermore, had not the mills purchased very much more than their immediate requirements, the price would have been still further depressed to the disadvantage of the raiyats. The imports from all sources into Calcutta up to date of the 1917 crop have been in excess of the imports of the 1916 crop for a corresponding period. It is also the fact that the jute manufacturers realised that there was a danger point beyond which the prices must not be depressed, as that would mean further restriction in area ; and it was to their interest to continue free-buying to the utmost of their capacity. But, nevertheless, these purchases of raw jute, large though they were, could not compensate for the failure in the export trade of raw jute which I have already indicated, and did not cover the whole crop. Indeed, the local exports of both the manufactured and the unmanufactured article in 1917-18 equalled in bulk only two-thirds of the crop harvested in the rains of 1917 ; whereas in the previous year the equivalent in bulk of about nine-tenth of the whole crop was sent abroad in a manufactured or unmanufactured shape, and in the year before that, in 1915-16, practically the equivalent of the whole crop was exported in some form or other. It is obvious that the supply of raw jute in the country was far in excess of the demand in the last year, 1917-18.

The next main question is : if there is such a superfluity of cheap raw jute, why is the price of the manufactured article so high ? The answer is that there are many factors besides the price of the raw material which determine the price of the manufactured article. In this connection, I should like to correct a misapprehension, to which expression has been given in the press. It is alleged that the high profits, the result of such high prices, have been made out of Government. It is not my intention either to attack or defend the mills regarding their net profits, which, as the Director of Statistics has recently pointed out, have increased from the index of 100 in 1914 to the index of 570 in 1917. But it is not a fact that these great profits have been made unpatriotically out of Government. I shall revert to this later.

A reply was given in March last in the Imperial Council to a question of the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Banerji, in which he asked whether the attention of Government had been drawn to the steady rise in the price of hessians. Now, the highest market price of standard hessians has varied, as is well known in the jute world of Calcutta, between Rs. 11 and Rs. 22 per unit between 1911 and 1915. There was a slight rise in the maximum in 1916 to Rs. 25 and a further rise in 1917 to Rs. 30; while in the current year a rate of Rs. 60 has almost been touched. Several causes have contributed to this result.

First of all, the large Government orders restrict the open market. Such orders have been absorbing at least a quarter of the mills' total output; and, indeed, during the early portion of the current year, nearly half of the production of the mills was booked for Government requirements. Hence the balance is insufficient to meet the ordinary trade demand.

In the second place, the orders from Government arrive with little previous notice, and thus complicate the arrangements for meeting the ordinary trade demand, inducing thereby acute competition.

In the third place, there is the scarcity of freight to carry the manufactured goods away from the country. These causes, together with the difficulties of exchange, have made the market-rate jump up and down like a barometer in a cyclone.

To put the two cases succinctly, the low price to the raiyats is due to the fact that the supply of raw jute is greater than the demand, and the high prices of the manufactured article from which the profits of the mills accrue are the result of the fact that the public demand for the manufactured articles, apart from Government orders, is much in excess of the supply. The one cause operates to depress the price against the cultivator, and the other cause to enhance the price against the overseas purchaser. On the one hand, we have an elastic commodity which responds in output to changes in the harvest price; on the other hand, we have a rigid manufacturing agency which has little resiliency owing to the restriction on the flotation of new companies and on the import of machinery. The looms in 1918 were only one-fifth more in 1918 than in 1913: such an increase, however, was insufficient to handle the increased load put on the local mills. Recently in Dundee the open market was paying more for bad damaged jute than the British Government was paying for good sound jute.

The Hon'ble mover has left his remedy to the extreme end of his speech and it was with some difficulty that I could elucidate what that remedy was. If Government were to take over the whole jute crop in the same way, as the wool clip of Australia and the wheat crop of the Argentine Republic have been purchased by the Imperial Government, it would be necessary to fix the prices to be paid by the mills to the middlemen who supply the raw material; but that would not benefit the raiyat unless it were also to be decided what each agent, through whose hands the jute passes, should receive as a minimum price. Anyone who has the most elementary knowledge of the jute trade, of the number of middlemen, through whose hands the jute presses, the paikar, the bepari, the aratdar, the baler's agent and the baler, also of the different grades and qualities of jute, will realise the difficulty if not the impossibility of enforcing any provision of minimum prices. It is impossible to enforce co-operation between cultivator and mill owner by a stroke of the pen. But apart from that, if the supply be in excess of the demand, it would practically be impossible to enforce such orders, because the buyer would easily evade the order as the cultivator would assist him in doing so. In any ordinary times, when there is a perfectly free market, the cultivator receives 75 to 80 per cent. of the Calcutta prices. Suppose, however, that the market has the proposed restriction in the selling price. It seems a simple enough thing to say that the bepari is not to pay less than Rs. 7 a maund to the cultivator. But suppose a bepari wishes to buy 100 maunds, and finds would-be sellers in a village holding 500 maunds. What will then happen? How is the minimum price to be enforced? Then again, the Hon'ble Member wishes to interfere in the interests of one class; but if the raw product were subject to such a control in price, in the interests of the producer, would not a request for a maximum for coal and lubricating oil be equally logical in the case of the manufacturer? Furthermore, as the mills are well supplied with raw material, they could afford to suspend for a time purchases altogether and thus defeat the object of the minimum prices.

The essential point for consideration in connection with this proposal is that the cultivator has the remedy in his own hands, a remedy which he has exercised in the year 1915, after the slump of 1914, that is to say, he reduced his acreage. I am not able to anticipate in this Council the total of the district figures which are at present being published, district by district, of the preliminary jute forecast for the present year; but they will show whether the depressed prices of last year have or have not caused the raiyats to restrict their cultivation. As I have explained above, it is not in the interests of the manufacturer that the acreage should be too much restricted. But what is still more important is that the raiyat is not himself insensible to the fact that the termination of the hostilities in this terrible war will create an effective demand for his produce in the advantages of which he would like to participate. If that reduction is found to be general, the raiyat is putting into action his compensation lever; but if the average raiyat does not materially reduce the total area of his crop in the present year, it will mean that he is still prepared to gamble on the chance of getting the advantage which he hopes will accrue in accumulating a sufficiently large stock to meet the time when the world demand for jute is re-opened for trade purposes.

I trust I have been able to explain to the Council why this disparity to which the Hon'ble Member has drawn attention, does exist.

The Hon'ble Member is on good ground in suggesting that there should be a remedy; but, if his remedy be that the State should have taken its share of these abnormal manufacturers' profits, this would not have made the cultivator more prosperous, though it might have afforded him less ground for jealousy. While the Government sympathise with him in thinking that the position is hard on the raiyat, neither he nor I can fight against economic laws. The jute cultivator, like other people, must take the rough with the smooth. In the past, in the year 1913, he was getting for some jute Rs. 15 a maund; this gave him an extravagant profit, of which, I regret to say, he took very little advantage. It is true he spent a good deal on food, clothes and on his house; but he did not make proper use of this prosperity in clearing off his debts or in saving it against the proverbial rainy day. No one suggested at that time that there should be a maximum price. Just as the high prices with high cash profits of 1913 were not an unmixed blessing to the raiyats either morally or economically, so it may well be that the low prices may now prove altogether an unmixed evil.

The real hardship is that this depression in jute prices is co-existent with the high prices of clothes which the raiyat wishes to buy and the cheap price of the rice which he wishes to sell. It a paradox that in a year in which there was one of the finest rice crops on record the cultivator should find it to be to his disadvantage. While the cheap price of rice benefits large masses of poor people, yet the dear price of clothes affects every body.

I do not advise the Council to accept the remedies proposed by the Hon'ble Member.

*The President's Address.The President's Address.

The President said :—

At the commencement of our proceedings yesterday I found it necessary to address the Council on a matter of disagreeable nature. It now falls to our lot in bringing our proceedings to a close to make an announcement of a pleasanter character.

It will be within the memory of Hon'ble Members that at a meeting of this Council held on December 18th 1916, a resolution was moved by the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta, recommending that the system of trial by jury should be extended throughout the presidency. The Government of the day expressed their inability to accept the resolution as it stood, though they stated that they were prepared to consult the High Court and other authorities on the subject. At the conclusion of the debate the Council divided on the question and the resolution was carried by 24 votes to 22. At the same time, a supplementary resolution, recommending the extension of the system of trial by jury to all offences triable by the Courts of Session, was withdrawn.

Government thereupon took the matter up, and instituted careful enquiries as to the working of the system in the twelve districts in which it was in force. I need not trouble the Council with any very detailed history of the somewhat chequered career which the system has had since its first tentative introduction under Resolution VI of 1832. It will suffice, if I briefly recall the more important landmarks.

By virtue of the Resolution of 1832 any person not professing the Muhammadan faith when put on trial for an offence cognizable under the general Regulations, might claim to be exempted from trial under the Muhammadan Criminal Code and in such case the Judge was ordered to proceed with the trial with the help of a Panchayat, assessors or jury. This form of trial, however was seldom put into practice and it was not until the year 1861 that a regular system of trial by jury was established. Under the provisions of Act XXV of that year sanction was accorded to the system and it was put into operation in seven districts in respect of certain categories of offences in the year 1862. Thereafter the orders governing the operation of the system underwent various changes, one of which namely, the Notification of October the 20th, 1892, containing certain restrictions on its working, led up to the appointment of a Commission consisting of Sir. H. Prinsep, Sir Griffith Evans, Sir Jatindra Mohan Tagore, Sir Romesh Chandra Mitra and Mr. C. A. Wilkins. From that time onwards the tendency has been to add to the categories of cases triable by jury and to increase the number of districts in which it is in force. In 1895, for example, offences relating to marriage were made triable by jury where the system was in operation, and in 1897 the system was extended to the districts of Chittagong, Mymensingh, Rajshahi and Jessore. The last extension given was to the district of Khulna in 1905.

After careful consideration and with the concurrence of the High Court and the sanction of the Government of India we have now decided to extend the system to the districts of Buckerganj, Bankura, Birbhum, Bogra, Dinajpur, Faridpur, Malda, Midnapur, Noakhali, Pabna, Rangpur and Tippera. The effect of this will be that the system will come into operation throughout the whole of the Presidency with the exception only of the non-regulation districts, namely Darjeeling, Jalpaiguri and the Chittagong Hill Tracts. At the same time it is proposed that offences under Chapter XII of the Indian Penal Code and under section 82 of the Indian Post Office, 1898, should be added to the list of offences so triable.

The President's Address.

If the Hon'ble Members of this Council were men who considered it necessary to cut off their kindlier nature and with their entry into the Council Chamber to adopt a spirit of factiousness and petulance, they might be disposed to receive this announcement with the observation that the mills of Government grind somewhat slowly. I am happy to believe that if I were to suggest that the members of this Council acted in this way I should be doing them a grave injustice. And I assumed with complete confidence, therefore, that Hon'ble Members will regard this announcement as a signal proof that Government do give to the recommendations made to them by this Council their most careful and sympathetic consideration."

Adjournment :

The Council was then adjourned sine die.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 27th June 1918.

Summary.—The rainfall during the week was heavy, especially in the northern and in some of the eastern districts. The excessive rain has affected the crops on low-lying areas and has, in some cases, necessitated the early harvesting of jute. The condition of other crops is, on the whole, fair. The average price of common rice for the province has risen by about 1·3 per cent., as compared with that of the previous week.

CALCUTTA, THE 17TH JULY 1918.

RESOLUTION—No. 5670P.

THE District Administration Committee, in the course of their enquiries into the conditions of the various districts of Bengal, found that there are several unwieldy districts, which are too large for efficient administration, and that it will be necessary to divide them into smaller administrative units before any considerable advance can be made in the development of local self-government and the expansion of education and sanitation. Mymensingh and Midnapore were regarded by the Committee as the districts most urgently in need of division, but they placed Dacca third on the list. Though the area of that district is only 2,777 square miles, its population, which in 1911, was nearly 3,000,000, and must now be considerably larger, is second only to that of Mymensingh. The work of administration in Dacca is rendered difficult not merely by the density of the rural population, which in parts is nearly 2,000 to the square mile, but also by the high average level of intelligence and education among the people. The Munshiganj subdivision, which is probably the most advanced rural tract in India, covers an area of only 386 square miles, and, though there is not a single municipality in the subdivision, it contains 23 high schools with an average of over 300 scholars in each and 557 primary schools. This extensive system of education not only adds to the work of the local officials, but is a sign of the intelligence and of the political and social aspirations of the people. The difficulties of administering the district are greatly increased by the defective communications. The country to the south and east of Dacca is a vast stretch of swampy rice fields traversed in every direction by a net-work of water channels, which renders the construction of roads and railways a practical impossibility. In the matter of land revenue, Dacca has a larger number of estates than any other district in the Presidency, and the complexities of its system of land tenures are less only than those of Bakarganj. The volume of litigation is greater in Dacca than in any other district except Mynensingh. The District Magistrate of Dacca is further burdened with the responsibility of looking after the headquarters station, which is the largest town and the largest educational centre in the Presidency outside Calcutta and Howrah, and presents problems of peculiar difficulty, social, political and administrative.

2. The Governor in Council has no hesitation, therefore, in coming to the conclusion that the district of Dacca is too heavy a charge for a single officer, and, as a matter of fact, the District Officer has for several years past been given the assistance of an Additional District Magistrate. This system has, however, been found wanting in Dacca, as elsewhere. While the Additional District Magistrate can relieve the District Officer of the routine work of certain departments, it is impossible for the latter to divest himself of his responsibility for the administration of the district as a whole, or to find time, when so burdened in a district like Dacca, for the investigation and initiation of schemes of reform and rural development. Dacca is specially fortunate in the possession of a large number of gentlemen of education and position residing in the interior, who, as experience has shown, are willing to give their time and services as members of union committees and other public bodies. There is no district in Bengal in which the prospects of a sound and useful development of local self-government are more hopeful, and His Excellency in Council is convinced that an advance in this direction would be greatly facilitated if Dacca were divided into two districts of manageable size, each under a responsible District Officer, who would have the time and the opportunity to guide and assist its development. The time has therefore arrived for this change to be made, not solely or even mainly in order to relieve the existing pressure on the over-worked district officials, but in the best interests of the district itself. It remains to consider the best method of effecting this division, and before coming to a final decision on this question, His Excellency in Council is desirous of having the views and opinions of all who will be affected by the change.

3. The scheme of division proposed by the District Administration Committee has been subjected to careful examination by the officers of the various departments concerned, and the Governor in Council, while refraining at the present stage from binding himself to a final decision either on the principle or on the details of the scheme, considers that it may suitably be put forward as a basis for discussion. The Committee contemplated the division of the present district into two parts, the new western district, comprising the existing Sadar and Manikganj subdivisions, and the eastern district comprising the present Narayanganj and Munshiganj subdivisions, lying along the Meghna river. No change is needed in regard to the Munshiganj and Manikganj subdivisions which are suitable and compact areas of manageable size, but the Sadar and Narayanganj subdivisions are both, in modern conditions, unmanageable administrative units. The former covers an area of 1,240 square miles with a population of over a million. Narayanganj has an area of 641 square miles and a population of nearly 800,000. The Committee accordingly proposed that a new subdivision should be formed in the northern portion of the present Sadar subdivision, consisting of the revenue thanas of Kapasia and Sabhar and the Jaidebpur police-station, and that the Narayanganj subdivision should similarly be divided by the creation of a new subdivision in the north-eastern corner of the present district comprising the Raipura thana and the Narsingdi police-station. The economic condition of this part of the district is not satisfactory and requires careful watching; it has suffered severely from the fall in the price of jute which has taken place since the outbreak of the war, and it was found necessary to grant agricultural loans on an extensive scale in 1914.

4. The composition of the proposed districts is shown in the following statements :—

Western District.

Sadar	Kotwali, Sntrapur and Lalbagh	113,086	6

	Lohajang
	Total	692,407	386
District Total		1,471,971	1,027

The population figures are taken from the Census of 1911, and there is every reason to believe that they have increased considerably in the last seven years.

5. As regards the headquarters of the new districts and subdivisions Dacca is clearly the most suitable place for the headquarters of the western district. For the eastern district, Narayanganj, though within ten miles of Dacca, appears to be on the whole, the most suitable place for a district headquarters. It is conveniently situated in regard to communications with the Munshiganj subdivision, and it is already a subdivisional headquarters for the remainder of the area which will form the proposed eastern district. A suitable site is available on the banks of the Lakhya river near the present subdivisional station. The District Administration Committee proposed that the headquarters of the new northern subdivision in the western district should be at Jaidebpur, but it has been strongly represented by the local officers that a more suitable site would be at Tangi, some six miles south of Jaidebpur. Tangi is even now a railway junction where the lines from Dacca to Mymensingh and from Tangi to Bhairab meet, and when the extension of the latter line to Tangail is carried out, the importance of Tangi as a trade centre will be further increased. Tangi is also more conveniently situated than Jaidebpur with regard to communications by road and river, and is reported to be more healthy. For these reasons, the Governor in Council is inclined to substitute Tangi for Jaidebpur as the headquarters of the proposed northern subdivision. For the new north-eastern subdivision, it is proposed that the headquarters should be on the Tangi-Bhairab Railway in the neighbourhood of Narsingdi, which appears to be more conveniently situated than any other place in the subdivision.

6. It may be added that no change is contemplated in the judicial arrangements of the present district beyond the transfer of two Munsifs from Dacca and Narayanganj, respectively, to each of the proposed new subdivisions. The superior courts will for the present remain at Dacca, and the work will continue to be divided between the District Judge and an Additional Judge. There are not the same difficulties about this arrangement as in regard to the apportionment of work between the District Officer and the Additional District Magistrate. There are indeed certain advantages in concentrating the higher branches at a single centre, provided the public convenience is not materially impaired.

7. If the division of the district is carried out on the lines suggested, Dacca would seem an appropriate name for the new western district and Narayanganj for the new eastern district. But on this point, as well as on all others connected with the scheme, the opinions of the public are freely invited. This resolution is published with the object of enabling public associations and private individuals to formulate such criticism and advice as will lead to the best possible solution of the problem. Opinions should be sent to the Collector of Dacca not later than the 31st October 1918.

By order of the Governor in Council.

J. H. KERR,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE SANITARY AND VACCINATION REPORTS, BENGAL.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Sanitation Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 22ND JULY 1918.

RESOLUTION—No. 479San.

READ—

The Reports of the Sanitary Commissioner, the Sanitary Board and the Sanitary Engineer, Bengal, for the year 1917.

READ ALSO—

The Annual Statistical Returns and Short Notes on Vaccination in Bengal for the year 1917-18.

General results.—The year 1917 was remarkably healthy. The number of recorded births exceeded the number of deaths by 440,364, representing an addition of approximately 1 per cent. to the population recorded at the last census. The increase was more than double that returned last year, which was the largest recorded since 1912.

2. Birth-rate.—The birth-rate rose from 31·89 per mille to 35·91 per mille, which exceeds by 2·59 per mille the mean ratio of the previous quinquennium. The actual increase over the number of births recorded last year was 182,281; and every district contributed to this increase except Howrah and Bankura, where there was a decrease of 1·2 per mille.

3. Death-rate.—The death-rate fell from 27·37 to 26·19 per mille, the actual mortality being nearly 200,000 less than the average of the previous quinquennium. The decline was common to both urban and rural areas; and, as shown in the marginal statement, there was a smaller mortality from all the common diseases except respiratory diseases. Among the districts, Darjeeling has the highest death-rate (38·6 per mille), its unenviable position being due to the unhealthiness of the Tarai, where the Sanitary Commissioner records the melancholy fact that 49·2 per mille of the population fell victims to fever.

Among the towns of Bengal Kurseong heads the list, not for the first time, its death-rate being 48·79 per mille. Its unhealthiness is ascribed to insanitary conditions and the want of a proper sewerage system. The Governor in Council has determined to remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs, and a sewerage scheme will shortly be carried out with the help of a large Government grant and loan.

4. Infantile mortality.—The number of infants dying during the first year of life was only 18·5 per hundred births. There has been a steady and progressive decrease in infantile mortality during the last four years, the percentage falling from 22·14 to 18·5. The highest ratio (23·92) was recorded in Calcutta, where, however, there has been considerable improvement during recent years. The ignorance and inefficiency of Indian midwives, coupled with the insanitary conditions which attend child-birth in a crowded city, constitute a special problem; and the Governor in Council is pleased to observe the success of the Lady Health Visitors and the midwifery organization under their control in preventing waste of child-life. During 1916-17 the Corporation midwives attended 627 cases, and there were only three maternal deaths, while the number of infantile deaths within ten days after birth was 35. A system of periodical inspections of babies at their homes by the Lady Health Visitors has also been introduced, and the fact that there were only 19 deaths among 464 babies under observation justifies the claim of the Chairman that the measure has some potential value in the saving of infant lives.

5. Vital statistics.—The returns of vital statistics are admittedly deficient, and it is unnecessary to dilate on this familiar fact. The usual verification by inspectors and sub-inspectors of vaccination brought to light a slightly larger proportion of omissions, viz., 3·3 per cent. of births and 2·3 per cent. of deaths, than in the preceding year. The statistics are defective not only on account of such omissions, but also through confusion as to the causes of death. The Sanitary Commissioner estimates that, even in the most malarious districts, possibly only one quarter, or at the most one-third, of the deaths entered under the head of fever are really due to malaria. "Kala-azar accounts for a certain number of deaths in some districts; enteric fever is far more prevalent than is generally supposed; and phthisis probably accounts for at least 10 per cent. of the deaths recorded from fever." An improvement has, however, been effected in some towns. The recorded birth-rate in Asansol has been raised in two years from 6·02 to 30·5 per mille. Dhulian, in Murshidabad, which last year headed the list with a birth-rate of 31·4, has this year increased the rate to 43·6. Brahmanbaria and Madaripur also record rates of over 40, representing an increase of 16 and 12 per mille, respectively. On the other hand, 14 municipalities record birth-rates which are absurdly low, ranging from 7·6 per mille in Jhalakati to 14·8 per mille in Mymensingh. These 14 municipalities include district headquarters and populous towns, such as Suri, Burdwan, Bogra, Khulna, Titagarh and Bhadreswar, in which a better system of registration might be expected. It is clear, as the Sanitary Commissioner remarks, that "in the majority of these towns the lowness of the birth-rate merely signifies neglect on the part of the local authorities to take steps to secure accurate registration."

6. Fever.—The number of deaths reported under this head was 882,768. There has been a steady decrease from the total of 1,064,159 registered in 1915, the annual diminution being 154,279 in 1916 and 27,112 in the year under review.

The decrease in 1917 was confined to rural areas, urban statistics showing a slight increase, which the Sanitary Commissioner attributes to an improvement in the registration of deaths.

Eastern Bengal, a region blessed with an abundant rainfall and great rivers, which, as they spread over the land in flood, not only fertilize the soil, but create conditions adverse to malaria, has, as usual, a comparatively low death-rate. Northern Bengal, a land of dead and dying rivers, in which the drainage system is deranged, is the most malarious part of the Presidency, four districts in the Rajshahi Division heading the list with the rates shown in the margin: the rates for the four least malarious districts are shown in contraposition.

7. Anti-malarial measures.—Progress was made with the execution of three of the four experimental anti-malarial schemes designed on lines laid down by Dr. Bentley. The Meenglass scheme, which will carry underground the ordinary flow of hill streams, was completed and came into operation in the rains of 1917. It was not, however, found possible to control all the hill streams within the area of the experiment, and Government have given an additional grant for further work. The Sanitary Commissioner reports that, while a spleen census taken after the rains of 1917 suggests that there has been some diminution in malaria, it will not be possible till after the rains of 1918 to judge whether the area under control is likely to be sufficient for the reduction of malaria. Progress was less satisfactory with the scheme for surface drainage, combined with the flushing of streams, in the Singaram colliery in Burdwan. Delay in the completion of a masonry pier resulted in the structure being washed away by an unexpected flood, and difficulties, which were eventually overcome, arose over the abandonment of patches of rice cultivation which afforded breeding places for the anopheles mosquito. It is hoped that some idea may be gained of the effect of this scheme also after the rains of the current year. The scheme for flush drainage of an urban area at Jangipur was not completed in time to take advantage of the early floods, and consequently the flood water of the Bhagirathi was only taken in twice late in the season. The works necessary for flooding a rural area in the Banka Valley near Burdwan could not be taken up in the absence of certain technical data which were required as a preliminary to engineering work. The engineering observations are now complete and the scheme is being proceeded with, while a special malaria survey has been carried out in 38 villages. Two Sub-Assistant Surgeons are now posted in this area to keep a record of births, deaths and sickness, while Sub-Assistant Surgeons have been sent to Meenglass, Singaram and Jangipur to watch the results of the schemes and supervise the free distribution of quinine and other drugs.

In addition to the usual free distribution of quinine, of which the cost is met by Government, special measures were undertaken in several localities for the prevention and reduction of malaria. Anti-malarial surveys were carried out in the Basirhat and South Dum-Dum municipalities and in a large number of villages, as well as at the Kidderpore docks and the Sibpur College. Quinine was distributed to school children by five towns and five District Boards; and a spleen census was taken by thirteen towns and two District Boards.

Interesting proposals regarding the possibility of forecasting and mitigating epidemics of malaria were received from Sir Leonard Rogers and were referred early in the year under review to the Sanitary Commissioner, whose report is still awaited. The Sanitary Commissioner draws attention to the efficacy of quinine prophylaxis in the case of European residents in the Duars. Ten years ago this district was so notoriously unhealthy on account of malaria and black-water fever that it was known as "the white man's grave". In 1906, there were 20 deaths among 200 Europeans, most of whom were young adults. The daily use of a small dose of quinine as a prophylactic has now been adopted by almost the whole of the European community, with the result that black-water fever has now almost ceased to occur among them; enlarged spleens are rare; Europeans are enabled to enjoy relatively good health; and the Duars is now spoken of as "a fairly healthy district".

There is also reason to believe that the prophylactic value of quinine is being recognized and appreciated by Indians to an increasing extent. Eloquent testimony on this point is afforded by editorial paragraphs which have recently appeared in the Bengalee and Amrita Bazar Patrika. The former journal points out that "in the malaria season quinine is as much an essential commodity to the inhabitants of villages as food or clothing;" that the drug is "an article of every-day necessity" and "as important as air or water" to the mufassal public. The Amrita Bazar Patrika, which has hitherto been sceptical as to the benefits of quinine, remarks that a stoppage of the supply of quinine treatments to village post masters "means the sure death of hundreds of persons for want of an ordinary medicine. Quinine may not always cure malaria, but there is no doubt that it is the only anti-malarial medicine hitherto discovered In malarial places it is as essential as daily food."

8. Small-pox.—During the last three years there has been a progressive and satisfactory decline in the mortality from small-pox, which was 32,785 in 1915, fell to 13,890 in 1916, and in the year under review reached the low figure of 7,010, which is only half the annual average for the preceding quinquennium.

9. Vaccination.—The reported number of vaccinations was 1,614,601 or 12,948 less than in the previous year, but there was an increase of 8,191 in the number of persons vaccinated. The reduction in the number of vaccinations which occurred in several districts is ascribed partly to the diminished prevalence of small-pox and partly to the fact that the full staff of vaccinators was not at work in consequence of epidemics of malaria. Free vaccination was continued in the 24 Parganas and one subdivision of Bakarganj, and was introduced in Jalpaiguri, at the cost of the District Board, as well as in the Asansol mining settlement: in all these districts there was a marked increase in the number of operations. On the other hand, free vaccination had to be discontinued in a thana of the Faridpur district, where it had been introduced as an experimental measure in the previous year, as the people elsewhere refused to pay fees to the licensed vaccinators.

10. Cholera.—There was an unusually small mortality from cholera, deaths numbering only 45,021 or 25,815 less than in the previous year. This is the lowest figure recorded since the reconstitution of the Presidency in 1912. The marked diminution in the prevalence of the disease is associated with increased rainfall and especially heavy falls in June and October.

11. Plague.—Plague remains an almost negligible factor in the health statistics of Bengal, the number of deaths in 1917 being only 163. All those who succumbed to the disease were residents of towns, and it was entirely absent from rural areas : 81 occurred in Calcutta, 48 in the 24-Parganas, 24 in Hooghly, and 10 in Howrah, the rest of the Presidency being immune.

12. Miscellaneous enquiries.—The researches made a few years ago by Lieutenant-Colonel Clayton Lane, I.M.S., brought to light the prevalence of ankylostomiasis or hook-worm disease in the Darjeeling district ; and during the year a systematic enquiry was instituted, with his assistance, in order to ascertain the prevalence and distribution of the disease in other parts of the Presidency. An examination of prisoners in fourteen jails, which were selected as affording facilities for the enquiry, shows a high degree of hook-worm infestation in the districts concerned, the percentage of infection being over 80 per cent. in five, from 70 to 80 per cent. in four, and from 60 to 70 per cent. in five of those in which the investigation was made.

The Committee appointed to consider the sanitary organization of the Port of Calcutta, with special reference to the action necessary to ensure its security against yellow fever, finished its enquiry. Its report was submitted to Government after the end of the year, and is now under consideration.

13. Sanitary Engineering.—The total cost of sanitary work carried out by Government, District Boards, municipalities and private individuals during the year 1916-17 is returned at Rs. 15,19,316 as against Rs. 14,60,006 for the preceding twelve months. The expenditure comprised in this total is so lacking in uniformity, however, including as it does the construction of reservoirs for agricultural purposes, the acquisition of a burial ground and the construction and maintenance of dispensaries, that the figures have no clear statistical value.

The actual capital expenditure on works of sanitary engineering reported by the Sanitary Engineer amounted only to Rs. 3,32,108 as against Rs. 4,61,894 in the previous year, the falling off being due to the continued policy of economy imposed by financial conditions. Of the total expenditure Rs. 1,95,293 was on account of water-works and Rs. 1,36,815 on account of drainage schemes.

Work was in progress during the year on new water-supply schemes in the towns of Uttarpara, Satkhira and Nator, and on the extension and improvement of existing water-works in Howrah, Burdwan and Berhampore. Little progress was effected in Satkhira owing to delay on the part of the contractor and the eventual cancellation of the contract, but the water-works in Uttarpara were approaching completion by the end of the year, and it is hoped that those in Nator will be ready before the close of the current year. In Howrah the construction of new settling tanks and filter beds was completed, but otherwise work was almost at a standstill owing to financial difficulties. The improvement of the Berhampore water-works was completed, but at Burdwan disputes with contractors put a stop to the work which had been begun on a new elevated reservoir. Detailed water-supply schemes were under preparation for the towns of Dacca, Mymensingh, Krishnagar, Midnapore and Suri, and sketch projects were prepared for six other localities, including Rajbari, where it is intended to execute a water-supply scheme, for which a grant of Rs. 10,000 has been sanctioned by Government. The riparian water works scheme for the supply of water to a number of municipalities on the east bank of the Hooghly above Calcutta was referred to the local authorities concerned during the year. It is regretted that financial stringency has prevented further progress with schemes of water-supply in urban areas, for, as pointed out by the Sanitary Commissioner, the introduction of filtered water-supply is always followed by a marked reduction in the mortality from cholera and dysentery and diarrhoea.

Three drainage schemes were completed during the year, viz., at Tangail, Garden Reach and Bhatpara, the second part of the Bhadreswar drainage scheme was almost completed, and a few small works were carried out at Howrah. Detailed schemes were prepared for the towns of Dacca, Munshiganj, Krishnagar, Serampore and Kurseong and sketch projects for a small drainage scheme in Khulna and for a joint water-supply and drainage scheme in Comilla.

There were about 115 septic tanks at the end of the year 1916 in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Howrah and Hooghly, mostly attached to jute mills on the banks of the Hooghly; eight more were installed during the year under report, and further construction was in progress at its close.

14. Sanitary Board.—During the year the Provincial Malarial Committee was amalgamated with the Sanitary Board, as it was found that the work of the two bodies overlapped, there being few schemes of sanitation which do not have a direct bearing on the question of the prevention and mitigation of malaria, and it was considered that an enlarged Sanitary Board would be a stronger and more useful body.

15. Mines Board of Health.—The Governor in Council is pleased to observe the excellent work being done by the Mines Board of Health in checking and controlling outbreaks of small-pox, cholera and malaria, in the mining settlement in the Asansol subdivision of the Burdwan district. It is reported that the precautions taken by the Board proved effective in arresting the spread of epidemics of small-pox and cholera in this area, the decrease in the number of cases compared with the previous year amounting roughly to 1,000 and 600 per cent., respectively. The organized distribution of quinine also appears to have been largely instrumental in preventing a recrudescence of the epidemic of malaria which in 1916 spread panic among the labour force of the collieries. The Mines Board of Health has the advantage not only of dealing with a comparatively small area and with a population largely under the control of the collieries, but also of being able to exercise special powers under the Bengal Mining Settlement Act and the Epidemic Diseases Act; but even so the diminution of disease in the mining settlement shows, as the Sanitary Commissioner remarks, "the remarkable effect of organized control and should serve as an object-lesson to all District Boards."

16. Development of the Sanitary Department.—The year under review witnessed a continued development in the activities of the Sanitary Department, due to the growth of interest in questions of public health, and the closer attention paid to the sanitary organization of local bodies, as well as to the special enquiries and experiments which were in progress. There was also a further increase of work in the bacteriological laboratory of the Department owing to the more frequent analysis of samples of water and food. It is anticipated that there will be a further expansion of this branch of the Sanitary Department if a Bill for the prevention of food adulteration which Government propose to introduce becomes law.

The sanitary organization of municipalities under the Bengal Municipal Sanitary Officers Act of 1914 is now practically complete, but the position is very different in rural areas. The Sanitary Commissioner has repeatedly drawn attention in his report to the absence of any effective public health organization outside the towns and to the necessity for a full-time District Health Officer and subordinate staff for systematic work in the prevention and mitigation of outbreaks of malaria, cholera and small-pox. No real advance in regard to vaccination or any other public health work can, in his opinion, be expected until there is a properly organized public health department in each district. The Governor in Council recognizes the steps already taken by District Boards to afford medical relief by the establishment and maintenance of dispensaries, but hitherto their energies have been devoted to the cure rather than the prevention of disease. It has not been sufficiently realized that public health is one of their primary duties, that they are responsible for initiating sanitary reforms in rural areas, and that for this purpose there must be an organized staff trained in modern methods of hygiene and capable of dealing with problems of public health. The great majority of the Boards have been satisfied with entertaining a low paid Sanitary Inspector of poor qualifications and with deputing doctors to deal with epidemics as they arise. Much more is required of the District Boards if they are to discharge their functions as guardians of the public health; and orders are about to issue, as a preliminary measure of reform, requiring the appointment by all District Boards of a qualified District Health Officer, who will be responsible for vaccination work, measures against epidemics and sanitary education in rural areas.

17. Staff.—Dr. C. A. Bentley was in charge of the office of Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, and Mr. G. B. Williams of that of Sanitary Engineer, throughout the year. The Governor in Council desires to acknowledge the enthusiasm and zeal of Dr. Bentley, and to express his appreciation of the efficiency with which Mr. Williams has, as in previous years, discharged his duties. He also desires to thank the Sanitary Board and their President, the Hon'ble Mr. C. J. Stevenson-Moore, c.v.o., for valuable assistance in examining and advising Government on sanitary schemes and on the programme of sanitary work.

By order of the Governor in Council.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop in Bengal, 1918.

(NOTE.—On an average of five years ending 1915-16, the area under jute to which this forecast relates represents 87·7 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THIS forecast deals with the estimates of area sown and the present condition of the crop, based on information received through the agency of the panchayats as in previous years.

Area Sown.—The returns show a total area sown of 2,250,836 acres, being a decrease of 161,591 acres or about 7 per cent. from last year's final figures. The large decreases in area reported from some districts may be attributed to the low price obtained for last year's crop and the large carry over. The area has been well maintained in the more important jute-growing districts in Eastern Bengal, viz., Dacca, Faridpur, Mymensingh and Tippera, the two former showing considerable increases over last year's figures.

Character of the Season.—The rainfall was below normal in all districts in January and February. The month of March was, on the whole, favourable for the preparation of the land and the seeding of the crop in the more important districts. April and May were favourable months for jute, although the rainfall in the latter month was in excess. The heavy rainfall and want of sunshine in June has, however, retarded the growth of the crop to a considerable extent. The recent sunny weather has been beneficial, but has come too late for many places.

Present State of the Crop.—The crop may be rated as "fair" only, and is, on the whole, inferior to that of last year at the time of the publication of the Preliminary Forecast.

Stocks in Hand.—A large balance from last year's crop is still held in the districts, especially in Northern Bengal.

1	2	3	4	5	6
	Acres.	Acres.
24-Parganas	88,801	86,846	Very little	Middle of April; normal.	Decrease in area is mainly due to fall in the price of jute and to some extent excessive rains at sowing time. Excessive rains hampered the growth of the crop and caused considerable damage. The present conditions are not favourable.
Nadia	70,089	58,416	Little in all subdivisions excepting Badar.	Beginning of May; normal.	The decrease in area is due to low price of jute. The weather conditions have been on the whole favourable.
Murshidabad	36,476	17,606	Much remains in Jangipur, but very little in other subdivisions.	May; normal ...	The decrease in area is due to fall in the price of jute. The weather conditions were favourable at the beginning, but heavy rains afterwards retarded sowing and a stunted growth of the crop already sown. Continued rain in May damaged the crop to some extent.
Jessore	84,706	68,272	Little	March to May; late in Murail, but normal in all other subdivisions.	The decrease in area is due to fall in the price of jute. Growth of the crop has been much affected by incessant rainfall since sowing time. Much damage has also been done by excessive rains. The present condition is on the whole fair.
Khulna	27,727	22,806	Much	April; normal ...	The decrease in area is partly due to unfavourable weather at sowing time and partly to fall in the price of jute. Excessive rains retarded the growth of the crop. The present condition is fair.
Burdwan	6,451	5,760	Much jute remains at Badar from the crops of last year.	Middle of April; normal.	The decrease is due to previous year's crop remaining unsold. Weather has been favourable at sowing time. Incessant rainfall during the latter part of June is likely to retard the growth of the crop.
Midnapore	14,567	9,367	Nil	May; normal ...	Decrease in area is due to want of rain at sowing time and low price of jute. The present weather conditions are good.
Hooghly	22,722	27,045	Little	Beginning of May; normal.	The decrease in area is due to want of rain at the beginning and heavy rainfall at the end of sowing time, and also to low price of jute obtained last year. Growth of the crop has been much hampered and some damage done by heavy rains.
Howrah	19,868	7,980	Little	Middle of May; normal.	The decrease in area is due to fall in the price of jute. The weather was favourable at sowing time, but subsequently turned unfavourable on account of incessant heavy showers. The present condition of the crop, especially on low lands, is unfavourable.
Rajshahi	61,024	74,360	Little	Early in March on the low lands and on high land by the middle of April.	The decrease in area is due to low price of jute. Heavy rain retarded growth of the crop slightly. Slight damage is reported from Nowgong owing to heavy rain.
Dinajpur	61,700	60,000	Little	First part of April; normal.	The decrease in area is due to low price of jute. Weather was favourable at sowing time, but excessive rainfall later on affected the growth of the crop as weeding could not be done properly. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Jaipalguri	52,500	42,568	Much	Latter part of April; normal.	The decrease in area is due to fall in the price of jute. Weather conditions have not been favourable. Heavy rain after sowing caused slight damage. The early sown crop is doing well, but the condition of the late sown crop is not good.
Darjeeling	2,562	2,916	Nil	Second week of April; late.	The decrease in area is due to drought at sowing time. Weather has not been favourable from sowing time up till now on account of untimely and heavy rainfall. The crop is damaged to some extent.
Rangpur	248,331	200,173	Much	March; normal ...	The decrease is due to low price of jute last year. The weather at the time of sowing and weeding was good, but the recent heavy rainfall has proved unfavourable.
Bogra	64,766	66,436	Much	Middle of March; normal.	The decrease in area is due to an expectation of a better market for jute. Weather at sowing time was favourable. Heavy rains in May and June caused appreciable damage to the crop.

1	2	3	4	5	6
	Acreage.	Acre.
Pabna	117,400	87,423	Some	First week of April; a little late.	The decrease is due to low price of jute and to some unsold stock remaining in the hands of cultivators.
Maldah	34,000	29,000	Some	May; normal	The decrease in area is due to low price of jute. The weather conditions have been on the whole favourable.
Dacca	292,083	292,902	Some	March to middle of April; little late in Sadar.	Increase in area is due to improvement in prices since the end of December last and abundance of paddy. Damage to the extent of about 8 to 10 per cent. has been caused by sudden and early rise of rivers. This has necessitated premature harvesting in places. The present condition is on the whole good.
Mymensingh	579,008	577,322	Little	Latter part of March; normal.	The decrease is mainly due to prolonged drought and low price of jute. The weather was favourable at sowing time, but heavy rainfall later on damaged the crop on low-lying tracts.
Faridpur	200,000	218,108	Much	Beginning of April; normal.	Increase in area is due to improved prices of jute during the latter part of the season and to favourable weather conditions at sowing time. Growth of the crop has been affected by heavy and too early rainfall.
Bakarganj	57,000	51,800	Little	End of March and early part of April; a little late.	Decrease in area is due to defective rainfall at sowing time. Excessive fall later on caused damage to the extent of about 50 per cent.

Tripura	228,518	222,722	Very little	Sowing commenced from March and ended in May; early on low lands, but late on high lands.	Weather was favourable at sowing time, but continuous heavy rainfall afterwards retarded the growth of late sown crop. The early sown crop is, however, promising.
Nonkhali	22,530	20,207	Little	Early in March; normal.	The decrease in area is due to low price of jute obtained last year. The effect of weather on the cultivation and growth of the crop was not favourable. The present condition is also not good owing to continuous rainfall since end of April.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BIHAR AND ORISSA.

Preliminary forecast of the Jute Crop of Bihar and Orissa, 1918.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1915-16 the area under jute in which the Bihar and Orissa forecast relates represents about 8·2 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THE present forecast deals only with the estimated area sown. It gives also a general survey of prospects, but makes no reference to the probable outturn either in percentage figures or in bales.

2. Acreage.—The estimated area sown during the current and four preceding years in round numbers is given below :—

Year.	Acreage.
1914	330,100
1915	188,100
1916	224,000
1918	150,600

3. Weather conditions.—In March the rainfall was below the normal in all jute-growing districts. In April and May it was above the normal everywhere except in Balasore, where it was in slight defect during the former month. In June the rainfall was above the normal except in Bhagalpur and the Santal Parganas, where it was slightly below the normal. Weather conditions have not been favourable in the important districts of Purnea and Cuttack on account of excessive rain during the past month.

4. District returns.—The total area under jute as reported by the District Officers is estimated in round numbers at 150,600 acres as compared with 223,300 acres of last year. The decrease is due to the low price of jute last year, and also to apprehension of increased trouble in selling this year owing to a diminution of railway facilities.

5. Condition and Prospects.—The condition of the crop is not promising in Cuttack and Purnea; elsewhere it is fair to good.

6. General.—A large quantity of jute from the crop of 1917 remains in Purnea. In other districts the stock of last year's crop is small.

APPENDIX I.

First Forecast of the Jute Crop of Bihar and Orissa, 1918.

DIVISION.	District.	Total area of the district.	Estimated total area under cultivation.	Estimated cotton area under jute. (This figure has been arrived at by taking the average of 10 years immediately preceding the year to which this forecast relates.)	DECLARED AREA UNDER JUTE.		Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of last year.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year and whether this date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.
					Last year (1917).	This year (1918).
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Tirhut ...	Champarnn	2,259,840	1,436,300	1,800	2,500	2,500	Little ...	March. Early in the Bettiah subdivision and normal in the Sadar subdivision.	The weather and rainfall have been favourable. The present condition of the crop is good. Sowings were early in the Bettiah subdivision and normal in the Sadar subdivision; they have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year.
	Mazarkapur	1,943,334	1,637,000	1,700	2,300	1,800	Prospects of the crop are good.
	Bhagalpur	2,641,020	1,634,100	2,900	2,372	1,867	In two subdivisions little jute remains from the crop of last year. In one much and in one none.	April to beginning of June.	The decrease in the area this year is noticeable chiefly in Supaul, from where it is reported that it is due to the fall in the price of jute. Here 1,450 acres have been shown for this year against 2,104 acres, the corresponding figure of last year. Much more sugarcane is also now being grown in this area than formerly.
Bhagalpur	Parnon ...	2,196,153	1,664,400	228,100	132,000	132,300	A large quantity estimated at 900,000 maunds.	March (normal)	The large reduction in area is due to the low price of jute last year and to the anticipated lower price this year owing to large stocks remaining in the district. Owing to heavy rain during the last month and a half the crop does not promise well.
	Santal Parganas.	2,486,100	1,686,200	2,000	1,400	1,300	Little quantity of jute remaining with the growers from last year's crop in Pakur.	Middle of May...	In the Pakur subdivisions the acreage under jute is decreasing owing apparently to the decrease in the price of the fibre. The condition of the crop is so far fair, but the present heavy rain will cause damage if it continues. The date of sowing was normal. In Raj Mahal sowings have been completed. The condition of the crop is good.
Orissa	Cuttack ...	2,340,387	1,328,600	16,000	36,700	19,700	Very little ...	Last week of April (normal).	The weather was not very favourable as there has been continuous and excessive rain after the crop was sown. The present condition of the crop is poor, as a considerable area is under water owing to sudden high floods. Sowings have been completed. The decrease in area this year is due to the low price at which jute was sold last year.
	Balasore ...	1,323,621	972,900	2,900	2,100	2,900	Owing to low demand and to low prices a little quantity of jute still remains in the district from the crop of last year.	2nd week of May	The rainfall and weather have been favourable for the growth of the crop. The condition of the crop is good. The sowing was early; it has been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better than that of last year. Increase in area is due to favourable weather at the time of sowing.
	Total ...	17,196,345	10,798,000	297,500	822,273 or in round numbers 225,300	156,507 or in round numbers 156,500

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, ASSAM.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop in Assam, 1918.

(NOTE.—On the average of the five years ending 1913-14, the area under jute in Assam represents some 2·1 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

1. Character of the season.—There was very little rain in February, but more than usual in March, which was followed by a dry April. In May the rainfall was adequate, whereas in June it was above the average except in Surma Valley, where it was normal. The weather at the beginning was not at all very favourable except in Surma Valley. The early floods in June slightly damaged the jute crop in almost all districts. The present condition of the standing crop appears to be favourable.

2. Area sown.—As estimated by the Deputy Commissioners, the total area of the province is calculated to be 90,300 acres or 10,000 acres less than the final revised figures of last year and 13,600 acres more than in the preliminary forecast of last year. Goalpara and Sylhet, the two principal jute-growing districts, are responsible for the decrease on account of the unfavourable market outlook.

3. Stocks.—It has been reported that little jute remains in almost all districts, but in the Sadar subdivision of Goalpara, practically the whole produce of last year still remains with the traders, the reported cause being insufficient transport.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop of Assam for 1918.

DISTRICT.	Normal area under jute.	AREA UNDER JUTE.		DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE FIGURE NOW ESTIMATED FOR 1918 AND THE FINAL OF 1917.		Whether much. Little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1917.	Date by which the sowing of the crop was usually commenced this year and whether that date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS.
		Final of 1917.	Now estimated for 1918.	Increase.	Decrease.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Onchar ...	300	400	100	...	300	No ...	Early in April; normal.	The cultivation of jute has decreased for want of good price in the market. The weather at the sowing time was fair, but the continuous rains in June have obstructed weeding of the crop to a certain extent. The condition of the crop is fair and outturn is expected to be the same as last year.
Sylhet ...	16,000	18,700	16,000	...	2,700	Little ...	End of March; normal.	The good outturn of paddy and poor price of jute last year are responsible for the decrease in area. The weather at sowing time was favourable, but not so afterwards on account of early floods. The damage by floods may extend to 25 per cent. or more in some places. The condition of the crop which is not affected by flood is good and the outturn is expected to be large.
Goalpara ...	42,400	48,400	41,900	...	6,500	In Sadar practically the whole still remains with the traders who could not send to Calcutta for want of sufficient transport. In Goalpara little remains.	March and early in April; normal.	The decrease in area as compared with the finally revised figure of last year is due to the unfavourable jute market. The weather was not very favourable owing to early floods which has caused some damage to the crop. The outturn is not likely to be better than last year.
Kamrup ...	8,100	10,700	10,000	...	700	Little ...	1st April; normal.	The decrease in area is due to want of rain at the time of sowing. The weather has been favourable to the crop in spite of the floods which damaged the crop to some extent. The present condition of the crop is promising and the outturn is likely to be better than last year.
Darrang ...	7,000	7,700	7,000	200	...	Little ...	Middle of April; normal.	The increase in area is due to extension of cultivation by foreign settlers on account of favourable weather. Flood has done slight damage to crop in the Mangaldai subdivision. The present condition of the crop is good and the outturn is likely to be better than last year.
Nowgong ...	2,700	8,000	9,100	200	...	Little remains with the merchants owing to dull market.	15th March; early	The increase in area is due to better price of jute than that of rice and also to influx of immigrants who have taken up much land for jute. The condition of weather is favourable to the crop and better outturn than last year is expected. Floods in Kopili side have done little damage to the crop.
Sibsagar ...	300	400	400	Little remains ...	In Jorhat and Sibsaigar sowing begins by 15th April; normal. In Golaghat by last week of March; early.	The weather has been favourable to the crop and better outturn is expected than last year.
Lakhimpur ...	300	100	100	No ...	1st April; normal.	The unfavourable weather and the looting disturbances in the north bank mauzas and in the North Lakhimpur subdivision at the time of sowing the crop have been the cause of the small area. Rain was excessive at the beginning, but is now normal. The prospects of the crop are now fair.
Jaro Hills ...	4,100	3,000	4,000	...	100	Little jute remains	Middle of April; normal.	The decrease in area, as compared with the final figures of last year, is due to fall in price of jute and want of sufficient rain at sowing time. The weather was not very favourable at the beginning but appears to be good now, and the outturn is expected to be a little better than last year.

CALCUTTA, the 22nd July 1918.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 18th July 1918.

Summary.—During the week heavy rain fell in some of the northern and eastern Bengal districts. The fall was generally light to moderate elsewhere. Transplanting of winter rice is proceeding. More rain is, however, wanted for the operation in the Burdwan Division. Jute and autumn paddy on the low lands of Eastern Bengal have suffered considerably from excessive rainfall and abnormal rise of rivers. The prospects of the standing crops are reported to be on the whole fair. The average price of common rice for the province has slightly risen as compared with that of the previous week.

RESOLUTION—No. 780T.R.

READ—

The Report of the Department of Fisheries, Bengal, and Bihar and Orissa, for the year ending the 31st March 1918.

Previous reports have been prepared for the year ending the 30th June; but, as this date falls in the middle of the fishery season, the period of the report has been altered to the year ending the 31st March. The report now under review deals, therefore, with a period of nine months. Mr. Southwell has been in charge of the Department in 1916, and the vacant post of Superintendent of Fisheries was filled in August 1917 by the appointment of Lala Baini Prashad, to whom the Punjab Government has since conferred the degree of Doctor of Science for original work on the mosquito. Dr. Baini Prashad's appointment, as indicated in the report, has greatly strengthened the scientific side of the Department.

2. The investigation on Hilsa continues to present difficulties which have not yet been surmounted. Artificial fertilisation of eggs has been achieved, but it has not yet been found possible to hatch the eggs. The migratory habits of the fish and their delicacy add difficulties to the work of investigation.

3. The most notable features of the season's work on carp are the increased distribution of carp-fry and the completion of the Delabagh experimental tanks. The numbers of fry distributed by the Department increased from 2½ lakhs in 1915 to 6 lakhs in 1916, and in 1917 there was a further increase to 11½ lakhs. As the demand has now been fully established, the Director has rightly decided that in future the public should pay the cost of freight and earthen vessels as well as the cost price of the fry. It is hoped that the purchasers of fry will attend to the Director's instructions for keeping the fry in small shallow tanks until they grow large enough to have a chance of avoiding the attacks of predatory fish. The first attempt to stock the new Delabagh tanks was a failure, the fish taken from the Sone being attacked by disease. The object of these tanks is to provide a supply of fry which can be guaranteed not to contain an admixture of the fry of predatory fish.

4. The Dacca industries of button-making and Chank bangle-making are in difficulties, the former on account of the shortage and the latter on account of the high price of raw material. The work devoted to the raw material of these industries is, therefore, of much importance.

5. Three new co-operative societies of fishermen were established in Pabna district during the period under review, the total number of such societies up to the 31st March 1918 being 15. The difficulty of inculcating co-operative ideas into the minds of fishermen was noticed in the report of the previous year, and these societies will require unremitting attention.

6. The statistics of fish traffic into Calcutta show imports of 301,254 maunds in the past year as compared with 317,146 maunds in the previous year. The quantity of fish imported is, however, largely in excess of that of any other previous year. The cold storage vans provided on the East Indian and Eastern Bengal Railways dispense with the necessity for ice and should prove of great value to the fish trade. The result of experiments in introducing salted and smoked fish to the Calcutta market will be watched with interest.

7. Mr. Southwell has worked with unabated enthusiasm at the difficult problems with which he is confronted, and the work of the Department is gaining the interest of the public. The Governor in Council has much pleasure in acknowledging the good services of the Director and of his assistants.

By order of the Governor in Council,

L. BIRLEY,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RAMNA (DACCA), THE 24TH JULY 1918.

RESOLUTION—No. 759 T.R.

READ—

- (i) The Report of the Department of Agriculture, Bengal, for the year ending the 31st March 1918.
- (ii) The Reports of the Expert Officers of the Department for the same period.

THE period covered by the annual report of the department has been altered from the year ending the 30th June to that ending the 31st March, because the 30th June falls in the middle of the season of the autumn crops. The period under review this year is, therefore, one of nine months. On the 1st March 1918 the headquarters of the Director of Agriculture were transferred from Calcutta to Dacca. The scientific work of the department has become largely centralized at the Dacca Farm, and it is, therefore, advantageous that the Director should be in very close touch with the work carried on there. Mr. S. Milligan was in charge of the department throughout the year. The Presidency is still without the services of Mr. Aunett, Agricultural Chemist, and Mr. McLean, Deputy Director, Eastern Circle, who have been absent since the autumn of 1916, the former on work connected with the war, and the latter on military duty. Babu Rajeswar Das Gupta, Superintendent of Agriculture, was appointed to officiate for Mr. McLean in the Eastern Circle in November 1917, and the Governor in Council is pleased to observe that in the opinion of the Director his promotion has been justified. Mr. F. Smith was in charge of the Western Circle throughout the year; and Mr. Finlow, Fibre Expert, supervised the work of the Chemical Section throughout the period under report and that of the Botanical Section until Mr. Hector's return from leave in October 1917. As in previous years there was a Superintendent of Agriculture in each of the five divisions. The number of District Agricultural Officers on the 31st March 1918 was twelve, or three in excess of the number on the 30th June 1917. In January 1918 the Government of India approved of a scheme for the formation of a service of District Agricultural Officers. In submitting this scheme the Governor in Council expressed the opinion that an agency of this nature is an essential element in agricultural progress in Bengal, and contemplated the ultimate appointment of a District Agricultural Officer in every district, and the establishment at the headquarters of each district of a small farm of which the Agricultural Officer should be in charge. The reports now under review indicate the extent to which the District Agricultural Officers employed in 12 districts and the farms at Chinsura, Burdwan, Rajshahi, Rangpur and Kalimpong, apart from the Central farm at Dacca, have contributed to the progress attained up to date.

2. The number of students from Bengal at the Sabaur College was 17 as in the previous year. Mr. Milligan remarks on the importance for agriculture in Bengal of questions of irrigation, terracing and drainage and on the need for improving the technical efficiency of the agricultural as distinct from the scientific side of the department, either by recruiting from those having an engineering training, or by training agriculturists in engineering.

3. The normal area under rice in Bengal is 22,024,800 acres, the most important crop being winter rice which represents 41 per cent. of the area, while autumn rice accounts for 23 per cent. and summer rice for 3 per cent. Satisfactory progress has been made in extending the distribution of Indrasail seed for transplanted winter rice. In 1917 2,000 maunds were distributed in 5-seer packets in the districts of Dacca and Mymensingh on the condition that an equal quantity of seed should be returned to the department. This condition has been strictly fulfilled; and if, as is hoped, at least 20 per cent. of the produce has been reserved by the cultivators for use as seed in 1918 sufficient seed will be available for 100,000 acres. Arrangements have been made for the distribution of 5,300 maunds of Indrasail seed on the same lines in 1918. The Nagra variety of transplanted winter rice has proved successful at the Chinsura Farm and arrangements have been made for initiating its distribution in the same manner in Western Bengal. Kataktara autumn rice which has done well at the farms is now under trial in districts of Western and Eastern Bengal with a view to subsequent distribution if results are satisfactory. The examination of long-stemmed deep-water varieties of winter rice in a special tank at the Dacca Farm has been initiated during the past year. Remedies for the ufra disease of broadcast winter rice have continued to receive the attention which they deserve, and the Mycological Collector has been chiefly employed on this work. The scientific study of the parasite has been further pursued by the Imperial Mycologist at Pusa. As explained in last year's report it has been established that the parasite survives in the stubble from year to year between harvest and sowing. The remedy is to deprive the parasite of the stubble on which it lives, and the problem is to find means for applying this remedy. The problem is sought to be dealt with by two alternative methods, the removal of the stubble by burning and thorough cultivation, and the elimination of the stubble by substituting a different crop. Moderate success has been obtained in ufra-infected fields by stubble burning, but the crops on the fields so treated are liable to infection from neighbouring fields. At Pubail, a place notorious for ufra in Dacca district, a piece of low-lying land was terraced into two levels, and in place of deep water winter rice, summer rice was grown on the lower area and jute on the higher area. The cost of this work as carried out by the department was prohibitive; but the experiment may induce cultivators to try similar methods for themselves, and they can probably do the work more cheaply. As Mr. Milligan observes, existing methods of ufra cultivation are primitive, for the land hardly becomes dry before the sowing season, and the problem is to a great extent one of field engineering.

4. The crop of second importance to rice in Bengal is jute which is normally grown on an area of 2,643,800 acres. The Oltorius variety is grown in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions and in Rajshahi district of the Rajshahi Division, and the Capsularis variety in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions and in the remaining districts of the Rajshahi Division. One hundred maunds of the selected Kakya Bombay seed (Capsularis) were distributed in 1917 in 5-seer packets in Dacca and Mymensingh districts on the condition that the recipients should sow the seed separately and keep the whole of the produce for seed for the next year, the produce of 1917 being estimated to give sufficient seed for an average jute holding in 1918. Special care was taken to explain what was intended; and it is satisfactory to learn that 90 per cent. of those who obtained seed kept enough for their own requirements this year, and that seed sufficient for 30,000 acres was in the hands of cultivators of Dacca and Mymensingh at the beginning of 1918. About 600 maunds have been similarly distributed in 1918 in these two districts and in the remaining important Capsularis districts of Tippera, Faridpur, Rangpur, Patna and Bogra. The tests of Kakya Bombay against local varieties initiated in 1916 on fields provided by the local agencies of jute firms were continued in 1917, the comparative plots being reversed. In 1916 the average superiority of Kakya Bombay was 3 maunds per acre, and in 1917 it was 2 maunds per acre, giving a net average superiority of 2½ maunds, a result which has more than justified Mr. Finlow's claim that his selected seed was better than average local varieties by 1½ maunds per acre. Tests at Chinsura and Rajshahi have established as suitable for Western Bengal and Rajshahi a variety of Oritorus jute, known as R. 26 ; and 12 maunds of seed were distributed in small packets for sowing in 1918. Among experiments with manure for jute those in connection with potash are of the greatest interest. The efficacy for jute of potash obtained from the water hyacinth has been established, and potash has been found to be a preventive of the disease Rhizoctonia, which is a phenomenon of potash starvation common in the red soils of Eastern Bengal. Further experience with water hyacinth ash has shown that stunted hyacinth plants do not contain a high enough proportion of potash to make it profitable to convert them into ash for sale, and that such plants should be rotted and used locally for manure, only deep water plants being converted into ash. The soil survey of the Presidency has been continued : as would be expected the old alluvium (red laterite soil) has the most marked deficiencies, the red soil of Eastern Bengal lacking phosphoric acid, lime and potash, and that of Western Bengal lacking the two former elements. Mr. Finlow has been led by the shortage of flax to make experiments with sunn hemp which promise valuable results. Jute is not strong enough as a substitute for flax for the manufacture of canvas, and sunn hemp in its normal state is too rough for spinning. Mr. Finlow has elaborated a softening process which makes sunn hemp fibre suitable for spinning, and the suitability of the thread for canvas is now under investigation.

5. The work on sugarcane has shown satisfactory progress. Out of 51 varieties selected for tests, 41 have been eliminated. The tests which are applied are sugar content and fitness for local conditions, which vary greatly throughout the Presidency. Among exotic canes Yellow Tanna and Java 247 have proved successful and of local varieties Gandari (Dacca), Vendamukhi (Rajshahi) and Samsara (Burdwan) are the most popular. The exotic canes give the best yield but are inclined to deteriorate. There is an increasing demand for sugarcane cuttings from the Government farms, and though nearly 500,000 were distributed during the year the demand far exceeds the supply. New farms at district headquarters will facilitate the supply of this demand. In the meantime the assistance of local agriculturists in growing superior cane with a view to the distribution of cuttings by sale is much needed ; and the Governor in Council would be glad if members of Agricultural Associations would undertake this business of distribution.

6. The policy laid down by Government for the Rangpur Cattle Farm is being followed. During the year a pedigree Hansi bull was purchased from the Cawnpore Military Dairy Farm, and there are two full grown Bengal bulls, and 99 cows on the farm. Seventy-one cows were purchased during the year to replace those which were not considered to be of good enough quality. Two distinct herds are maintained, one of indigenous cattle and the other of cross bred : the change of bulls is reported to have brought about an improvement in the stock. On the cultivable area of the farm fodder crops are now chiefly grown.

7. The report affords evidence of the increasing interest which is being taken by the general public in the work of the department. The assistance of the local agents of jute firms has been invaluable to Mr. Finlow in testing his Kakya Bombai seed. The good work of the District Agricultural Associations of Rangpur, the 24-Parganas and Malda, of the Thana Agricultural Associations in Birbhum, and of the Panchayats in Dacca district has earned the thanks of the officers of the department. Mr. Smith's report shows that the District Associations in most districts of Western Bengal suffer from the want of District Agricultural Officers to help them in their work. He reports that in each district there are earnest workers whose numbers can easily be increased when officers are available to help them.

8. The continued rise in the prices obtained for home reeled silk is reported to have resulted in a considerable increase in the area under mulberry in Bengal. The effects of improved prices are also shown in the financial results of the supply of seed-cocoons from the Government nurseries, the receipts for the nine months under review being Rs. 32,563 compared with

Rs. 16,829 and Rs. 28,737 in the full years 1915-16 and 1916-17. Nevertheless Babu A. C. Ghose, the Superintendent of Sericulture, reports that the silk industry is rapidly disappearing in Bogra district on account of the high wages of labour and the superior attraction of jute. Sericultural work was continued on the same lines as in previous years. The new features of the work were the introduction of the more accurate method of detecting pebrine in moths advocated by the Imperial Agricultural Bacteriologist, and the setting apart of the Sericultural Nursery at Berhampore for testing on a practical scale the races of silk worms which have been reared by Mr. P. C. Chaudhuri, who is carrying on M. Grangeon's work, and by Miss Cleghorn. The results of these trials will be awaited with great interest. The Governor in Council has not yet received the opinion of the Provincial Silk Committee on the recommendations of Mr. Lefroy, late Imperial Silk Expert.

9. The report of the Weaving Master is of special interest this year on account of the widespread efforts which are being made to revive the home spinning and weaving industries as a remedy for the shortage of cotton cloth. Mr. Pillay has endeavoured to introduce improved "Charkas," or spinning wheels, and looms, and he assisted the Tippera District Board in the equipment of a new technical school, and supplied model "Charkas" which are now being produced locally. In the Kishorganj subdivision of Mymensingh district he introduced flyshuttle looms and the weavers are now turning out dhotis and saris. In consultation with the Co-operative Department he has assisted the purchase of raw materials and the disposal of manufactured articles. Mr. Pillay's report shows that he has visited all the principal weaving centres in the Presidency and has given much practical assistance, and the Governor in Council has no doubt that his efforts will be widely appreciated.

10. Mr. Milligan's report speaks for itself of the many-sided activities of the department which is in his charge and of the valuable work which is being done. The Governor in Council has much pleasure in acknowledging his services and those of the officers who have assisted him, and the support which has been given to him by numerous private individuals.

By order of the Governor in Council,

THE MYSORE DASARA INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION, 1918.

PROSPECTUS.

THE Government of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore have been pleased to direct in their Order No. 9136-85—A. and E. 47-17-39, dated the 13th March 1918, that the Dasara Exhibition of 1918 be held as an All-India Exhibition. The Exhibition will be opened at Mysore on Saturday, the 12th

October 1918, and will continue for a period of 15 days till Sunday, the 27th October 1918.

The Exhibition Committee hope that with special efforts it will be possible to minimise the difficulties of organising such an Exhibition during war time, and their appeal to all parts of India as well as to different parts of the Mysore Province for hearty co-operation and assistance will meet with a ready response.

The main object of the Exhibition is to encourage the arts and industries of the State by presenting a display of the material resources, processes of manufacture and products of the State together with similar products turned out in other parts of India. It is proposed to show not only the methods of manufacture generally in vogue, but also the improvements that are being introduced with the aid of Technical Departments of Government as well as the endeavours of the Economic Conference.

The special features of the next Exhibition will be the arrangement of Exhibition under two main heads :—(1) Raw products and (2) Finished and manufactured goods ; and spacious courts will be provided for the main subdivisions under each of the two heads. Demonstration sheds will be provided for different important industries under the direction of specially invited outside experts and the heads of the Technical Departments of the State. Lectures by distinguished experts will also be arranged to be delivered within the Exhibition grounds in a specially erected lecture hall, and there will also be provided an Education Court, an Amusement Court, an Information Bureau and a Post and Telegraph Office. Arrangements will be made with the Mining Board, Kolar Gold Fields, to exhibit all the processes of this important industry by models and demonstrations as far as possible. The Mysore District Stalls introduced at the Exhibition of 1916 will be further developed, and with a view to prevent repetitions and stimulate better efforts for the providing of high class articles of Mysore workmanship, the Exhibition Committee will, through the District Committees, advance a sum of Rs. 10,000 for judicious distribution according to different arts and crafts to provide the necessary materials and labour and turn out special exhibits under the supervision of the District Economic Superintendents, which will be sold on behalf of the Committee, profits being credited to the artisans.

Special Courts will also be provided for the following Departments :—

Industries and Commerce Department.
Agricultural Department.
Health and Sanitation Department.
Forest Department.
Sericultural Department.

In the Industries and Commerce Department all its activities will be represented, various industrial processes under investigation will also be illustrated, and in the Commercial Section statistics, diagrams and information regarding trade possibilities will be found. The Information Bureau will be in this Section.

The Agricultural Department will have special agricultural machinery, dairy appliances, scientific investigations and processes.

Health and Sanitation Court will have models.

Forest Court will exhibit all the valuable resources of the Mysore Forests and the possibilities for the development of forest industries.

Sericultural Court will display the silk industry of Mysore in all its phases.

Any exhibit that may be sent from outside the State by Provincial Governments and Administrations pertaining to these Courts will be specially welcome, and Government will be addressed to secure their co-operation. Under machinery, a large Court will be provided for display of machinery, prominence being given to all machineries manufactured in India, which will be awarded special prizes. In this Court, power will be supplied to display all such machineries in motion.

Owing to the difficulty of Railway transport, it will be necessary to give sufficient time for the exhibits to reach Mysore, and 25th September has been therefore fixed as the last date for receipt of exhibits. The different Railway Authorities are being addressed to provide facilities for transport and give the usual concessions between the dates, 25th August and 25th September, during which period all booking should be effected. All exhibits which are suitable for the Central Commercial Museum and the District Museums will be purchased by the Committee on their behalf. For the convenience of visitors and to encourage trade, sale-rooms will be provided outside the main enclosure and firms and individuals should apply to the Secretary who will notify terms. Permission to put up temporary buildings in the open grounds on approved designs will also be accorded. For the convenience of persons coming from outside the State in charge of exhibits, accommodation in tents will, as far as possible, be provided next to the Exhibition grounds.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Summer Till Crop of Bengal, 1918-19.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1915-16, the area under till in Bengal has represented about 5·1 per cent. of the total area under till in British India.)

Character of the season.—The season was unfavourable from sowing time up till the beginning of March owing to drought. Light to moderate rain during March and April improved the condition of the crop, but the excessive rain which fell during the months of May and June interfered with harvesting operations and caused great damage, especially in the districts of Mymensingh, Dacca, Pabna and Midnapore.

Acreage.—The total area sown this year is estimated at 169,200 acres as compared with 172,100 acres last year, a decrease of about 1·7 per cent.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of District Officers the average outturn of the crop for the Province works out at 70 per cent. of the normal against the same figure last year. Taking the normal yield at $4\frac{1}{2}$ maunds per acre the gross outturn for the Province is estimated at 18,500 tons against 18,800 tons for last year, a decrease of about 1·6 per cent.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

1	1,000	2,000	1	100	100	February to March.	June	Normal.	The decrease in area this year was due to want of timely rain. The weather was favourable at the beginning, but the rainfall in June was unfavourable to the crop. On the whole, however, a normal crop is expected.
		1,600	1,300	75	85	February	June	Normal.	The decrease in area was due to want of rain at sowing time. The weather was not favourable. About 15 per cent. of the crop was damaged owing to incessant rainfall in June.
		3,600	800	69	62	February.	Latter part of May.	Normal.	The decrease in area is due to the fact that most of the areas under the crop have been put under jute as the people expected a better market for jute this year. Want of rainfall at the time of sowing also accounts for the decrease. Excessive rain at the time of harvesting has caused damage to the crop.
	2,800	2,300	2,700		75	End of February to beginning of April.	End of May to middle of June.	The weather was favourable from the sowing time till May, but subsequently, owing to heavy rains, the outturn has fallen much below the normal. 	13,900	5,700	5,700	86	77	End of February to middle of March.	Middle of June.	Normal.	The unfavourable weather condition just after sowing and continued rainfall during the harvesting time has caused the outturn to fall below the normal.

	26,000	25,000	80	80	80	Middle March.	Middle of June.	Normal.	The weather conditions at sowing time were unfavourable owing to want of rain. Subsequently though the weather became somewhat favourable, it did not improve the outturn.

	8,100	17,600	17,300	80	46	February to April.	June and July.	Normal.	The weather was unfavourable. Owing to prolonged drought the sowing was late. More than 50 per cent. of the crop was damaged by hailstorm and drought.

SPECIAL TREATMENT TO BE ACCORDED TO PERSONS WHO HAVE DONE WAR WORK.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

RESOLUTION—No. 2184P.D.

In order to facilitate the eventual employment in the service of Government of persons who are now employed in connection with the war, and to ensure that they shall be in no way prejudiced by their absence on war service, the Governor in Council is pleased to direct that the following instructions shall be observed by all heads of Departments and offices under the Government of Bengal :—

- (1) In filling up vacancies at the end of the war, preference will be given, in the first place, to men who have rendered satisfactory war service as combatants, and in the second place, to those who have rendered similar service as non-combatants, provided that they are qualified in other respects for the posts in which they seek employment.
 - (2) Commissioners and heads of Departments should exercise freely their power under article 51 of the Civil Service Regulations to extend the ordinary limit of age for admission to the superior pensionable service of the State in all cases where candidates have been precluded from entering that service before the age of 25 merely by reason of the fact that they have been temporarily employed in connection with the war. Time spent on war service will be deducted for the purpose of calculating the age of candidates who would otherwise be over age on demobilization.
 - (3) All persons who enlist in the combatant ranks may, immediately on enrolment, submit an application through their Commanding Officer to the head of the Department of office in which they wish to obtain employment on their return from service. A register of these applications will be maintained in the offices concerned, and the claims of registered applicants, if otherwise qualified and suitable, will receive preferential treatment when they are available for civil duties. Similar applications may be submitted by men employed in a non-combatant capacity through the officers under whom they are serving.
2. It must be understood that the number of posts in Government offices is limited, and that it will probably be impossible to provide employment for all who desire to obtain Government service after the war. His Excellency in Council hopes, therefore, that private employers will be willing to accord similar recognition to the claims of those who have come forward to serve their country in connection with the war.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that copies be forwarded to the other Departments of Government for information and for communication to all officers subordinate to the—

By order of the Governor in Council,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 25th July 1918.

Summary.—During the week moderate to heavy rain fell nearly all over the Province. In some of the western districts, however, more rain is wanted for transplanting of winter paddy seedlings. The flood water in Eastern Bengal is slowly subsiding. Jute is being harvested in Eastern Bengal, but in Western Bengal weeding is still in progress though in some places the crop is about to be harvested. The condition and prospects of jute and other autumn crops are fair and those of winter rice promising. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen by about 0·9 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.
